32 Are Killed by Texas Hurricane

HUNDREDS HURT IN RIO GRANDE VALLEY CITIES

Brownsville, Tex., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Twenty persons were killed in and around Brownsville when the most serious gulf hurricane in 60 years hit the city last night and this morning, blowing nearly ten hours in two terrific sections.

Fifteen hundred persons were injured in this general area, including two huge coastal counties, Willacy and Cameron.

With ten dead at Harlingen and two at Rio Hondo, the discovery of the deaths in the vicinity of Brownsville brought the total known dead in the hurricane to 32.

The dead included six in Matamoras, Tamaulipas, Mexico, opposite here, across the Rio Grande. Eleven were injured there.

Cathedral Collapses.

Among the damage done was the collapse of an ancient cathedral, although those killed were not in it at the time. Other property in Matamoras suffered tremendously.

In Brownsville, according to Augustin Celaya, Texas legislative representative for Cameron county, every house, both residential and business, showed marks of the terrific intensity of the storm, although some were only slightly damaged. The total loss would be severe, however, Celaya said.

Of the better known spots, El Jardin hotel suffered only some windows blown in. The Travelers hotel, opposite El Jardin, and the Missouri Pacific railroad station at the foot of the International bridge, suffered less severely.

Celaya said the hurricane struck first at 10 o'clock last night and returned at 5 a. m. today, blowing itself out five hours later.

To Ask State Relief.

Celaya was en route to Austin to ask Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson for relief for immediate needs and for reconstruction of the valley.

W. R. Marler, engineer of a Missouri Pacific train, reported upon his arrival at Kingsville tonight from Brownsville that the bodies of several persons had been found in the hurricane area "and there undoubtedly are at least a hundred more."

A newspaperman, Dan Fowler, who made a trip from Brownsville to McCallen, estimated 200 persons were injured. "The ruin is almost impossible of description," he said. "Small houses have been smashed to kindling wood in the three cities which apparently bore the brunt of the storm, Brownsville, Harlingen, and San Benito. Fronts of brick buildings have been battered to pieces. Debris is everywhere."

The estimate of injured was only tentative, he said, since crippled communications and the littered streets made an accurate check immediately impossible. In his survey, however, he said he found only a few seriously injured, most persons having been struck by small particles of flying glass and wood.

Sees Injured in Mercedes.

"I entered one hospital in Mercedes on the way up from Brownsville," Fowler said. "A small boy was being operated on for a broken leg. Treatment was being given a girl. The hospital authorities said they had treated a large number for minor injuries.

"It is the general belief that most of the injured and the dead will be found in the Mexican districts of these towns, where the houses are of less substantial construction. It probably will be some time before we will know just how many were hurt or killed.

"Brownsville, San Benito, and Harlingen apparently were in the center of the hurricane, which struck in full force about midnight last night. While every one had been warned that the storm would be very severe, many were unprepared for what did happen.

Roar Is Deafening.

"It had been blowing hard all day yesterday, but the first high wind was felt about 11:30 p. m. suddenly the roar of the storm became deafening, and we all knew the hurricane had arrived. The sound of falling signs, tumbling bricks, and shattering glass encompassed everything. The wind was from the northwest and reached

BUZZIN' AGAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 5. — Thirty-seven farmers, including Lady Eve Balfour, daughter of the second earl, were committed to trial today on charges that "they did unlawfully assemble together against the peace of our sovereign lord, the king, his crown and his dignity" as the result of a disturbance during the war against paying tithes.

Committed with Lady Eve were 35 men and Mrs. Margaret Gardiner, on whose farm at Gestingthorpe, Essex, the alleged assembly occurred. There, it is charged, Solicitor G. H. Gibson and Auctioneer M. L. James were imprisoned in a barn while attempting to enforce distraint warrants to collect overdue tithes.

The prosecution contends that more than 100 farmers were in the hostile mob, but that only thirty-seven could be rounded up and accused.

Farmers Jam Courtroom.

Farmers throughout the Essex district jammed the courtroom when the defendants entered the crowded dock. All were individually identified by Gibson and James. Both accusers testified that they were targets for rotten eggs during the squabble in which they were finally released by uniformed police.

The rescuers had to force the barn door, however, and they were threatened with other rustic weapons of war. Some of the farmers, it was brought out by the prosecution, advocated dumping a few beehives among the officers in order to rid the farm of their presence.

Verdict in 10 Minutes.

The defense based its plea on the fact that the prosecution was compelled to prove that all the accused had gathered for the same purpose and that it had failed to do so. The bench of the country magistrates overruled the plea and sent all defendants to trial. The verdict was reached in ten minutes.

"We feel we have been placed in a very unhappy position," said the chairman, "to have to hear these charges against our friends and neighbors, but having heard them we feel we must commit you for trial."

All defendants were allowed their liberty on bail.

English farmers pay $15,000,000 in tithes annually to Queen Anne's bounty. It is a relic of the old church assessment, but since 1926 it has been capitalized at a fixed cash payment designed to eradicate the charge in 60 years. Since 1926 the English farmer has been a victim of falling prices and unable to pay the tithes.

INMATES OF ASYLUM SEIZE 2 GUARDS IN ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE

Matteawan, N. Y., Sept. 6 [Wednesday].—(AP)—Two guards were seized and held prisoners early today by 68 patients in a war in the state hospital for the criminally insane here. Four of the inmates, who fled the ward, were trapped in a "day room" by the force of forty officers or more hastily assembled. One of the men had a revolver, it was learned. The guards were throwing tear gas into the room in an attempt to force the patients out.

In the ward where the two guards were held the inmates smashed windows and furniture and kept up a continuous yell. It was feared that their captives might have been killed.

The inmates locked the door of the ward after they had attacked the guards in an attempted wholesale escape. The outbreak started when one of the patients struck John Diamond, a guard, with a chair and knocked him to the floor. He and one other guard, Wellington Wolfe, were in the ward at the time.

Two other guards were attracted by the fight and rushed to the rescue. They pulled Diamond from the grip of the crazed inmates, but Francis Connelly, one of the rescuers, was pulled in and the door was locked.

Commissioner Carmody, Fire Veteran, Dead

Acting Fire Commissioner Daniel J. Carmody, head of the fire department and considered one of the country's leading exponents of scientific fire fighting, died suddenly of a heart attack last night while talking with friends at Keeler and Ogden avenues.

He had been ill for several months and had been urged only yesterday by Dr. Harold P. Sullivan, chief surgeon of the fire department, to take a rest.

The commissioner promised not to exert himself unduly, but last evening started out on an inspection trip with his chauffeur, Thomas Johnson.

Two Others Join Trip.

On the way they picked up James de Coursey, Chicago representative of a fire equipment manufacturing company, and William Morahan, chief clerk of the equipment division of the department. They then proceeded to Keeler and Ogden avenues to meet John Stackpoole, superintendent of department supplies.

On arriving there, Commissioner Carmody alighted from his car. He collapsed a moment later. Dr. Sullivan was called from his office at 4751 Madison street, but when he arrived the commissioner was dead. Carmody was taken to St. Anthony's hospital, where futile efforts were made to revive him. His widow, Nora, was notified at her home at 628 North Central Park avenue.

Veteran of Department.

Commissioner Carmody was 54 years old, and a veteran of the department. In his thirty-two years of service he rose from fireman to the top. He was regarded as a scholar and in his examinations for promotion generally ranked first.

He joined the department in 1901, became a pipeman in 1902, and a lieutenant in 1907. Three years later he was advanced to a captaincy. Then followed promotions as battalion chief, division marshal, drill master, and chief deputy marshal. As drill master he won national recognition. In 1931 the late Mayor Cermak appointed Carmody acting commissioner, but with the duties and authority of commissioner.

FREIGHT STRIKES FLYER BOUND FROM CHICAGO

Erie Road Wooden Car Smashed.

Binghamton, N. Y., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—Fourteen passengers were killed and thirty others were seriously injured when two rear cars of the Erie railroad's Atlantic Express, east bound from Chicago to Jersey City, were struck from behind by a milk train and demolished at 7:30 o'clock tonight. The train had left Chicago at 11:20 p. m. Monday and was due in Jersey City shortly after midnight tonight.

Most of those killed or seriously hurt were riding in a wooden coach which was next to the last in the passenger train. The heavy steel car on the end of the train completely telescoped the lighter car when the milk train plowed into the standing express.

The passengers on the train were largely excursionists returning from the Chicago World's Fair after Labor day.

Two unidentified bodies, one of a girl about 17 years old and the other of an elderly woman.

The passenger train had made its scheduled stop at the Erie station here at 7:15 p. m. and had resumed its journey. But in the yards a mile east of the station it was halted while some switching was being done.

Crews Are Questioned.

Just what happened next was not clear late tonight as railroad officials refused to make any statement, and the crews of both trains still were being questioned by Deputy Attorney Frank Wooster and Sheriff Charles Kresh.

But it was reported that the passenger train's crew declared that a brakeman, A. C. Morris of Hornell, N. Y., had been sent back to display the usual red flag and lantern and to place warning torpedoes on the main line track between the yards and the station.

M. H. King of Elmira, N. Y., engineer of the milk train, which was bound from Hornell to Hoboken, N. J., was understood to have told the investigators that he failed to see the warning signal until he was almost on top of the halted express. Then he applied the brakes, but it was too late.

Throws Three Cars Off Rails.

Plowing ahead despite the screaming brakes, the freight train picked up the rear steel car of the express and almost flung it through the lighter coach ahead. The shock of the collision threw the last three cars of the express from the track, but the milk train's engine remained on the rails.

Crushed into fragments between the heavier cars ahead and behind, the wooden car was left a mass of tangled wreckage and many of its occupants were pinioned beneath the shattered beams and framework.

The other cars which were forced from the tracks were not so badly damaged, although some of the passengers in the rear car were injured by the shock. The force of the collision also threw passengers from their seats throughout the rest of the express, even in the dining car forward.

Piled up in a twisted heap, the wreckage blocked the main line of the Erie for almost two hours while rescuers sought to extricate the dead and injured from the debris. The ambulance and medical units of the local National Guard were enlisted in the work of freeing them.

Begin First Aid Work.

Nurses and physicians from the Binghamton state hospital for the insane, which is only about a quarter of a mile from the scene of the wreck, hurried to the spot and began the first aid work. As the injured were brought out of the wreckage they were rushed to the Binghamton hospital, which was crowded to capacity by the emergency.

Vermont 25th State to Join Repeal Parade

Montpelier, Vt., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Vermont today joined the repeal movement, the 25th state to vote against the 18th amendment and for ratification of the 21st.

Long listed in the prohibition column, the Green Mountain State upset the hopes of prohibition forces and recorded the complete vote of the 248 towns and cities as: For repeal, 41,279; against, 20,572.

End of Dry Era Near.

Other states to vote this month are: Maine on the 11th, Maryland and Minnesota on the 12th, Idaho and New Mexico on the 19th. On Oct. 10th Florida will vote.

On Nov. 7 voting will be done by North and South Carolina, Ohio, and Pennsylvania, as well as Utah. Kentucky's legislature wants a vote on that date. The latest of the repeal ratification conventions thus far set is that of Ohio for Dec. 7. Repeal is immediately effective after ratification by 36 states. If these states follow the 25 thus far voting they are enough for repeal. Utah's convention date is yet to be set. Kansas, Colorado, and Virginia may vote this year.

Only Two Counties Dry.

A Vermont ticket of 14 delegates to a state convention, to be held Sept. 18, was elected as a group representing each of the 14 counties. The convention will meet at Montpelier.

The victory for the repealists was as sweeping as their predictions. Only two counties were recorded in the dry column, Lamoille, one of the smaller, located in the north central part of the state and with few large communities within its borders, and Orleans, adjoining it on the northeast and of similar rural character.

Prohibition forces had relied largely on the vote of the rural sections, regarded as the dry strongholds, for their support. It was towns in those sections that the few majorities recorded for the amendment were polled. Rutland city went 3,532 to 681 for repeal.

Capital City Goes Wet.

Montpelier, the capital, voted 1,358 to 535 for repeal and Burlington went wet 3,866 to 1,099.

A light vote was recorded, barely half the total cast in the last general election. Despite an active campaign comparatively little interest had been shown by the voters. Leaders attributed this to a feeling that with 24 states already recorded against the amendment and none in its support, Vermont's action could have little effect either way.

The prohibition forces had carried on their work largely through meetings in the churches and campaign addresses by Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes of Washington. The repealists relied largely upon the appeal of the administration in the person of Postmaster General Farley who addressed a rally in Rutland, and an address Saturday night by Representative James M. Wadsworth of New York.

May Keep State Dry.

Even though prohibition should be repealed this year Vermont would continue without hard liquor under its present state law. Beer and wine of 3.2 alcoholic content were authorized by the legislature this year, but a state enforcement act prevents anything stronger.

The legislature is not scheduled to meet regularly until 1935. It is predicted that prohibition will continue as a state issue in the 1934 state campaign. In 1852 a prohibition law was enacted following a state-wide referendum and this remained in effect until 1902 when it was replaced by a local option act that lasted until the 18th amendment.

RADICALS SEIZE POWER IN CUBA; ARMY REVOLTS

American Warships Rushed to Island.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 5.—President Carlos Manuel de Cespedes and his cabinet, which was less than a month old, resigned at 1 o'clock this afternoon and turned the government over to a revolutionary junta of five members. They are Sergio Carbo, Ramon Grau San Martin, Guillermo Portela, Porfirio Franco, and José Miguel Irizarri, representing soldiers, sailors, national police, radical students, and members of the ABC revolutionary organization which led the revolution last month that overthrew the régime of former President Gerardo Machado.

President de Cespedes was in Santa Clara inspecting damage done by the recent hurricane when Cuba's second revolt in a month—bloodless this time—broke early today. He hurried back to Havana as soon as he learned of the rebellion and called a meeting of the cabinet. De Cespedes succeeded the ousted Machado as president on Aug. 12.

Gets Junta's Ultimatum.

De Cespedes went into conference with members of the junta shortly after noon. San Martin acted as the spokesman for the revolutionaries. He told the president that the junta had a mandate from the ABC and OCRR, the students' directorate, labor organizations, and other radical organizations to assume office in his stead.

De Cespedes replied that his government was complying with the revolutionary program. He pointed out that all but one member of the Supreme court had been forced to quit, that arrangements had been made for a constitutional convention, and that steps were being taken to effect a complete reorganization of the army and navy and every department of the administration. He said it was impossible to accomplish all of the revolutionary aims in twenty-five days.

San Martin nevertheless insisted on behalf of the junta that the president and his cabinet resign and De Cespedes signified his willingness to comply.

Fear U. S. Intervention.

A 21 gun salute was fired at Cabanas fortress, across the harbor of Havana, at 2 p. m. as official recognition of the Asociacion Revolucionaria de Cuba [Revolutionary Association of Cuba] as the new government.

With Cuba in the grip of a military junta, the opinion became increasingly prevalent through the day that the United States would be forced to intervene under the Platt amendment to prevent a condition of anarchy in the troubled island republic. The Platt amendment is part of the Cuban constitution and legalizes intervention by the United States.

Already American warships are standing by at Havana and Santiago, prepared to land armed forces for the protection of American lives and property. The destroyer MacFarland arrived at Havana from Key West, Fla., and the destroyer Sturtevant dropped anchor at Santiago, where it hurried from the American naval base at Guantanamo.

Two Warships on Way.

Two other warships are making their way to Havana under forced draft on orders from Washington. They are the destroyer Bainbridge, which left Norfolk, Va., this morning, and the cruiser Richmond, which left the Panama Canal Zone.

Secretary of State Hull in Washington, D. C., emphasized that the United States had not ordered these warships to Cuba with any thought of military intervention, but merely so they should be on hand to protect American lives and property should the situation get out of hand.

In resigning the presidency De Cespedes said:

"Now is the time for others to assume responsibility. I have faithfully fulfilled the program of the revolution of the people. The responsibility now belongs to others."

Junta Demands Recognition.

The revolutionary junta of five announced:

"We have assumed power and have constituted a government. The five commissioners will serve with equal power, except that Guillermo Portela will be the nominal president before the diplomatic corps. We are notifying United States Ambassador Sumner Welles of the change in government and expect prompt recognition."

Portela is a professor of penal law at the University of Havana. He is 48 years of age.

Carbo is a magazine editor and leader of the youth movement. He is 39. He participated in the unsuccessful revolt at Gibara in 1931.

San Martin is a professor of anatomy at the University of Havana. He is 45 and has publicly announced radical views very similar to those of communists. He has been pushed by the students as their choice for president. San Martin has included as planks in his platform the destruction of the present constitutional system of government, the abolition of congress and the presidential cabinet, and the substitution for them of a mixed army and civil dictatorship in the form of a "consultative board of citizens" to advise the government. The president would then govern by decrees.

Irizarri is a lawyer and the author of a land division plan which the De Cespedes régime had under consideration. Irizarri is 48 years of age.

Franco is a banker, aged 45.

Reveals How Plot Began.

Carbo, in explaining the growth of the plot to overthrow De Cespedes, tonight said it was accidentally discovered two weeks ago that former President Mario G. Menocal, who returned from exile in the United States after Machado was deported, was organizing a counter-revolution. He was spreading propaganda among the soldiers and sailors with the idea of effecting a coup similar to the present one.

When radical leaders became fully aware of Menocal's intentions, Carbo said, they decided to beat him at his own game and so organized their own counter-revolution.

"The new revolutionary government is not communist nor socialist, but merely a government that will administer the destinies of the nation with the support of all revolutionary factions," Carbo declared. "One of the first things it will do will be to call a constitutional convention, to be followed by general elections.

Hopes to Better Workers.

"The new government will settle strikes by remedying conditions and bettering the laboring classes in general. The army will be fully reorganized. A tribunal will be appointed to give a fair trial to all those indicted for crimes in connection with the Machado regime."

Carbo said that appointees to cabinet and other official positions by De Cespedes were particularly displeasing to radical leaders, who looked upon them as only lukewarm in their anti-Machado views. The last straw, Carbo said, was when De Cespedes named Gen. Armando Montes chief of staff of the army. Gen. Montes had occupied the same position during Menocal's presidency from 1913 to 1921.

The appointment of Col. Demetrio Castillo Pokorney as secretary of war and navy, and later as secretary of agriculture, commerce and labor, also came under the radical fire. Pokorney had been secretary of public works under President Alfredo Zayas from 1921 to 1925.

Opposed Other Appointees.

The revolutionaries' objection to Gen. Horacio Ferrer as secretary of war and navy was that he also was connected with the administrations of the late José Miguel Gomez and Zayas.

The appointment of Arturo Bofill as chief of Havana police caused dissatisfaction because he was military supervisor of the department of agriculture for five years under Machado.

Sergt. Fulgencio Batista is the soldier who led the revolt in the army. As a reward he was appointed chief of staff of the army tonight. Batista is one of Cuba's best court stenographers. He has reported nearly every military trial in the last eight years.

Emilio Laurent, former lieutenant in the army, who was dishonorably discharged and imprisoned for two years for taking part in the 1931 revolt against Machado, was reinstated and named chief of Havana police to replace Bofill, who has been interned in Cabanas fortress.

Appeal to Civil Employés.

The junta tonight appealed by radio to the 23,000 public employés to keep working. They were assured that so long as they did not aid in the commission of crimes by the Machado régime they would be allowed to remain at their jobs.

All Cuban envoys abroad were notified to advise foreign governments of the change in government.

Sarabasa Blanco, secretary of the revolutionary government, said armed intervention by the United States is not feared. He said that it was logical for the Washington government to adopt precautionary measures by sending warships to Cuba. However, he continued, the new government means to "establish order and it will see that the lives and rights of all foreigners are fully protected."

Recognizes Debts "in Principle."

Blanco said the new government has already recognized all of Cuba's foreign debts in principle, "even those dubious transactions under the Machado régime." He indicated, however, that a moratorium for two years on all foreign debts might be necessary and also a revision of the terms.

"This is a revolutionary government which will govern the republic by virtue of decrees derived from its own revolutionary ideas, which are the result of a well matured and preconceived program," he said. "Each provision is designed to eradicate even the least sign of the corrupt practices which have been in vogue under all past administrations since the republic was established.

Condemns 1901 Constitution.

"The revolutionary government intends ultimately to hand the destinies of the nation over to a permanent constitutional government duly elected. This will take place just as rapidly as the program of political and economic reconstruction can be effected, probably not later than Oct. 10, 1934.

"The present members of the junta are all professional men who have never before taken part in politics. Their ability is unquestioned.

"The new government deems that the 1901 constitution gave rise to all the misgovernment of previous administrations, and will get along without it."

Rafael Suarez Solis, an attorney, has been appointed to form a labor committee to bring about a solution of the various labor disputes now troubling the island. A revolutionary tribunal of not less than seven magistrates will be formed to pass sentences on crimes committed by persons now under arrest.

Welles Has Nothing to Say.

Blanco pointed out that one factor resulting in the counter revolution was the belief that officials appointed by De Cespedes were aiding Machado men to escape from the island with heavy sums of money. Another factor, he said, was the inability of the De Cespedes government to enforce order and prevent further lynchings.

The only official reaction of United States Ambassador Sumner Welles to the developments of the day may be summarized as follows:

"I have nothing to say. I will have nothing to say in the immediate future. I do not know when I will have anything to say."

Army Officers Seized.

The revolution broke out in the early hours of the morning, when soldiers, sailors, and national policemen turned on their officers, routing them from bed to arrest them at the point of machine guns. All officers from lieutenants to generals were included in the roundup.

Camp Columbia, near Havana, was seized by the soldiers, who announced over the radio that they "no longer wish to obey orders from or be under the command of officers who were traitors to the country by supporting Machado's tyranny until the last minute."

These officers, it was charged, had "soiled their uniforms on many occasions with the blood of innocent martyrs attempting to emancipate Cuba from one of the bloodiest autocracies ever known in the world."

Rebel leaders denied that a proposed slash in pay and reduction of army personnel were responsible for their outbreak.

The revolt was effected by about 12,000 army men and 4,000 sailors, the rebel announcement said. Cuba is divided into six military and naval districts, and the insurrection occurred simultaneously in all of them.

The troops, according to the broadcast of their platform, "demand a complete reorganization of the army, the resignation, arrest, and court martial of three-fourths of the present officers, and the resignation of Gen. Ferrer and Gen. Montes.

All Cuban men of war, including 33 gunboats and revenue cutters, were captured by marines and sailors and the decks cleared for action. Searchlights fingered the skies and illuminated the city. Officers were threatened with death unless they resigned.

The mutinous soldiers, sailors, and marines, accompanied by radical ABC and OCRR secret society members, invaded the city at 2:30 a. m. in a search for officers. Those captured were imprisoned in Cabanas fortress, Atares fortress, Morro castle, and at Camp Columbia. Similar scenes were enacted in other army and naval districts.

Machine guns were deployed at strategic points throughout Havana, while Cabanas and Morro castle guns were trained on the presidential palace and La Punta fortress, headquarters of the navy.

As the new revolutionary situation developed, it appeared that a split had occurred in the ranks of the ABC. The radical wing went wholeheartedly with the radical students to join the mutinous elements, but the conservative wing refused to go along. The Fascist trend of the "conservative" members of the ABC was criticized by junta members.

REPAIR PLANE

Senator William Gibbs McAdoo of California, former secretary of the treasury, arrived in Chicago on the Santa Fe train yesterday morning with his wife and two daughter, Mary Faith and Eleanor. A few hours after they registered at the Blackstone hotel Mr. McAdoo motored to the Chicago airport to proceed alone to Washington, D. C., in his private plane. When it developed the plane was in need of repairs Mr. McAdoo made reservations on a United Airlines plane and left the city at 5:30 p. m. At the hotel it was said Mrs. McAdoo and her daughters planned to follow him to the capital this morning.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Sept. 5.—Although some 13,000 men are engaged in exercises between the "red" and "blue" armies in eastern France, no troops are visible. That is one of the principal features of this new method of warfare.

The infantry has disappeared. There are no more of those quick advances of long lines of men deployed across the country, each with a rifle and pack, taking cover every few minutes and starting off again, which have been characteristic of army maneuvers.

Everything has been motorized and the rifle and bayonet no longer seem to have such great importance. The whole war game has become a matter of quick concentration of men with machine guns by motor, and these are camouflaged with branches. There is no cavalry in these maneuvers. On the other hand, there is an enormous increase in the number of motorcycles, tanks mounted with machine guns, and armored cars.

CUBAN REVOLT SURPRISES HULL; HE TELLS POLICY

Denies Warships Mean Armed Intervention.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—With American warships again standing guard over Cuba, officials at the state department grieved today over the ashes of what has been celebrated as their master stroke.

Having accepted plaudits all around for their masterful handling of the Cuban situation, the secretary of state, Mr. Hull; the assistant secretary of state, Mr. Caffery, and the American ambassador to Cuba, Mr. Welles today ruefully observed the havoc done to the diplomatic niceties by a force of radical minded Cuban common soldiers who defied their own officers, took charge of the Cuban government, and forced the withdrawal of the still young De Cespedes government.

Denies Armed Intervention.

In sending the four warships to Cuba, on the orders of President Roosevelt, Mr. Hull denied that this constituted armed intervention. The secretary stressed the statement that this was not American intervention any more than when the ships were dispatched to Cuba after the establishment of the De Cespedes régime.

It was made plain the American government is as anxious as it ever was to avoid asserting its parental right, under the Platt amendment, to force an orderly government upon the Cubans. But some officials privately admitted that not in many years had the possibilities of a forced intervention by the United States been so great.

For the present, the state department officials and this included Ambassador Welles, were trying to find out what the new revolution was all about. Secretary Hull was getting most of his information from the newspapers, it was plain, and apparently Mr. Welles had little knowledge of what had taken place or what its significance might be.

It was explained that the telephonic connection between Havana and Washington was bad, undoubtedly due to the hurricane, which swept over the Caribbean. Mr. Hull therefore had the greatest difficulty in understanding Ambassador Welles' phone conversation. This added to the confusion at the department until it was decided that Mr. Welles might telegraph his information.

When it was suggested to the department that Mr. Welles had forgot to touch second base in his dealings with the various revolutionary and political factions of Cuba, an admission was obtained that from the advices received by Secretary Hull, it appeared that the element which put over this morning's bloodless revolution had not been consulted during the Welles negotiations with Cuban leaders for a solution to the island's economic and political difficulties.

It was denied, however, that Mr. Welles had erred and was asserted in his behalf that he could hardly have known of the plan for this latest revolution, as President de Cespedes and his cabinet knew nothing of its inception. The Cuban president was many miles from Havana at the time of the outbreak, inspecting the damage done by the hurricane.

Excuses for Welles.

The warships sent to Havana were the destroyers McFarland, which was at Key West and steamed into Havana harbor; the destroyer Sturtevant, which was sent from the American naval base at Guantanamo, Cuba, to Santiago de Cuba; the destroyer Bainbridge, ordered to Havana from off Norfolk, and the cruiser Richmond, directed to proceed to Havana from the Canal Zone.

The Richmond has a detail of marines aboard, but it was declared at the state department that for the present no American troops will be landed. The department was notified that the revolutionaries have placed soldiers to guard all foreign embassies and legations, and all foreign banking houses, against the possibility of attacks from carousers or looters. Ambassador Welles apparently had no fear of an attack on the American embassy.

President Roosevelt still was aboard the Astor yacht Nourmahal this morning when Secretary Hull notified him by wireless of the overthrow of the De Cespedes government. Mr. Hull, awakened at daybreak by Ambassador Welles' telephone call, told the President he had asked the navy department to notify the commanders of the four vessels to proceed to Cuba, subject to approval from the President. Mr. Roosevelt immediately confirmed the Hull decision.

Later, today, Secretary Hull, Secretary of the Navy Swanson, and Assistant Secretary Caffery held a long conference with the President in the White House, but it was announced that pending the receipt of more definite news from Cuba, the orders would be unchanged.

Gives Us Special Rights.

The right of the United States to intervene in Cuban affairs is established under the Platt amendment to the Cuban constitution, under which the government of Cuba "consents that the United States may exercise the right to intervene for the preservation of Cuban independence and the maintenance of a government adequate for the protection of life, property, and individual liberty."

Inquiry at the state department as to how far the revolutionaries would have to go before the United States would land troops and take charge of the government failed to get a definite reply.

It apparently is the intention of the department not to intervene, except as an absolute last resort.

Assistant Secretary of State Caffery, who is slated to relieve Ambassador Wells in Havana on Sept. 15, Mr. Welles to exchange posts with Caffery, had a speech all prepared for delivery tonight at a meeting in Washington. It was to discuss Central American affairs in general and Cuban affairs in particular. He rewrote his comments on Cuba.

CUBAN LEADERS HOPE LATEST REVOLUTION "WILL BE FOR BEST"

HAVANA, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Two leaders of factions opposed to the régime of Gerardo Machado commented briefly tonight on developments of the day in Cuba.

Former President Mario G. Menocal, who directed activities of the anti-Machadistas exiled in Miami prior to the Machada overthrow, said:

"I think everything will come out all right."

Miguel Mariano Gomez, former mayor of Havana:

"The situation is difficult. I do not think it is hopeless. I am now trying, unsuccessfully, to get in touch with the new government to learn its plans."

Col. Carlos Mendieta's followers—the Nationalist Union—would make no announcement. Neither Mendieta nor Col. Roberto Mendez Penate, another prominent Nationalist, could be located.

MACHADO REFUSES TO RETURN TO CUBA; MUM ON NEW REVOLT

MONTREAL, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Gerardo Machado, deposed president of Cuba, today reversed his stand and said he now was unwilling to return to his country immediately to face either civic or military trial.

The former executive declared Sunday upon his arrival here from Nassau, in the Bahamas, that he would return to Havana if given guarantees of personal safety.

"What good is their guarantee of safety to myself, if they cannot even protect themselves?" he said today in response to a statement by Dr. Horacio Ferrer, then Cuban secretary of war, that such guarantees would be given.

Machado would not comment on the coup which today swept out the government of President de Cespedes.

BRITON ELECTED HEAD OF FOREIGN PRESS IN BERLIN

BERLIN, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The Foreign Press association today elected Norman Ebbutt, correspondent for the London Times, as its chairman, replacing Edgar Ansel Mowrer of the Chicago Daily News, who has left Berlin.

In a farewell letter read at the meeting Mowrer said he had quit on the advice of the American embassy because the German government had intimated it would not be responsible for his safety if he remained.

The association has been under boycott because it refused to accept Mowrer's offer to resign, which was made after the government objected to his book, "Germany Turns the Clock Back." About a dozen members of the association have left Berlin because they found it impossible to work under present conditions.

FIND MAXIE EISEN GUILTY; GETS SIX MONTHS IN JAIL

Maxie Eisen's reputation got him a six months' jail sentence yesterday. Sam Battaglia's reputation put his two lawyers into temporary custody and made a fugitive of him.

The cases of Eisen and Battaglia were on the call of Judge Thomas A. Green of the Felony court. Both were arrested in the drive inaugurated by Chief of Detectives Schoemaker against persons with criminal reputations. Warrants for these men were issued by Judge Green under a new state vagabond law.

Eisen has been long known as a racketeer. He is head of the fish merchants' association and formerly was racket boss of the Jewish Butchers' association.

No Legal Occupation.

Chief Schoemaker, Lieut. Arthur Katt, and four other policemen testified in Judge Green's court that Eisen is known as a "gangster, a violator of the criminal laws, a man reputed to be always armed and with no legal occupation."

Leon Jarinkes, restaurant owner at 201 North Union street, followed the policemen to the witness stand.

"In 1927 or 1928 Eisen came to me and demanded $1,000," Jarinkes testified. "I tried to get it and only had $100 when he next appeared. He threw the $100 in my face and told me my place would be bombed. A few days later it was bombed."

"That's enough for me," said Judge Green, who tried Eisen without a jury. "I'm sorry I can't make the sentence longer than six months."

Attorney Samuel Hoffman told Judge Green during the morning that he represented Eisen. He said he was engaged in a trial in another court and would be unable to be present at 2 o'clock, the hour set for Eisen's trial, and he wanted a delay. Judge Green was noncommittal.

Obtains New Attorney.

At 2 o'clock Eisen obtained the services of Attorney Harry Busch, who said little during the trial. He put nine west side fish dealers on the stand to testify that Eisen's reputation was all right, but under fire from Judge Green they did not appear to be impressive character witnesses. Judge Green said he needed no arguments by counsel. Eisen was locked in a cell in the Marquette district police station after his attorney served notice of appeal.

Battaglia's case was called. Attorneys Edward S. King and Sidney Korshak stepped to the bench. They said Battaglia's case was on call last Saturday and he was present but Judge Green did not hold court that day. Therefore Battaglia did not know he was due to appear yesterday, the lawyers said.

"You attorneys are in contempt of court," Judge Green announced. "The bailiffs will take you into custody."

One lawyer was held in an anteroom and the other in the jury box. Judge Green turned to Miss Jeanette Roth, court reporter, and told her to take down in shorthand only what he directed her to take, and nothing else. He then declared that policemen, lawyers and some judges seemed to be under gangster influence.

Orders Bond Forfeited.

He ordered the $10,000 bond of Battaglia forfeited and set new bonds at $30,000. The court then told Chief Schoemaker that if other judges ever reduced bail set by him Schoemaker should make a list of such judges and publish it. Then he directed the bailiffs to free Attorneys King and Korshak.

In the morning Judge Green granted a jury trial to Michael "Bubs" Quinlan, south side gang leader named in a vagabond warrant. This morning Machine Gun Jack McGurn, alias Vincent Gebhardi, who was seized as he was participating in a golf tournament at Olympia Fields, is scheduled for trial as a vagabond before Judge Green.

Chief Schoemaker said the war on known criminals has driven most of them out of the city.

"In the last 24 hours there were only four robberies in the city, and the robbers only obtained $34.65," Chief Schoemaker declared. "That's the best result of our drive."

Bert Delaney, former brewmaster for the Capone syndicate, and Ralph Buglio, a Capone gunman, who were named in warrants previously issued, surrendered yesterday and will be arraigned today before Judge Green. Judge Joseph H. McGarry, who has issued fifty vag warrants for pickpockets, issued sixteen more yesterday.

Charles L. Schmidt, 60 years old, a Melrose Park coal dealer, yesterday shot and killed his wife, Bertha, 40 years old, and then inflicted a wound on himself which resulted in his death.

The shooting occurred in their home at 1612 Main street in the suburb, where Schmidt had his coal yard. A quarrel between the couple started over the table at lunch, a son, Harry, 17 years old, told police. Schmidt accused his wife of going out with other men. She denied it, and when he rose and pushed her she scratched his face.

"Father went upstairs," said the son. "I thought he was going to wash the scratches on his face, but he came back with a revolver. I pushed him into the pantry, but he threatened to shoot me and I ran out the back door. Mother ran toward the front stairs. When I got outside I heard several shots."

Schmidt shot his wife twice after overtaking her at the foot of the stairs. She staggered to the second floor, where she fell, dead. He then fired a shot into his left lung, close to the heart. He was taken to the Westlake hospital.

The Schmidts also had a daughter, Viola, 11 years old, who was in school at the time. They were married in 1914. Mrs. Schmidt was his fourth wife, and he had several children by previous marriages.

KILLS HIMSELF WITH KNIFE.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 5.—Despite official attempts to keep his visit private, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh left the Royal Automobile club by the kitchen door this morning to keep an appointment with Gen. Eric Virgin, Swedish aviation chief, in the offices of the army general staff.

Three policemen were stationed at the main entrance to the club to keep back a small army of newspaper men and photographers. By the time they arrived at Gen. Virgin's offices they found Col. Lindbergh had gone to pay a call on Count Folke Bernadotte, with whom he took luncheon.

Mrs. Lindbergh's room today was filled with flowers from the admiring populace of Stockholm. This morning's newspapers announced that the Lindberghs' dinner with the United State's minister, Laurence A. Steinhardt, last night consisted entirely of milk and crawfish, an unusual menu in a country where the national beverages are schnaps and beer. Some newspapers suggest that the purpose of Col. Lindbergh's visit is to engage Swedish airmen as pilots for his projected trans-Greenland service.

H. H. WHITMAN, HEAD OF WOOLEN FIRM, IS TO WED

New York, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Hendricks H. Whitman, head of the American Woolen company and former Harvard tennis star, obtained a license today to marry Miss Pauline Danforth, prominent Boston pianist.

Whitman's marriage to the former Adelaide Chatfield-Taylor, Chicago society woman and playwright, was ended by a divorce last year.

After marrying Miss Danforth, probably tomorrow, Whitman and his bride will sail to Bermuda on a wedding trip. On their return they will live in New York.

Miss Danforth, who gave her age as 32, fifteen years her fiancé's junior, has played privately for Queen Marie of Rumania.

BEGIN WORK ON COAST GUARD'S RADIO STATION

Installation of a powerful radio plant at the Wilmette coast guard station, to be used for communication and the interception of S O S calls on Lake Michigan, was begun yesterday. It will be completed and in service in three weeks. The station will serve Lake Michigan principally, although powerful enough to receive and transmit messages from more distant places. Chief Radio Officer Edward Horrigan and seven men will operate the station. Additional equipment now being installed at Wilmette will include a teletype and telegraph system upon which radio messages to other coast guard stations on the lake may be transmitted.

DRUGGAN-LAKE OLD BEER FIRM SEEN BANKRUPT

Involuntary bankruptcy proceedings were instituted in the United States District court yesterday against the Mutual Ice and Beverage company, formerly one of the chain of Druggan-Lake breweries. A petition was filed by the law firm of Russell, Murphy, and Quigley in behalf of the Oakwood Beverage company and three other creditors with claims aggregating $2,000.

The alleged bankrupt company's application for permission to operate a brewery was recently denied for the third time by E. C. Yellowley, federal district supervisor of permits.

Yamaguchi and Yamagata prefectures in Japan reported three known dead and ten missing.

Rengo (Japanese) News agency reported from Seoul, capital of Corea, 14 killed and 13 missing. Hundreds of houses in southern Corea were reported partially flooded.

BATTLE IN STREET AFTER MOOCHER ASKS FOR DIME

Winfield Christmas, 22 years old, 751 Rush street, who says he is the son of the late Central American soldier of fortune, Gen. Lee Christmas, appeared yesterday before Municipal Judge John J. Rooney charged with assault after a fist fight.

Christmas and a companion, Cyril DeVay, 22 years old, also of the Rush street address, were escorting two girls along North Michigan avenue early yesterday morning when they were accosted by a colored panhandler who asked for a dime. Christmas struck the Negro on the nose and a battle started in which DeVay and several passersby joined until stopped by the police, who took them all to the Chicago avenue station.

There L. G. Reymiller of the Croydon hotel, 616 Rush street, charged that either Christmas or DeVay drew him into the battle by hooking a can around his leg as he was watching the fray. DeVay and Christmas said he rushed into the fight.

Christmas said he had been working as a bellboy at a hotel at 1036 North Dearborn street where DeVay is waiter. Judge Rooney continued their case until today.

BANDITS ROB OIL STATION.

Four bandits held up three employés of a gasoline filling station of the National Petroleum corporation at 1147 North Central Park avenue early yesterday, obtaining $250 in cash and $1,028 in checks.

STATE OFFICIALS MEET; WARNED OF RISING TAXES

Government Up 355% in 20 Years, Lucas Says.

Costs of government—federal, state, and local—have increased during the 20 years from 1913 to 1933, so that the citizen now has to pay 256 per cent more taxes than he did at the beginning of the era. The aggregate expense of government in the United States during the period increased a total of 355 per cent.

These were the assertions yesterday of Scott Lucas, chairman of the Illinois state tax commission, at the opening meeting of the convention of the National Association of State Auditors, Comptrollers and Treasurers at the Congress hotel. The percentages and costs cited by Mr. Lucas were compiled by auditors from records of the bureau of the census in the department of commerce at Washington.

Higher Pay for Officialdom.

Most of the increases in taxes are represented by increases in salaries of governmental officials, Mr. Lucas said. The increase of 160 per cent in the average salaries of school teachers during the ten years from 1920 to 1930 is representative. The other major reason for the rising costs of government is in the large additions to personnel, especially in federal and state offices, he declared.

"For comparative purposes in the discussion of the tremendous increase in taxation," said Mr. Lucas, "let us use the year 1913 as a base. In that year the total cost of our government, including the state, federal, and local bodies, was two and a quarter billions of dollars. This is at the rate of $23 per capita.

"In 1930 the total bill amounted to ten billions of dollars, or at the rate of $84 per capita. The per capita figures do not take into account the fact that the population of the country has made large increases during the two decades.

256% Increase in Tax Load.

"Considering the cost increases alone, in the short space of seventeen years the aggregate burden of taxtion had increased in these United States eight billions of dollars, or 355 per cent. The average per capita tax burden has jumped by a total of 256 per cent.

"Probably the greatest single factor which caused a constant increase in taxes since 1920 has been the constant increase in salaries and wages on the whole in all public offices until after 1929. During that same period, ironically enough, there was a constant decrease in the prices of commodities, until last year we witnessed the lowest prices for grains and cottons in the history of our nation."

"Public school teachers constituted over one-third of all public employés in 1927, and their increase in wages over the average in 1913 was 160 per cent. The salary increase for federal employés in Washington was only 63 per cent.

Heavy Gain in Personnel.

"While the salary increases for governmental employés in Washington were below the general increase in wages, the actual increase in personnel was so heavy that it became alarming to all taxpayers in America.

"As an example, the department of agriculture at Washington in 1900 had 3,500 employés, while in 1931 more than 28,000 were on the pay roll, telling the farmers of the nation just what to do under any and all circumstances.

"While this horde of experts and employés was feeding at the public trough, agriculture sank to its lowest level in all history. And what was true in the agriculture department was true in every other. Last January there were more than 700,000 employés on the rolls in Washington.

The federal government was bad, but state and local taxing bodies were worse, Mr. Lucas said. The per capita tax increases during the 20 years ranged from 109 per cent in Montana to 564 per cent in Delaware, he asserted.

Warns of Realty Burden.

Another trend in taxation, Mr. Lucas said, is the tendency to increase the tax burden which real estate carries. In 1913 the general property tax supplied 58 per cent of all tax revenues. Within ten years, he said, the state and local governments were extracting 74 per cent of their revenues from real estate.

"May I say most emphatically from my experience as chairman of the Illinois tax commission, that this percentage of revenue must decline until real estate carries as a maximum not over 50 per cent of the tax load," Mr. Lucas said.

The meeting, which will continue until Friday, was opened by an address of welcome to delegates from State Auditor Edward J. Barrett. City Controller Robert B. Upham also made a welcoming speech. The business sessions of the convention will be carried on in the mornings and the delegates will visit A Century of Progress Exposition each afternoon and evening.

FALLS OFF LADDER; DIES.

RICHARD ADAMS.

GIRL AND MAN SEIZED BY U. S. AS COUNTERFEITERS

Suspect Pair of Passing $50,000 Bogus Money.

Richard Adams, 38 years old, alias Bob Marks, an escaped convict, and Miss Lila Adcox, 25 years old, a brunette, who are believed to have manufactured $50,000 worth of counterfeit $10 notes within the last year, were captured yesterday. They were held to the federal grand jury a few hours later on charges of possessing and manufacturing counterfeit money.

At the arraignment yesterday afternoon before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker, Adams tried to shield his companion. His attempt failed. Her bond was set at $20,000 and Adams' at $60,000.

Capture Follows Earlier Arrests.

The arrests, termed one of the most important in several months in the government's drive on counterfeiters, were the result of arrests made recently in two widely separated towns. George Stevens, alias Woody Sears, another alleged counterfeiter, was seized at Morley, Mo., and a Ruth Boyer was arrested at Bowling Green, Ky.

Adams and Miss Adcox were waiting for a bus at the Union Bus station at Roosevelt road and Wabash avenue yesterday while secret service agents were watching them.

After some time one of the agents approached Adams and asked him if he was waiting for George Stevens. Adams, evidently supposing the agent to be Stevens, immediately replied that he was. The agents then arrested Adams and Miss Adcox.

Agents then took the couple to the hotel where they had registered a short while before, and searched their room. They found five suitcases stuffed with counterfeit $10 federal reserve bank notes and complete equipment for their manufacture.

Find Counterfeiting Equipment.

The counterfeit notes, a hand press, twelve copper plates, bottles of inks and chemicals, and paper suitable for counterfeit money were introduced as evidence by Capt. Thomas J. Callaghan before Commissioner Walker a few hours later.

"This girl didn't know what she was carrying," Adams said in trying to absolve Miss Adcox. "I was entirely to blame and I will waive examination and plead guilty."

Commissioner Walker declared the young woman must have known of the counterfeiting operations and he fixed her bond at $20,000 for possession of the notes. In setting Adams' bond Commissioner Walker said that if bail were provided on the counterfeit charge he could be immediately rearrested as a fugitive from justice.

According to Capt. Callaghan, Adams escaped two years ago from a federal prison camp on Staten Island, where he had been taken from Atlanta penitentiary, while serving a four year sentence for counterfeiting imposed in New York.

BY EARL MULLIN.

More than 200 airplanes, the largest nonmilitary flight to visit Chicago, will roar over the loop this afternoon to do honor to the pioneers of the air who carried the first mail between New York and Chicago fifteen years ago. Civilian flyers, mail pilots, who have converged on Chicago from all parts of the country, and a military squadron from Selfridge field, Mount Clemens, Mich., will join the air armada to present a colorful and thrilling program for Air Mail Pilots' day at the Fair.

Among the pilots participating in the events of the day are names to conjure with in aviation circles. Chairman of the day is Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, and among the pilots

Anniversary of First Air Mail.

The program will be a tribute to the memory of Max Miller, who landed in Grant park fifteen years ago today with the first load of regularly scheduled air mail from New York, and to Edward Van Buren Gardner, who landed the following morning with the second load. Both pilots later lost their lives in the air mail service.

Planes today will drop wreaths at the foot of Monroe street, where a propeller marks the spot of Miller's landing, and Capt. Lon Yancey, New York to Rome flyer, will land in an autogyro about 2:30 o'clock to place a wreath on the memorial.

Frank Watson Luther, chairman of the committee in charge of the program, announced last night that 200 planes would take part in the ceremonies. After the memorial rites in Grant park the flyers will go to the Fair for a program in the court of the Hall of Science.

Tribute by Fair Officials.

The contingent will be met at the Court of Honor at the 14th street entrance by the troops from Camp Whistler and officials of the Fair. A program of speeches and music will be presented to do honor to the early flyers, who gave their lives that the mail might go through.

Capt. Rickenbacker, chairman of the day, will be introduced by Maj. Reiner and will give a short address of appreciation for the pioneers of American aviation. Speakers will include Harry S. New, United States commissioner to the Fair; Senator William H. Dieterich, Dr. Otto L. Schmidt, president of the Chicago Historical society, and Capt. B. B. Lipsner of Chicago, first chief of the United States air mail service. President Rufus C. Dawes of the Fair will welcome the visiting flyers and will review the part aviators have had in the century of progress.

Fifteen Early Birds to Attend.

Distinguished guests will include fifteen of the Early Birds, a group of eighty veterans of aviation, members of the south parks commission, and city officials. Last night the pilots gave a dinner at Hotel Sherman to honor Capt. Rickenbacker.

Ending the day's festivities will be a program of free entertainment and street dancing in the Rainbow gates area near the south end of the grounds.

Officials expect that the colorful program presented by the flyers will again lift the Fair attendance over the 200,000 mark. With only routine attractions yesterday after a week-end of special features, attendance dropped to the average of the last week. At 11:30 p. m. the attendance was 132,133

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

Fannye Nutt of Savannah, Ga., the winner of a state popularity contest conducted by the American Legion, visited the Fair yesterday. She was escorted around the grounds by members of the Cook County Legion and was taken for a tour of the lagoon by Commander Harry Rice of the lagoon fleet.

The record breaking crowds of the week-end, in conjunction with the attractions of Automobile week at the Fair, caused the visitors to the various automobile exhibits to double, officials announced yesterday. From an average of 108,000 visitors over the preceding ten day period the attendance at General Motors jumped to an average of 173,000 over the week-end. Chrysler officials announced that their crowds had doubled. The Firestone exhibit gained an average of 27,000 visitors a day over the week-end, maintaining a daily average of 124,323 visitors. In the Travel and Transport building the automobile and accessory displays were packed all three days.

The Chicago Musical college junior players will give two performances of "Sara Crewe, the Little Princess" Saturday afternoon in the Little theater on Enchantend island. All performers are children ranging in age from 6 to 16 years.

A waiters' race will be staged tomorrow over a course from the Firestone building on Leif Ericson drive to a line just south of the Hall of Science. Each waiter must appear in uniform and be an employé of a concessionaire on the Fair grounds. On one arm the waiter will carry a towel, and in the other hand a tray with two glasses of beer and a small dish of hard rolls. Awards will be given by the Fair. The race starts at 4 p. m.

A new process for extracting oil from soya beans has been developed in the laboratories of the South Manchurian railway, officials of the company's exhibit announced yesterday, and has been patented by the Japanese government. The beans are rolled and heated in alcohol, extracting the oil, which is soluble in hot alcohol. When the alcohol is cooled the oil comes out of solution, giving a product less odorous and clearer.

The fourteen millionth visitor will enter the Fair grounds this morning to be greeted with a full beauty treatment, be the visitor man or woman. Tickets to various concessions, a World's Fair medal and a reception by Fair officials will also be given the honor guest. The Fair had expected to welcome the honor guest last night but attendance fell to a low for Tuesdays, due, officials believed, to the fact that a majority of the out of town visitors saw the Fair over the week-end.

Gaston Baruk, wealthy Cuban industrialist, visited the Fair yesterday as the guest of Jack Benabou, resident manager of the Moroccan village. He will spend several days visiting the Fair, expressing particular interest in the industrial exhibits. A special dance and floor show, featuring Julia Taweel, eastern dancer, was given in his honor in the Morocco café.

Stella Royle, one of the belles of Midget village, was insured yesterday for $50,000 against growing taller. She will collect $10,000 for each inch she grows, acting on the medical advice of Dr. Don C. Sutton of Northwestern university, who examined her and found that she had grown an inch in the last year.

Gold specimens from Colorado mines, valued at $25,000 and containing $15,000 in real gold, have been placed on exhibition in the Colorado exhibit in the Hall of States.

The assembly line in the General Motors building, where Fair visitors see a Chevrolet automobile constructed before their eyes, now starts operation at 1 p. m. and is in continual operation until 10 p. m.

FAIR VISITORS' ROOMS ASSURED UNDER NEW PLAN

Visitors to the World's Fair will be assured that they will find hotel reservations made in advance waiting for them when they reach Chicago, under a plan arranged yesterday by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Working with World's Fair officials, railroads, and hotel association, the Association of Commerce arranged that whenever a prospective Fair visitor purchases, in any city in the United States or Canada, an all expense tour to Chicago, a telegram will be sent to the hotel clearing house in Chicago and his reservation set aside at once. More than 100,000 railroad station agents all over North America are busy pushing the sale of all expense tours to the Fair.

For the convenience of visitors who come to Chicago without making hotel reservations and find some of the larger hotels filled to capacity, a rooming pool may be set up which will endeavor to keep track of available rooms in every recognized hotel.

FIVE ACCUSED IN WORLD FAIR TICKET THEFT

Five alleged members of a World's Fair ticket theft ring were held to the grand jury on charges of larceny and conspiracy yesterday by Judge Thomas A. Green in the Felony court. The police are still hunting 3,800 stolen tickets, valued at $1,900. They recovered 288 tickets and about 100 had been sold.

The accused men are George Warfield, 26 years old, 7829 Cregier avenue, and Loren Meyers, 27 years old, 6314 Maryland avenue, printers at the Reuben H. Donnelley corporation plant; Herman Higgensen, 27 years old, 1430 Hyde Park boulevard, and Harry Stagg, 38 years old, 1810 Indiana avenue, peddlers, and James Doyle, 19 years old, 7527 Jeffery avenue, the alleged "wholesaler."

The tickets, part of the series numbered 575,000 to 600,000, were stolen three weeks ago from the printing plant. Visitors who presented the tickets at the Fair were questioned and led police to a souvenir stand outside the 18th street entrance, where Higgensen and Stagg were arrested. They implicated the others.

EXPECT 480,000 NEW ENGLANDERS TO VISIT THE FAIR

Tribune Envoy Spikes New False Stories.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—The World's Fair administration hopes for 480,000 more attendance from the six New England states. THE TRIBUNE'S roadster, A Century of Progress official car, was dispatched here to help fulfill these hopes.

The season at the lakes and at the ocean shore resorts, which holds many New Englanders close to their homes during the summer months, ended Labor day. The travel season for the natives has opened.

Whether the Fair's expectations are realized may depend to a degree upon how successful are efforts to combat false rumors of traffic conditions and housing facilities in Chicago during the exposition. At the Boston Automobile club, Thomas Fullam of the touring bureau related that New England, like other parts of the country, has heard strange gossip about difficulties encountered by visitors to A Century of Progress city.

Figures Refute This One.

"The story we hear most often," Mr. Fullam said, "is that there isn't a room to rent in Chicago. One of our members, notwithstanding what we told him, insisted that he was not going to drive any farther west than Detroit, taking the train the rest of the way, so that he would be sure to get a hotel room. Others have asked the club whether it is true that motorists have to leave their cars in Indiana and take the train into Chicago."

George Barton, engineer for the Chicago Motor club and a member of A Century of Progress traffic committee, gave Mr. Fullam statistical data on accommodations and facilities for Fair visitors, including the facts that there are beds for 400,000 persons in Chicago's hotels and for 200,000 in rooming houses, furnished apartments and in rooms available in private homes. Jim Sullivan, veteran automobile editor of the Boston Globe, was also furnished this information for his widely read Sunday section.

Traffic Story Spiked.

The Providence, the automobile club of Rhode Island, said that the picture of Chicago's traffic has been painted so black that some motorists have abandoned visits to the Fair, while others plan to leave their cars in Indiana. The club welcomed accurate and detailed information about Chicago and the city editor of the Providence Journal seemed interested in copy that was submitted to him.

At New Haven, Willis Hellam of the Connecticut Motor club, told a new story among the many false and mainly ridiculous rumors circulated about the country. He said there was a report that police stopped foreign automobiles on the outskirts of Chicago and ascertained that the passengers had $25 each before permitting them to enter the city. The club and the New Haven Journal Courier were given the true story of Chicago during A Century of Progress.

Means $10,000,000 to City.

The Fair administration is not alone in its concern to get these 480,000 more customers from New England. Merchants, hotel and garage men—and even street car motormen and truck drivers who have been getting additional hours of employment—are appreciative of the value of these out of town visitors. The 480,000 from New England would spread $10,000,000 in Chicago.

Since the Fair opened last May, an estimated 600,000 have attended from Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Vermont, Maine and New Hampshire. This figure is based upon registrations at one of the exhibits. According to the Boston Automobile club, the travel to Chicago has been heavier than in any previous year and, incidentally, it left the New England resorts with a poor season.

James Roosevelts End Two Day Visit to Fair

James Roosevelt, son of President Roosevelt, and his wife departed yesterday on the Commodore Vanderbilt of the New York Central railway for their home in Boston, after a two day visit to A Century of Progress Exposition. Earlier in the day Mr. Roosevelt made a call on Mayor Kelly at the mayor's office. The mayor had returned a short time earlier from a week-end vacation at his summer home near Eagle River, Wis. Mrs. Roosevelt paid a visit in the morning to the Field museum, and in the afternoon returned to the Exposition grounds with her husband.

RUFUS C. DAWES SUGGESTS A PLAN FOR ANNUAL FAIR

Should Emphasize City's Leadership in West.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

An annual exposition based on Chicago's close relationship with agriculture, emphasizing its position as the great central market, assuming a new leadership in helping the farmers to solve their problems and building a finer civilization in the central west, was suggested yesterday by Rufus C. Dawes, president of A Century of Progress Exposition.

The present Exposition, he said, must close its doors and wind up its affairs beginning Oct. 31, but its experience, the spirit which it has generated, and perhaps some of the plant, might be used in building a permanent exposition, which would have Chicago itself as its main attraction but would center attention on agricultural affairs and markets, and draw great crowds here once a year.

Such an exposition, he said, should not attempt to duplicate A Century of Progress, but should be built on an enduring business basis, something after the Leipzig Fair, which has lasted for 700 years, the British Industries fair, the Toronto exposition, and others which have proved successful.

Lake Front Development.

Another suggestion from Mr. Dawes was the development on the lake front, in connection with other social science features, of a permanent institute on municipal government, in which all the problems of municipalities, their failures and successes, would be available for study and reference to all municipal officials.

Whether any part of the present Exposition plant could be used in building a permanent exposition Mr. Dawes was unable to say. He called attention to the contracts and financial obligations which made it necessary for A Century of Progress to close as scheduled. Whatever is done in the future, he said, the people must realize there will never be another opportunity to see this Exposition.

"It now looks as though this Fair would be a creditable achievement to Chicago," he said. "We have, in other words, fulfilled our reputation as a city that carries out its plans. We have had three great tests of this spirit. One was the rebuilding after the great fire. The second was the World's Columbian exposition, and this is the third.

May Earn a Surplus.

"We will be able to pay back our $10,000,000 in bonds, and may have a surplus. Under our contracts any surplus will be given to the south park board, which has been very good to us, the Art institute, Planetarium, the Industrial museum and other institutions. Many of our exhibits are marked for delivery to the Industrial museum, which will be able to house them in a permanent and beautiful building.

"Thus we are helping to make Chicago itself a great and permanent exposition. The art exhibits will be permanent, outside the special loans. The scientific exhibits will be permanent. The Museum and the Planetarium are permanent. We have the plant for great games and exhibitions and shows.

"Our particular enterprise must end, for it was built under temporary permits. It has come through despite the depression because it gave just the right stimulus to business and industry, offered the stage for a bold and appealing performance.

Must Supply a Need.

"A new organization might step in and utilize some of this plant, but it would have to be on a hard basis of supplying a need, filling a gap that has been created. It must appeal primarily to the farmers.

"The idea that Chicago, which draws its power and wealth from the farms, owes the farmer a debt, that the city man must help the farmer in his marketing problems, that he must give the farmer every aid to a better and more successful life, has not been lived up to in full measure. It is here, perhaps, that the opportunity lies of making something approaching a permanent exposition."

Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the Fair, suggested the following plan as one most likely to work out. Make the annual fair a compact group around the lagoon, going no further south than 23d street. Retain the Dairy and Agricultural buildings, a portion of the electrical group and as much as possible of the states group.

Keep One Skyride Tower.

The Administration and the Sears-Roebuck buildings would form a nucleus on the north, in conjunction with the Planetarium, Aquarium, and the Museum. This would leave room to the south of the administration building for carnival features. One of the Sky Ride towers might remain, as a view tower, or mooring mast or for some other purpose.

A few of the buildings now in use are to remain, he said. These are Fort Dearborn, the Chinese temple, and the Administration building. Aside from these structures the best buildings are the Dairy, Agriculture, Hall of States and Travel and Transport, which is too far south. All of these buildings, he pointed out, would have to be worked over to permit installation of heat, reinsurance, etc. The Exposition is already figuring on the salvage returns from the wrecking of most of these buildings, and this enters into its financial obligations.

20 MILLION BOND ISSUE PROPOSED IN RELIEF CRISIS

Horner Group to Outline Plan in Washington.

Gov. Horner will lead a group of Chicago officials, state legislators, and members of the emergency relief commission to Washington on Sunday to lay before Relief Administrator Hopkins the Illinois plan for meeting the idle relief crisis which confronts the state because of lack of funds.

This was decided yesterday by a representative group of assemblymen, state officers, and relief leaders who met all afternoon at the Hotel La Salle. The Washington visit, it seemed probable, will be followed by a special session of the legislature, perhaps next month, for the dual purpose of providing new relief funds and of drawing laws to regulate the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor in preparation for prohibition repeal.

Propose $20,000,000 Bonds.

While the governor and his aides will not make their plans formally until after they have talked with Mr. Hopkins, it was said that relief legislation probably will be asked in the form of a $20,000,000 bond issue, backed by the 3 cent state gasoline tax. The state's credit would be pledged behind this issue and only counties which use relief funds would be required to forfeit their shares of the gasoline tax revenue to repay them.

If such a sum is not made available, the meeting was told by Gov. Horner, the relief commission has estimated that there will be a $17,600,000 deficit by April 1, 1934. Present funds are sufficient only to keep the Chicago relief stations open until next Monday, according to Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the relief commission, but by anticipating August payments from the state sales tax it is possible that they may remain open until Sept. 16.

Hope to Sell Old Bonds.

Mr. Hopkins will be told that as a stopgap measure, until other steps can be taken, Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly the county board, and others will attempt to sell $4,748,000 worth of relief bonds still in the county's possession. The bonds, part of the $17,000,000 state issue authorized by the legislature last December, have been twice advertised for sale but no bids have been made.

Their sale would finance Chicago relief activities through September and into October. With no other resources in sight except $2,000,000 from the sales tax, the September deficit will amount to $3,400,000, it is estimated.

Relief costs for the remaining three months of the year will amount to $17,900,000, it was estimated, against which the only assets which the relief commission can now expect are $10,150,000 from the sales tax and $2,000,000 in federal relief funds. That would leave a deficit of about nine millions at the end of the year.

Relief costs for January, February, and March are estimated at $19,700,000, with $5,100,000 in sales tax funds, and a possible $6,000,000 from the federal government to defray them, leaving a further deficit of $8,600,000.

Points to Three Courses.

"There are three alternatives," Gov. Horner told the meeting. "We could cut relief in half, but the present allowance of $24 a month for a family of four is almost the minimum of subsistence. We could try to persuade the federal government to advance more money, but that avenue is already closed, according to the statements of federal officials. Or the legislature could take action."

"It seems to me there is no other way out," said Mayor Kelly. "If we have a shortage we'll have to have a special session.

"If the relief stations are closed, and we are told they will close unless we get more money, we will be in a very critical position. It would be dangerous to play around with such a situation. As mayor of Chicago I am begging you to help."

Officials at the Meeting.

Besides the governor, the mayor and Mr. Reynolds, those who attended the meeting included Edward L. Ryerson Jr., retiring chairman of the relief commission, Omar Wright, vice chairman; Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Donovan, State Auditor Edward J. Barrett, State Treasurer John C. Martin, Joseph J. Rice, state director of finance; Dewitt Billman, secretary of the legislative reference bureau; and Douglas Sutherland, of the Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency.

Others present were State Senators Harold G. Ward and Arthur A. Huebsch, State Representatives David E. Shanahan and R. G. Soderstrom, Deputy County Controller M. J. O'Connor, County Commissioners Maurice Kavanagh, Peter M. Kelly, Amelia Sears, and Marie Plumb; Corporation Counsel Sexton, and Victor A. Olander, labor leader and relief commission member.

Ryerson Quits Commission.

During the meeting Mr. Ryerson announced that he is resigning from the relief commission, both as chairman and as a member.

The committee to draft a proposal for liquor regulation in Illinois, completed last Friday by Gov. Horner, will meet in the county building Friday afternoon. Gov. Horner is desirous of getting a report from it before any special session of the legislature meets.

Horner Greets New York Governor at Fair Friday

Gov. Henry Horner and Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Donovan will head the reception at 11:30 o'clock Friday at the Illinois Host house at the World's Fair for Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York, Mrs. Lehman, and members of the New York state commission to A Century of Progress. Friday is New York day.

JEWISH PARLEY ATTACKED WITH STENCH BOMBS

GENEVA, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Stench bombs filled the auditorium with obnoxious odors tonight, but Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York declared the Jewish executive committee, meeting here to lay plans for the world Jewish congress in 1934, would not be disturbed by them whether the "outrage" was "perpetrated by thugs hired or inspired by Hitler forces."

The bombs were placed behind the platform curtains before the opening of the night session, in which Rabbi Wise demanded a world-wide boycott by Jews of goods manufactured in Germany.

Firemen were called to combat the odor and smoke and Rabbi Wise made it plain that no bombs would "deter Jews from exercising the right to protest iniquities of the Hitler régime."

FIND TWO PHOTOS OF PRINCESS GIOVANNA IN PLANE OF PINEDO

New York, Sept. 5.—[Special.]—The lovely dark eyed girl, of whom two photographs were found in the wrecked airplane of Gen. Francesco de Pinedo, is Giovanna, daughter of the king and queen of Italy and wife of King Boris of Bulgaria.

Rumor had engaged Princess Giovanna to many persons before she finally was wed to the Bulgarian king in 1930. Among those mentioned was Gen. de Pinedo. The general was killed on Saturday when his plane crashed at Bennett field as he attempted to take off on a flight for Bagdad.

A daughter was born to the Bulgarian royal couple on Jan. 13 of this year and the fact that the child was baptized in the Greek Orthodox faith, that of her father, instead of the Roman Catholic, that of her mother, caused a dispute, as a papal dispensation for the marriage had been obtained only on Boris' promise that all the children should be baptized as Roman Catholics.

The pictures found in the wreckage of Gen. de Pinedo's plane were of the same girl. An inscription on one, as translated, said, "I kiss you sweetly, dear Frank." On the other was the name Giovanna.

Thousands visited an undertaker's where the flyer's body lay in state today. Funeral services will be held on Thursday at St. Patrick's cathedral at an hour still to be decided.

16 RATTLESNAKES KILLED; COUNTY FORESTS "SAFE"

Supt. Charles G. Sauers of the forest preserves yesterday announced that the Wheeling district has been cleared of rattlesnakes after three weeks' work by two experienced snake trappers.

Sixteen rattlers were captured and presented to small parks by the trappers, Roy Ahrens and Archie Lang, who performed a similar mission in Florida recently. They said more than a score of other rattlesnakes were killed by them.

"The district, including dam No. 1 and dam No. 2, is safe now," Ahrens said yesterday. "We did not kill the king snakes and bull snakes, which are not harmful to man but which are deadly enemies of the rattlers. The public should not kill harmless snakes, either."

LAKE VICTIM'S BODY IDENTIFIED.

The body of a woman taken from the lake at Belden avenue Monday was identified yesterday as that of Mrs. Anna Bennett, 43 years old, 4018 Adams street. Her husband, Robert J. Bennett, a school engineer, said he believed her death was accidental.

MARCONI WILL VISIT CHICAGO FAIR ON OCT. 2

Day Set Aside to Honor Inventor.

New York, Sept. 5.—[Special.]—Marchese Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of wireless telegraphy, will visit Chicago as a guest of A Century of Progress in October.

This announcement was made here today from the offices of the Radio Corporation of America. A radiogram received by Gen. James G. Harbord, chairman of the corporation's board, from David Sarnoff, president of the company, said that the inventor had accepted an invitation extended through Sarnoff by Rufus Dawes, president of A Century of Progress, and Dr. Joseph Castruccio, Italian consul at Chicago.

"Marconi Day" Oct. 2.

Mr. Sarnoff had been requested by officials of A Century of Progress while he was in Europe to extend the invitation for the World's Fair because of his personal friendship with the inventor.

Marchese and Marchesa Marconi plan to sail for New York on the Conti di Savoia on Sept. 22. Arrangements are now being made at A Century of Progress for the celebration on Oct. 2 of "Marconi day," at which the inventor will be honored for his contributions to science and the development of radio. Dinners will be held in his honor in Chicago and later in New York.

Expected to Rouse Radio Interest.

One effect of the inventor's visit, it is thought, will be to arouse much interest in radio and technical circles due to his recent experiments with ultra short radio waves. Press dispatches from Rome during the summer have described Marconi's experiments with ultra short or micro waves between his yacht Electra and an experimental station on the shore, the reports indicating that the inventor had communicated successfully on a sixty centimeter wave length a distance of 160 miles.

The last previous visit of Marchese Marconi to the United States was in 1927, when he attended the international radio conference at Washington.

FRENCH TROOPS STORM LAST OF MOROCCO REBELS

RABAT, Morocco, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Mopping up forces of the French colonial army today turned their guns on the last of the dissident berbers on Koucer peak, in the Atlas mountains, to close officially France's 25 year campaign of Moroccan pacification.

Gen. Jules Hure, commander of the French forces, reported the unconditional surrender of Zaid ou Skounti, Berber chieftain, in his rocky lair on the crest of the Djebel Badou.

Thirst had driven most of his followers, numbering several hundred thousand, into surrender. The proud chieftain refused even to see French emissaries. Faithful to the last were the chief's two wives, his three children, and 106 Morocco families. Parched with thirst, they dug themselves into caves and crevices of the mountain with their 4,000 head of camels, sheep, and goats.

VISIT SLEEPING SICKNESS LABS IN ST. LOUIS AREA

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 5.—(AP)—With simultaneous experiments under way by scores of city, state and federal experts, the medical centers of St. Louis have become a large coördinated laboratory to combat sleeping sickness.

The disease, which tonight had caused the death of 74 persons and afflicted 546 others, is bringing physicians from distant cities to observe its workings.

The research work is centered at the epidemic laboratory at Washington university, under control of Dr. Charles Armstrong, officer of the U. S. public health service. At Barnes hospital there were a dozen experiments under way.

Today the United States army entered the class, setting up a laboratory at Jefferson barracks, under Maj. James S. Simmons, bacteriologist. He studies the possibility that insects spread the disease.

PROTESTS U. S. AID TO CHICAGO HEATING PLANT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Representative Smith [Dem., W. Va.] today protested to Secretary Ickes against the loaning of government funds for construction of a central heating plant in the loop district of Chicago, which would use gas as fuel.

Smith said the Chicago Tunnel company had applied to the Reconstruction Finance corporation for a $9,500,000 loan for the project and was trying to get the support of the public works administration.

Smith said the plant would displace the use of 2,000,000 tons of coal annually.

Woman Seized After Hotel Chase Fails to Face Court

Miss Lenora Craven, 29 years old, 5734 Winthrop avenue, arrested early Saturday following a chase through the corridors of the Congress hotel by two guests there, failed to appear yesterday before Municipal Judge Erwin J. A fine of $25, the amount of her bond, was entered against Miss Craven. Heesch, who met her at the World's Fair, had charged her with taking his watch from his room.

4 MORE PRISON TERMS IMPOSED IN CRIME WAR

Two alleged police slayers were put on trial in the Criminal court yesterday as the second month of the crime war opened under the leadership of Chief Justice Philip L. Sullivan, who took office Monday. The judges yesterday imposed four more penitentiary sentences to bring the total to 255 since the campaign was started by Judge John Prystalski one month ago.

The trial of Ross King, alias Kenneth Smith, 34 years old, and John Bongiorno, 28 years old, charged with slaying Policeman Harry Redlich, moved swiftly in Judge Harry B. Miller's court until late in the afternoon when it was discovered that the venire was exhausted. Eight jurors were sworn in when court was forced to adjourn. It is expected that enough jurors can be obtained from the other courts this morning to fill the panel and start the taking of evidence.

Demands Death Penalty.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty is demanding the death penalty, especially for King. The latter is represented by Public Defender Joseph Power.

At yesterday's session King discovered a joker in the public defender act as passed by the last session of the legislature. This discovery almost upset the plans of the state for a speedy trial. When the case was called King demanded that Judge Miller appoint some lawyer, other than the public defender, to act as his counsel. He said he had this right under the law. His request was refused because it was not made at a reasonable time.

Later in the day the judge and prosecutor studied the law and discovered that it provides for a defendant to demand some other lawyer than the public defender if he desires. In a capital case a private lawyer appointed to defend a prisoner is entitled to a $250 fee from the county. King later withdrew his demand after a conference with Attorney W. W. O'Brien, who is defending Bongiorno.

Story of Slaying.

King and Bongiorno, the state charges, shot and killed Policeman Redlich when he attempted to seize them after they had robbed the offices of the Thomas A. Compton Advertising company, 9 South Kedzie avenue, one month ago. The policeman, who was on traffic duty, had been summoned to the offices by a pedestrian. When he arrived he arrested Bongiorno. Smith reappeared and without warning opened fire, it is charged. Both men are paroled convicts.

The lack of jurors kept several judges from working yesterday, they said, and Chief Justice Sullivan ordered additional calls for service as soon as possible.

The crime war appeared not to have made much headway yesterday, a survey of the courtrooms disclosed. By 2 o'clock the courtrooms of Judges Walter Steffen and James J. Fardy were locked up. Judge Thomas J. Lynch did not appear in his court all day. It was reported that he would show up today. Judge Michael Feinberg was in his chambers at 2 o'clock. He said he wanted to work but could not get a jury. Judge Francis Allegretti, who said he would appear to take over the calendar of Judge Finnegan, did not appear.

Pick Jury in Murder Case.

Judge Charles P. Molthrop heard a case in which Walter Morton, 31 years old, is charged with slaying George Staudt, 17 years old. Attorney James M. Burke for the defense said that Morton thought Staudt was attempting to steal his automobile on March 12 when he fired three shots at the youth from the window of his home at 5037 North Ashland avenue. A jury was selected in the case.

An effort was made by Judge Molthrop to force Peter (Piccolo Pete) Pace, slayer of Policeman Patrick Ryan, to trial. However, he had to grant a continuance until Thursday because Prosecutor Dougherty was engaged in the King-Bongiorno trial. The judge said that in the future he will insist that the state's attorney's office divide the cases among the assistants so that the state will always be ready for trial.

At present Mr. Dougherty is prosecuting the King-Bongiorno, Pace, James (Iggy) Varecha, and several other important murder cases.

Judge Finnegan finished his volunteer service yesterday by appearing in the Criminal court long enough to impose 1 year to life sentences on John Fontana, 25 years old; Jack Costello, 23, and Sam Franco, 23. They were convicted last week by a jury of burglarizing the Ernster creamery, 2303 West Cermak road. The other sentence of the day was imposed by Judge Walter La Buy, who sentenced Albert Parlick to 1 to 20 years for stealing an automobile from William A. Barre, 6318 South Artesian avenue. Judge Donald S. McKinlay also worked all day trying a burglary case.

SEIZED BY KIDNAPERS, BOY MAKES DASH FOR FREEDOM AND ESCAPES

Wickliffe, Ky., Sept. 5.—(AP)—An attempted kidnaping of Kendall Thomas, 11, grandson of Ballard county's wealthiest farmer, F. N. Sheeney, was foiled today when the boy jerked away from three captors and fled. Shots fired at him missed. He broke away despite the fact he was blindfolded and his hands were tied, ran up a shallow creek and got home. The three men are believed to have fled by automobile and county officers at once began search. Kendall, son of Mrs. Dorothy Thomas, was living at his grandfather's home and was awaiting a school truck on the roadside when the trio seized him.

SWEETHEART OF MRS. CARL JAILED ON THEFT CHARGE

The case of Mrs. Vera Carl, who was recently sentenced to serve 20 years in prison for plotting the murder of her husband, was recalled yesterday when her supposed sweetheart was arraigned in the Felony court on a charge of burglary. The defendant, George Zeraine, 45 years old, 5350 Archer avenue, was held to the grand jury in $10,000 bond by Judge Thomas A. Green.

Three love letters which Zeraine told police were written by Mrs. Carl are in the possession of authorities. One letter dated before Mrs. Carl's trial said: "Please don't fail me, honey, and try to get me out."

Assistant State's Attorney Gordon Nash told the court Zeraine had been present at the trial of Mrs. Carl for plotting the "fortune teller murder" of her husband, George. Several men received long sentences for the actual slaying.

Zeraine was arrested Saturday when caught ransacking the home of Mrs. Lottie Jendrach, 2504 South California avenue.

32,000 PUBLIC WORKERS TO GET PAY IN 2 WEEKS

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $3,129,934, making a total of $50,304,360 collected since the enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act was started on April 28. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the last four years follow:

Sept. 5	$ 39,929	$ 94,131
Uncollected	17,909,936	48,106,122
	1930.	1931.
Sept. 5	$ 214,780	$ 2,780,794
Uncollected	74,881,245	94,570,447

The day's collections of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $2,233.

Pay days within the next two weeks for 32,000 public employés in Cook county appeared probable yesterday as officials discussed the uses to which they will put the $26,000,000 of tax collections that County Treasurer McDonough has announced he will distribute to the local governments.

Although $26,000,000 is to be distributed, not all of it is cash since a considerable number of tax payments have been made in tax warrants. Of the cash to be given out, $3,879,563 will be available for pay rolls, it was explained. The remainder will be used to retire tax warrants and meet other obligations of the governments.

The employés who will receive pay are those of the city, county, forest preserves, sanitary district, and the Lincoln and south park boards. The periods to be covered by the pay days of the various governments will range from two to six weeks, it was announced.

School Revenue Tied Up.

Two of the local governments will not be able to participate in the use of tax cash for pay rolls. They are the school board and the west park system. Their entire shares of the tax money must be used to take up tax warrants and pay bonds and interest.

The cash which the other governments will be able to utilize for salaries and wages and the number of employés of each are as follows:

	Pay roll cash.	Employés.
City	$2,257,563	23,000
County	500,000	5,000
South park	837,000	1,800
Sanitary district	120,000	1,100
Lincoln park	120,000	800
Forest preserve	45,000	300

The county's pay roll, which will be made up almost wholly from cash taken in from penalties paid and being paid on delinquent 1928, 1929, and 1930 taxes, will be for the first two weeks of July. County Treasurer McDonough said he hoped the employés can be paid by Sept. 15. The employés are accepting tax warrants for the period from Feb. 1 to July 1.

Two Weeks' Pay for City.

City employés are assured a half month's pay roll from the cash available, with an aditional $407,000 left over toward another two weeks' pay roll. The city pay roll for two weeks is $1,850,000.

Forest preserve employés, who have been paid up to date, are assured of six more weeks' pay from the cash made available by the revenue distribution.

Lincoln park employés, who have received little cash since the district went into financial difficulties, can be paid a month's salaries, according to Philip Sanders, controller of the district. He said this will be possible since all the 1928, 1929, and 1930 tax warrants have been liquidated.

For the south park district the usable tax revenue, together with other funds on hand, will be sufficient to meet almost four months of pay rolls. According to officials, all pay rolls up to Christmas will be met. All salaries of the district have been paid up to date.

Starts Distributing Revenue.

County Treasurer McDonough yesterday began the distribution of the $26,000,000 which will be allocated daily to the local governments as fast as tax collections are audited. The distribution yesterday totaled $2,740,000, of which $2,000,000 went to the city and schools. The 1 per cent a month penalty was added yesterday for the first time on all unpaid second installment real estate tax bills, except on those properties falling within the 15 per cent assessment reduction order still in litigation.

The treasurer filed in the County court petitions to place 200 more income bearing properties under receivership to compel the payment of delinquent taxes.

AWARDED ALIMONY

MRS. PHYLLIS DAVIS.

Circuit Judge Benjamin P. Epstein yesterday granted temporary alimony of $350 a month to Mrs. Phyllis Davis in a preliminary hearing on her suit for separate maintenance against George L. Davis, 700 Rosewood avenue, Winnetka. Mrs. Davis accuses her husband of misconduct with an unidentified woman. Davis is an accountant employed by a New York firm in the reorganization of Butler Brothers.

Judge Epstein also awarded Mrs. Davis the custody of five children and allowed her to live in the Winnetka home, which Davis must vacate. Attorneys Thomas F. Reilly and Gregory A. Gelderman, representing Mrs. Davis, told the court that Davis earns $9,360 a year. Mrs. Davis testified that her husband had offered to give her $5,200 a year if she would get an outright divorce, but she refused. They were married Oct. 20, 1916, and separated last Sept. 1.

WIFE AMENDS SUIT AGAINST L. A. MEEKER

Mrs. Ruth Campbell Meeker yesterday filed a bill for divorce in the Circuit court against Lawrence A. Meeker, Chicago and New York society man and a former member of the Chicago Stock exchange. The bill charged cruelty and nonsupport. The divorce bill is in the form of an amendment to her separate maintenance bill, filed Aug. 9, in which Mrs. Meeker had charged desertion.

The new bill alleges that Meeker "was insulting and had an ungovernable temper." It charged that in January, 1930, when the Meekers were living at 168 East Pearson street, Meeker struck his wife in front of friends, and that last March, when she was in a New York hospital, he left the hotel where they had been staying without making any provision for her support.

STRIVES TO LOSE 100 OF HIS 320 POUNDS; 35 GONE

Progress was reported yesterday by Ogden Johnson of River Forest, who agreed on June 27 to aid a friend who had wagered $500 that Mr. Johnson could take off 100 of his 320 pounds before the end of the World's Fair.

"So far," he said, "a total of 35 pounds has melted away. Of course, some people may say that the time is more than half gone and that the last 65 pounds is the hardest. On the other hand, there is a movement to extend the Fair's existence."

"What methods are you using to reduce?" he was asked.

"I am cutting down on the starches and taking a lot of exercise," was the reply. "The report that I am laying off the beer is untrue, as I am taking my share of that."

H. M. McCarger of Glen Ellyn was the friend who bet Mr. Johnson could melt away the hundred pounds. Porter F. Leach, 7201 Euclid avenue, was the doubter. The loser is to spend the $500 in giving under priviledged children an outing.

200,000 PUPILS RESUME WORK IN PARISH SCHOOLS

Classes Start in County and Some Suburbs.

All parochial schools in Chicago opened yesterday with an estimated enrollment of more than 200,000 pupils. School days also started in the county elementary and high schools and in some suburbs.

Chicago's half million public school children will not go back to the classrooms until Sept. 18. In normal times the city's public schools open on the day after Labor day, but this year the board of education decided to delay the opening for two weeks in order to save approximately $2,000,000 in salaries and operating expenses.

The enrollment in the 66 parochial high schools of the city is more than 20,000. There are 4,244 teachers in the 387 grade schools and 1,094 in the high schools of the parochial system.

Two New Schools Added.

Nominal tuition fees are charged for enrolling in the parochial schools and Catholic charitable organizations pay the fees where parents are unable to do so. The nuns who do the teaching receive $35 a month and their room and board.

The Rev. D. F. Cunningham, superintendent of the Catholic schools of Chicago, announced that two new schools will be opened for colored children.

One of the new schools is the Corpus Christi, at 4800 South Park way and the other the Holy Family, at 11th and May streets.

Approximately 60 per cent of the county schools opened, according to the announcement of Otto F. Aken, county superintendent. The county high schools had an enrollment of 18,600 students, while the elementary schools registered 47,400. The rest of the county schools will open next Monday.

County Teachers Reduced.

Supt. Aken said that 110,000 high school and grade school children are expected to enroll for the first semester's work. The teaching force numbers 1,116 in the high schools and 2,520 in the grammar schools. The force was reduced by 200 teachers this year, Mr. Aken said, in order to economize.

A few north shore and Lake county schools opened yesterday. Most of the other schools in that region will start classes next Monday. Deerfield-Shields High school, the North Chicago grade schools, and Waukegan High school were those which began yesterday. Opening next Monday will be the Evanston, Wilmette, Kenilworth, Winnetka, Glencoe, and Lake Forest grade schools, Evanston Township High school, and district 107 grade schools in Highland Park. Grade schools in district 108, Highland Park, and in Ravinia will open Sept. 18.

Three Big High Schools Open

To the west of the city three large suburban high schools opened their doors. These were J. Sterling Morton High school of Cicero, Lyons Township High school in La Grange and Proviso Township High school, which serves the communities of Forest Park, Maywood, Melrose Park, Bellwood and Berkley.

The elementary schools that opened in the western suburbs included: Cicero, Berwyn, Maywood, Melrose Park and Elmwood Park. The other schools will open on Sept. 11, 18, and 25.

South of the city elementary schools opened in Flossmoor, Homewood, Thornton township, and West Harvey. The grade schools and the community high school of Blue Island also opened.

The Chicago Motor club issued a bulletin warning automobilists to use extraordinary precaution at this season of the year.

14 DIE, 30 HURT AS FREIGHT HITS ERIE EXPRESS

Wooden Car Is Smashed; Adds to Deaths.

the cars ahead, and crowds which quickly assembled at the scene as the news of the wreck spread through the city, added to the difficulties of the rescue work. It was hours before order was restored at the scene, while the rescue work proceeded, under emergency floodlights.

In the confusion the authorities were unable to make an exact check of the number of dead and injured. For several hours after the catastrophe they believed that more than twenty had been killed, but a check up at midnight indicated that twelve identified dead and two unidentified completed the list of fatalities.

Bodies Badly Mangled.

Because of the badly mangled condition of many of the bodies, the task of identifying the dead and the more seriously injured was difficult and proceeded slowly. In many cases the authorities were able to list only a last name or were forced to omit the residence from the identification.

An immediate investigation into the cause of the wreck was ordered by the railroad officials, according to announcement at the general offices of the Erie in Cleveland, by Robert E. Woodruff, vice president.

But his announcement did not halt the local authorities, who already had begun questioning survivors of the wreck in an attempt to fix the responsibility for the fatal crash. Local police collaborated with representatives of the prosecutors' office and Sheriff Kress in assembling information.

Eleven Killed on Scene.

Eleven of the fourteen known to have been killed were dead when they were removed from the wreckage, and three others died while they were being taken to the city hospital. It was believed that many of the thirty injured were in serious condition.

Dazed, but not injured, King, the engineer of the milk train, was unable to give a coherent account of what had happened. But he insisted he had not seen the red block signal set against him and that he had put on the brakes as soon as he saw the standing passenger train on the track before him. B. A. Shea of Hornell was the conductor of the milk train.

Hours after the wreck, passengers and motorists joined with railroad employés, doctors and nurses and National Guardsmen in searching the wreckage for dead and injured. The body of one woman was found fifty feet from the tracks, where it had been hurled by the force of the collision.

Tells Story of Wreck.

Callicoon, N. Y., Sept. 6 [Wednesday].—[Special.]—Vivid accounts of the wreck at Binghamton where given this morning by passengers aboard the Atlantic express to a New York Times representative who boarded the train at Deposit, N. Y., and rode as far as Callicoon.

After a delay of 3 hours and 45 minutes at the scene of the wreck, the express, minus two of its coaches and with only a handful of passengers left aboard, continued on its way to Jersey City. It arrived here en route at 11:45 p. m.

"I was sitting in the smoker, the third car from the rear when the crash came," said Henry Koster, a painter of Paterson, N. J. "I looked out the window and saw the inside of the car ahead going by. The car I was in was made of steel; the one ahead was made of wood; the steel car drove through the wooden one like a wedge through a splintered log.

Lights Go Out.

"Most of the lights in the train went out immediately. Ahead of me I could hear women screaming. Nobody in my car was hurt, but I counted twenty carried out of the car ahead. How many of them were dead, I cannot say."

"I had been dozing just before the crash," said Edward Jalfain, a student of Jersey City, another passenger in the steel car. "Suddenly I was thrown with a jolt against the back of the seat in front of me. I jumped up and started for the forward door. It was blocked. A solid mass of wreckage was piled against it. On the other side of the blockade I could hear women screaming and persons calling to one another. I dashed down the aisle to the rear door and found the porter lying unconscious on the floor. He had been thrown from his feet by the impact of the collision and knocked out. Then I got out through the rear door and walked along the side of the wreck. The car in which I had been riding had been driven half way through the wooden one ahead.

"A number of women were pinned in the wreckage. It was pitiful to hear them screaming for help. I lent a hand along with several other men and we managed to free some of them.

Help Begins to Arrive.

"Meanwhile, some of the train crew must have managed to get help of a telephone. Help began to arrive. At first there came other trainmen, who assisted our own and those from the train behind in getting the dead and injured out of the wreck. Then ambulances arrived with doctors and nurses.

"Many of the women, who bore no signs of injury, lost their heads completely. They ran up and down wringing their hands and screaming. It was a horrible sight."

Mrs. Sarah Fibbald of the Bronx, New York City, who was returning home with her small grandson, was sitting in the forward part of the fourth car from the rear. It was a wooden car.

"William [the grandson] had made friends with a young lady across the way," she said. "They were sitting together chatting and I was watching them when the train jolted violently, the lights went out, and the roof of the car toppled in. Some one bumped against me. It was William. I picked him up. I heard the young woman who had been playing with him screaming. She seemed to have been badly hurt. I wanted to help her and tried, but in the darkness I could do nothing. I clung to William and managed to get him out of the car; then I sent a trainman back for the poor young woman. Poor thing! They took her to the hospital in Binghamton. I'm afraid she was badly hurt."

Woman Is Killed in Fall Down an Elevator Shaft

Mrs. Annie Jephson, 55 years old, 1338 Rosedale avenue, was killed last night when she fell one floor down the shaft of an automatic elevator in the apartment building at 1508 North La Salle street. She had called there to visit a friend, Mrs. Elizabeth Greenbaum. Being near sighted, according to police, Mrs. Jephson had apparently failed to notice the door of the shaft was open, and stepped through it. She fell 15 feet to the basement where her body was found several hours later by a janitor. Mrs. Jephson was the wife of F. M. Jephson, retired assistant cashier of the freight department of the Illinois Central railroad.

AIR CHAMPION'S CAREER BEGUN IN RICKETY PLANE

Fame Won by Wedell After a Long Struggle.

Jimmy Wedell, who set a new world's land plane speed record by flying more than five miles a minute at Curtiss-Wright airport on Monday, like Wiley Post and many other famous American pilots, attained his ambition after a long struggle. Jimmy was the son of a Texas City bartender. He did not reach high school, working in a garage until he saved enough money to buy his first plane.

His first ship was a rickety second-hand biplane, held together with baling wire. But to Jimmy Wedell it was the last word. He took one lesson from a barnstorming pilot, which consisted of an hour's instruction in a dual control plane, and on his first solo flight he carried passengers.

With this first plane Wedell barnstormed over the southwest for years, taking up passengers to earn money to buy food for himself and gasoline for the plane. It was the plane that really mattered.

Backed by Millionaire.

During those barnstorming years Wedell accumulated a wealth of practical knowledge of flying and of airplanes and their motors. The turning point in his life came when he landed at Patterson, La., one afternoon and met Harry Williams, young Louisiana lumber millionaire.

Williams liked Wedell's quiet, unpretentious manner and became convinced that his knowledge of aviation acquired in flying off the cow pasture flying fields of the southwest could be put to practical use. He backed Wedell in establishing the Wedell-Williams Air Service, Inc., which operates between New Orleans, Houston, San Antonio, and Laredo, the original investment being about $500,000.

When the air line was under way Wedell found time to follow his secret ambition, that of building the fastest airplanes on earth. He set to work in a small hangar on a Bayou Teche, near Patterson, and has spent several years in developing the design of the Wedell-Williams racer with which he won the world mark. It is a low wing monoplane and is powered by an 800 horsepower Wasp motor.

Failure in Previous Efforts.

Success did not come quickly. Wedell failed to beat the land plane speed record in 1931, when his plane developed aileron flutter. One of his planes, piloted by Capt. James G. Haizlip, won the Bendix transcontinental dash last year and then set a women's world land plane speed record with Mrs. Haizlip at the controls. Wedell's own plane failed to perform, however, and Maj. James H. Doolittle took the world speed mark in a Gee Bee racer.

This summer, however, the Bendix dash was won a second time by a Wedell-Williams racer, piloted by Col. Roscoe Turner. Wedell was still having trouble getting full speed out of his plane until he got a new Wasp motor, installed it in the ship, and used it for the first time on Monday to set the record by a safe margin of eleven miles an hour over Maj. Doolittle's record of 294.36 miles an hour.

In addition to the world record Wedell won $12,000 in prizes in the closed course races and in speed dashes at the international races over the Labor day week-end. This money, however, will cover only a small part of the investment he has put into racing planes and motors over a period of years.

Nettleton is the son of the late A. E. Nettleton, founder of Nettleton shoe interests.

SIGHT BALLOON IN N. H.; MAY BE WINNER OF RACE

Farther from Glenview than Settle's.

An apple shaped balloon, believed to be one of the two unreported balloons that took off from Curtiss-Wright airport at Glenview Saturday evening in the international James Gordon Bennett races, was sighted over Manchester, N. H., early last night.

If it is one of the two missing bags it is the Goodyear entry piloted by Ward T. Van Orman, American aeronaut, or that of Capt. Franciszek Hynek, Polish representative, and has already exceeded the distance drift established by Lieutenant Commander T. G. W. Settle of the United States navy, who landed at Hotchkiss Grove, Conn., Monday night.

This Connecticut point is 750 miles from Glenview in a direct line. Manchester, N. H., is about 830 miles away. Both points are in the same general direction from Chicago and because of this fact it was considered almost certain that the bag seen over Manchester was one of the two missing balloons. The wind direction has been that way since the Bennett races started.

During the day various reports announced that balloons had been seen over upper Lake Huron Sunday night and over Ottawa Monday night, but these reports could not be confirmed. These regions are wild and a descent might not be known to the outside world for days.

This knowledge has dimmed any fears on the part of friends of the American and Polish aeronauts, although they pointed out that frequently the Bennett race ends within twenty-four hours and seldom continues more than forty-eight. Up to 8 o'clock last night the race had extended over seventy-two hours.

There were six balloons in the contest and four of them, including Settle's, landed within fifty-two hours. The three besides Settle's were the French, German, and Belgian entries. These three descended at various spots in upper Michigan.

BLAME FAILURE OF PLANES FOR 2 RACE DEATHS

Inquests into the deaths of two racing pilots during the international air races at Curtiss Wright airport in Glenview over the Labor day week-end were concluded yesterday. Verdicts of accidental death were returned in each case. Both accidents were attributed to airplane failure, one of them failure of the structure and the other of the fabric.

Witnesses described the death of Miss Florence E. Klingensmith, 27 years old, as the result of a crash when fabric on the right wing of the Gee Bee racer she was flying tore loose on Monday afternoon. The plane was owned by Arthur D. Knapp of Jackson, Mich. Miss Klingensmith's body will be sent to the home of her parents at Fargo, N. D., for burial.

The death of Roy Liggett, 36 years old, of Omaha, Neb., on Saturday when his plane fell from an altitude of 200 feet as he started into a speed dash, was attributed by witnesses to failure of the cowling around the motor, which is supposed to have caused a wing to break. The plane was a Cessna racer [Warner motor].

BEG YOUR PARDON

The address of the convention headquarters for the 15th annual convention of the American Legion, to be held in Chicago Oct. 2 to 5, was incorrectly stated in Monday's Tribune. The correct location of the headquarters is in the old Guardian National Bank building, 105 South Dearborn street, where householders who can rent spare rooms to legion visitors may register them in order that a possible overflow of visiting legionaires from the hotels may be cared for.

ROOSEVELT HAS CONFERENCE ON CASE OF MR. FORD

May Act After Consulting General Johnson.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today turned his attention to dealing with Henry Ford, the first major holdout on the national recovery campaign.

Mr. Ford's continued refusal to sign up under the automobile code, which went into effect for the industry today, was the subject of discussion at a White House meeting of the so-called executive council composed of the President's principal advisers.

No word has been received from the Detroit manufacturer, it was said, either at the White House or at the offices of the NRA, and his plans remained a mystery.

Reaches No Definite Plan.

The White House discussions resulted in no definite plan for coping with the problem presented by Mr. Ford's insistence on remaining outside the code, it was said. President Roosevelt, however, is expected to take some action within a few days if Mr. Ford continues his strict silence regarding participation in the code.

Absent from the White House conference was Gen. Hugh S. Johnson and it was regarded as certain that the President would take no action in the Ford matter until he had conferred with the industrial recovery administrator. Gen. Johnson was expected to return to the capital from Chicago tonight in an army plane.

The recovery administrator was due back at his desk today, and officials of his staff were at a loss to explain his delayed arrival. Until late this afternoon no definite information as to when he might return was available.

Coal Conference Delayed.

Meanwhile his absence caused another delay in the coal code negotiations between nonunion bituminous operators and representatives of organized labor. Gen. Johnson had scheduled a joint conference with both sides in his office this morning. The operators and workers' representatives arrived at the appointed time, to be told that Gen. Johnson was still in Chicago.

They left immediately with the statement that the entire matter would be deferred until tomorrow, when both sides can again meet with the recovery administrator acting as mediator.

Work on Retail Trade Code.

A master code for the retail trade, covering all types of retail establishments, including drug and grocery stores, was reported today to be virtually ready for submission to Gen. Johnson. Deputy Administrator A. D. Whiteside said he expected to transmit such a master code before the end of the week.

Mr. Whiteside has prepared a statement of policy regarding price fixing in the retail industry, which he intends to submit to Gen. Johnson tonight or tomorrow. Approval, he stated, will clear decks for action on the master retail code.

50,000 OPEN CANVASS AT NEW YORK FOR NRA CONSUMER PLEDGES

New York, Sept. 5.—[Special.]—With a goal of 7,000,000 signed pledges 50,000 volunteer workers set out today on the NRA consumer canvass of New York City.

The campaign, to continue until Sept. 15, began with the coöperation of every political organization except that of the Socialists, who declined to participate on the ground that their main duty was to help organize the working people into trade unions. The Republican, Democratic and 1 ocal NRA organizations were out in full force.

The canvassers will carry their drive from door to door, seeking to sign up consumers to buy only from shops displaying the blue eagle. After tomorrow consumers will be asked to sign a pledge when they make a purchase in a department store under the eagle.

During the day more than 20 five minute radio talks were made over various broadcasting stations. More than 2,000 one minute talks are scheduled for the next two weeks.

WALLACE SEES PUBLIC UTILITY OF MILK INDUSTRY

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 5.—(AP)—As though by afterthought, Secretary Wallace in his New York state fair address today hinted that the milk industry might be dealt with at some future time as a public utility.

Extemporaneously in his prepared speech he called attention to these questions "which we have not thought through":

"Must we necessarily pass on to the consumer the total increase in milk prices paid to the farmers?

"Cannot the spread be narrowed?

"Is it not possible to reduce wastes and inefficiency in the distribution of milk?

"Should we not begin to deal with the milk industry as a public utility?"

32 ARE KILLED, 1,500 INJURED IN TEXAS STORM

more than 100 miles an hour. It began to quiet about 10:30 this morning.

"There was water everywhere. It fell in torrents. People telephoned to the office all during the storm, saying rain was coming through the roofs, and some said the roofs were about to be carried away."

Property damage was tremendous. The loss of citrus groves was estimated unofficially at more than $3,000,000.

Only the most substantial buildings were standing in Brownsville as the gale blew lesser structures away like chaff. Municipal water and light plants were put out of commission, telegraph and telephone lines were batted to the ground and highways were torn up.

Relief on Special Trains.

J. F. Reed, assistant director of the Texas rehabilitation and relief commission, announced that Harry Hopkins, federal relief director, had authorized purchase of groceries for the destitute. About the same time, Gov. Ferguson announced at the state capital, Austin, that arrangements had been made to send army surgeons, nurses and medical and food supplies to the valley on a special train.

One hundred and fifty regular army soldiers will accompany them and they will be augmented by every available member of the Texas Ranger force to guard against depredations.

At Austin, James E. Ferguson, husband of the governor, expressed fear that "we will find in the morning that there has been a frightful death toll." Brownsville's population is about 22,000, that of Harlingen about 12,000. The total area they embrace, however, has a population of approximately 165,000 persons.

Florida Reports Big Loss.

Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Florida tonight was counting a storm damage of much more than a million dollars and preparing to care for her homeless while the tropical hurricane that raked the east coast and south central portion of the state curved northward into Georgia.

Reports from Stuart said 500 persons were homeless there and that assistance was needed immediately. Two deaths were attributed directly to the hurricane and one indirectly.

Most of the other damage left by the storm was in the central part of the state, where grapefruit and orange groves were heavy sufferers, estimates running from 10 to 80 per cent damage.

Communications were being established tonight to many towns that had been isolated when falling trees wrecked wire systems. Even cities in the southern part of the state, not hurt by the blow, had trouble in obtaining outside news for 48 hours because of fallen lines further north.

St. Petersburg reported 11 inches of rain in the 1° hour period ending at 8 a. m. Reports of heavy rainfall were general throughout the state.

NRA MAY TAKE HAND IN ILLINOIS MINE UNION WAR

The national recovery administration may take a hand within the next few weeks in factional troubles between the United Mine Workers of America and the Progressive Miners union in Illinois coal fields, Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, said yesterday before he left Chicago.

The dispute between the rival unions, which has necessitated frequent musters of militia in the Illinois coal fields, will come up for settlement as soon as the code for the coal industry is finished, Johnson said. Shortly before he took an army plane back to Washington, he said that he will call a meeting of operators and union officials to resume work on that code in the capital. Work on the code was suspended during his western trip.

He admitted that he is perplexed as to what steps to take to make peace between the rival unions, which he considers one of the recovery administration's largest problems, but said:

"Of course, the ideal situation would be for the Progressives to go back into the United Mine Workers."

Johnson summed up the latest news in the controversy brewing between the NRA and Henry Ford over the motor manufacturer's supposed reluctance to sign the code for the automobile industry with the phrase:

"It's Ford's move."

He added that he did not expect Ford to violate the code, pointing out that the minimum Ford wages are above the minimum set up in the code. The code sets only a minimum, Johnson added, leaving Ford or other manufacturers free to pay more if they desire. The only possibility of conflict, he believes, would come through Ford's dealings with his employés.

"If Ford employés should organize and send representatives to negotiate with him," Johnson said, "and Ford refused to meet them, he would of course be violating the auto code.

"If Ford doesn't sign a certificate of compliance, he can't have the Blue Eagle. He can't sell any cars to the government, and many of the states won't buy any."

ARTILLERY GUNS TO FIRE ON AIR TARGETS IN TEST

A bombardment to demonstrate the efficiency of ground batteries against airplanes will be made Thursday evening at Fort Sheridan by the 202d Coast artillery regiment of the Illinois National Guard.

Six huge searchlights will be used to illuminate targets to be towed by airplanes and at which the gunners will fire. New three inch mobile anti-aircraft guns, with an effective range of eight miles and a maximum altitude range of five miles, will be used.

The regiment, which is under command of Col. Charles C. Dawes, has been in training at Fort Sheridan since Aug. 26. An invitation to witness the practice has been extended to the public. A total of 15,000 rounds of ammunition for all arms will be fired and lake shipping has been ordered to stay at least twelve miles out during the shooting.

SARGENT RANKS NRA PLAN HIGH IN U. S. HISTORY

But He Adds Plea for Personal Liberty.

Next to the American revolution, the federal constitution, and the abolition of slavery, the greatest event in the history of this country was the program of legislation adopted by the last congress, in the opinion of Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and North Western railway. Mr. Sargent spoke at a dinner at the Blackstone hotel, closing the three day convention of the Association of Bank Women. The association is composed of women executives.

In a survey of the economic situation, the rail executive said he believed that "we could have come back to a normal, stable and safe state of prosperity with less governmental management of all industry," that "economic conditions were ripe for revival of business and industry."

Become More Progressive.

"We are in a position," he said, "where perhaps those of us who belong to the old school are able to change our ways of thinking. Perhaps we can become more progressive. Perhaps we can join the 'brain trust' in Washington in helping to bring this thing out in a manner that will give even greater distribution of the good things in life to the great masses of our people, without at the same time destroying the incentive of individual initiative.

"If we can do that, I am in favor of the change. But if we must sacrifice freedom for regulation, individual initiative for bureaucratic management, then I am against it. The only way we can tell is to give it a fair trial. I say this as one who opposed it when it was under consideration.

"Those whose political principles will be or have been wrenched by the new philosophy, must try to accustom themselves to 'the new deal,' and undertake to bring about such wise administration as will produce the greatest good for the greatest number. We must live, however, always in the hope that we will not completely abandon the basic principles of a free and democratic form of government."

Trend Is Upward.

Today, he said, the trend is upward, the whole stage set for an immediate and reasonable recovery in industry and in business everywhere. Carloadings are picking up, which has compelled the railroads to buy. This is giving impetus to equipment companies, that in turn will increase employment and buying in other lines.

"The President's heart and mind are right," Mr. Sargent continued. "All he wants to do is to restore an era of renewed prosperity on a permanent basis. He cannot do that unless you and I coöperate with him."

Of the European debts he declared, "It would be fortunate indeed if we could come to the realization that the national debts we are trying to collect from abroad are costing us more in the way of trade losses than the total amount of all the debts. They will never be collected anyway. The sooner they are cleaned up and put behind, the better off the American people will be."

Ford Boosts Minimum Wage to $4.80; Is Silent on NRA

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—A minimum wage increase from $4 to $4.80 a day for a large portion of the 40,000 employés of the Ford Motor company became known here today, apparently signaling Henry Ford's first move in "going it alone" against the NRA automotive code.

While officials of the Ford organization withheld a full announcement of wage policy, it was indicated that approximately 10,000 of the 40,000 workers have been granted a basic pay increase. The pay boost, affecting many workers on the assembly lines, brings the Ford wage once more within striking distance of the $5 a day minimum with which Ford startled the industrial world in 1914.

Although the basic minimum remains at $4, some of Ford's skilled workers are receiving as high as $10 a day, it was learned. The company is continuing on the five day week and eight hour day. Ford officials here emphasized that the wage revision is "a gradual process."

No Word as to NRA.

Whether the wage increase will be Ford's only answer to the desire of the Roosevelt administration that he sign the automobile code remains an unanswered question. The code become effective last night with no word forthcoming from the motor magnate, who remained at his Huron mountain camp in Michigan's north woods.

His son, Edsel Ford, also uncommunicative, was expected back here tomorrow from a vacation at Seal Harbor, Me. Local officials declined comment on the Ford-NRA controversy. The statement in Chicago of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, went unanswered. Johnson had declared "It's Ford's move: if he doesn't sign a certificate of compliance, he can't have the Blue Eagle."

Ford officials had previously maintained that Ford was "already living up to the NRA." The NRA calls for a 35 hour week with a 43 cent an hour minimum wage. Ford's 40 hour week with a 50 cents an hour minimum wage is well above the NRA standard, according to one interpretation.

President of NRA Unit.

Meanwhile, it transpired that Ford, first industrialist to challenge the administration individually, is honorary president of the NRA unit at Dearborn, Mich., site of Ford plants. His election to the post became known when the unit met today to determine what if any action to take in view of his not signing the automobile code. Officers of the unit said that they had been assured Ford would coöperate when they named him honorary president three weeks ago. Today's meeting adjourned without reaching a decision regarding Mr. Ford.

ICKES HASTENS STATES' ACTIONS ON PUBLIC WORKS

Sets 30 Day Deadline on Final Plans.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—In an effort to speed up the public works program, Secretary of the Interior Ickes today prescribed a 30 day deadline. Within that time states, cities, and other nonfederal borrowers must take final action on tentative allotments from the federal easy money fund.

Mr. Ickes declared himself dissatisfied with the pace of nonfederal applicants in getting their proposals into final form. Unless they present a completed contract within thirty days after tentative allotments are made, he ruled, they will forfeit the opportunity of obtaining government funds.

"States and municipalities have been slow to present their projects for consideration by the public works administration," Mr. Ickes stated, "and in some instances the excuse for this is that without assurance of favorable consideration there is no justification for incurring the expense involved in preparing a project.

"To meet this situation and to encourage states and municipalities to speed up their projects, the following resolution was introduced at the meeting of the special board for public works today:

"Resolved, that upon a proper prima facie showing that a proposed state or municipal public works project is socially desirable is satisfactory from an engineering point of view, and can be financed under the law, the public works administration may make an allocation of the money required for such project on the condition that not later than thirty days after such allocation the financial and engineering features of said project be worked out and a final contract, satisfactory to the administrator of public works, be executed, failing which the tentative allocation shall be without effect."

"Under this resolution," Mr. Ickes explained, "if the board considers the project desirable, it will make tentative allocation of the funds necesssary to complete it. Then the engineers, lawyers and financial experts will proceed to make an intensive study so that a final contract can be executed within not less than thirty days.

Nephew of Jimmy Walker Arrested on Rape Charge

New York, Sept. 5.—[Special.]—William H. Walker Jr., 29 years old, who said he was a nephew of former Mayor James J. Walker and a son of Dr. William H. Walker, was arrested tonight in District Attorney Crain's office. Walker, who said he was jobless, was held on a charge of felonious assault brought by Peggy Shaw, 24, a night club hostess. Mrs. Evelyn Q. Gonzales, assistant district attorney, obtained a statement from Miss Shaw at Bellevue hospital, where the young woman is in a critical condition, that Walker had raped her in a room in the Hotel Richmond.

PLAN TO LURE DEER FROM LEDGE BY BAITED CORN

Watkins Glen, N. Y., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Baited in a "big push" to drive the Watkins Glen deer from its prison home on a rocky ledge in the Glen gorge, authorities pinned their hopes today on a trail of baited corn to get the seven point buck from the predicament in which it has spent 11 days.

Seven men lowered 50 feet from the top of the cliff tried in vain to corral the animal this morning and drive it across the bridge constructed a week ago.

Later a trail of corn, baited with a preparation attractive to deer supplied by Michigan State university, was laid across the bridge while a detail of state police kept tourists at a distance of 1,000 feet.

Jubilant over the record breaking attendance of more than 100,000 persons over the holidays, park officials said they were considering asking permission to let the deer remain where it was until weather conditions made a change imperative.

MORE LOVE LETTERS IN CLAIRE WINDSOR SUIT DUE FOR AIRING

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—Further love letters taking Claire Windsor and Alfred C. Read Jr., Oakland broker, through the latter part of their first six months of friendship—September, 1931, to February, 1932—are scheduled for airing when Mrs. Marian Read's suit demanding $100,000 damages of the film star for asserted alienation reopens in Judge Joseph Sproul's courtroom tomorrow.

Read, who has publicly announced determination to assist Miss Windsor's defense and who wired yesterday from San Francisco that he was bringing "new and important witnesses," is expected back in Los Angeles tomorrow, but will not go on the stand until after both Miss Windsor and Mrs. Read finish testimony.

Attorneys for Mrs. Read declared tonight: "New defense witnesses mean nothing. Our witnesses are this sheaf of letters in which Miss Windsor kept asking when Read would rejoin her after his trip back to the coast to see his wife."

SEEK KANSAS BOND FORGERY EVIDENCE HERE

Topeka, Kas., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—Two state investigators left Topeka tonight for Chicago. There they will seek further data on the Boyd-Finney bond scandal. Lester M. Goodell, Shawnee county attorney, and Hugo T. Wedell, special prosecutor for the state, will question any Chicago bond brokers with whom Ronald Finney, speculator and bond forger, had dealings. Jackson Brothers, Boesel & Co., Chicago, are said to have been defrauded by them.

The state today dismissed old but filed new charges against Finney and Leland Caldwell, his employé, charging the forgery of $220,000, a Salina, Kas., school bond issue.

Those bonds were sold to the Citizens' State bank of Topeka. New warrants were issued on charges of forgery and sale of $30,000 of Hutchinson, Kas., bonds to the same bank.

Finney and Caldwell are in jail each in default of $50,000 bail. Tom Boyd state treasurer, will have his first day in court Friday. Caldwell and Finney will appear next week. Boyd is at liberty on $50,000 bonds, to cover state and federal charges.

100 Years of Peaks and Valleys in Chicago Land Values

From $168,800 to $5,000,000,000, this shows the ups and downs in aggregate value of all land within Chicago's present limits from 1833 to 1933. Chicago real estate has passed through five major depressions, but after each, has recovered and gone ahead. In no major depression have total values gone so low as in any previous one.

1833 Relics found along the ridges of Beverly Hills show that in earlier days the Indians camped there, overlooking the lowlands that make up the 79th and Ashland district. Chicago's first land boom carried the nearest of this outlying acreage from $1.25 in 1833 to $5.00 in 1836. Then came the panic of 1837. By 1841 prices receded to the original $1.25 per acre.

1852 With the coming of the Rock Island Railroad, the territory between Chicago and the country village of Blue Island began to grow. Up "the Blue Island Plank Road" (Western Avenue) it was a half day's drive to town. Settlements developed along the route and by 1856 values in the area advanced to $75 an acre.

1861 From 1857 to 1861, prices receded from $75 to $25 an acre. Read John Wright's "ad" published in 1861:

"St. Louis or Chicago? Which is to be the center of the Mississippi Valley? The revulsion of 1857 and our National difficulties have brought a most favorable time to buy real estate in Chicago. Prices of central lots are reduced nearly one-half, and of out-property about three-fourths, and in a few years must attain former figures, and more. If this remarkable situation can be taken advantage of, nearly everyone will establish the foundation of a fortune."

1873 In 1873, the acre value had reached $1,500. By 1879 it had receded to $500. In 1892 the per acre price had increased to $3,600. It dropped to $2,000 in 1900.

1915 In 1915 values rose to $5,230 and, in 1920, to $7,500 an acre (average for the total 960 acres bounded by 75th, 87th, Ashland and Halsted). Many were still "undeveloped" and "overgrown with weeds."

1927 A solid development of three story business and apartment buildings has now taken the place of the weeds and the cornfields. An old resident recalls that in 1920, people were amused when a buyer paid $17,000 for one of these cornfield corners 100 x 125 ft. In 1926, the same corner went to $250,000. The average value of the 960 acres shown on the plat went from $7,500 in 1920 to $38,750 or $161 a front foot in 1928.

1933 Even today, the cornfield corner above referred to is still considered worth $150,000. The average value of the 960 acres still stands at nearly two and a half times the level of 1920.

• • • •

The present period bears the familiar marks of previous cycles. Land values in most parts of Chicago reflect the ups and downs of the five major depressions of 1837, 1857, 1873, 1893 and 1929. But after each lull, the upward trend has reappeared. Despite the shock of panic, war and fire, values always have emerged to higher and more profitable investment levels. Chicago real estate, conservatively valued and well purchased, has proved itself one of the safest forms of investment.

ILLINOIS' NRA BOARD SWINGS INTO CAMPAIGN

Col. A. A. Sprague Elected Commission Chairman.

The Illinois state commission of the NRA held its first meeting yesterday and completed its organization in readiness to correlate the recovery efforts of the state with those of the national administration.

Col. A. A. Sprague, former city commissioner of public works, was elected chairman of the commission, and Robert B. Irwin, secretary of the Springfield chamber of commerce, was named secretary.

Gov. Henry Horner called the meeting, which was held at the Congress hotel.

Nine Men on Commission.

Members of the commission, besides Col. Sprague and Mr. Irwin, are Edward N. Hurley, Chicago industrialist and war time chairman of the United States shipping board; R. Douglas Stuart, Chicago; Richard J. Collins, Chicago; E. D. Funk, Funk's Grove; H. H. Ferguson, Alton; R. G. Soderstrom, Streator, and F. D. E. Babcock, Bloomington.

The meeting was also attended by Col. R. W. Lea, assistant administrator of the NRA at Washington, who represented his chief, Hugh S. Johnson.

"Illinois is now ready to go in the campaign to enlist industry and the consumers of the state under the leadership of President Roosevelt in the movement to create more jobs and thereby increase the buying power of the people," Gov. Horner announced.

"We hope to put Illinois 100 per cent under the Blue Eagle by a vigorous campaign of education, publicity and persuasion. This can only be done by the whole hearted and unselfish help of all classes."

Duties Not Fully Defined.

Col. Lea was asked for an explanation of the functioning and duties of the commission, but he asserted that they had not been fully worked out as yet. He said, however, that the commission will consider, act, and report on all matters referred to it by the national administration. Members of the commission will serve without compensation.

"While detailed plans of operation will be developed as our work progresses," said Chairman Sprague, "our work now is to create more jobs as soon as possible by inducing industry to adopt the NRA codes. That will be accomplished by setting up schedules of shorter working hours so that more men may be employed. Buying power will thus be increased and general business stimulated."

Another board of commissioners has also been appointed to cope with recovery problems in this territory, but while its duties will be similar to those of the state commission its jurisdiction will extend into Wisconsin. This district commission, as it is known, is composed of four members from Illinois and three from Wisconsin.

1,365 More on NRA Roll.

The NRA code was accepted yesterday by 1,365 Chicago concerns, Assistant Postmaster C. P. Scheel announced. This makes a total of 41,272 concerns employing nearly 500,000 workers who have signified their acceptances and those names have been posted on the honor roll at the United States courthouse.

F. L. Roberts, chief of the Chicago office of the United States department of commerce, reported that 4,521 acceptances of the President's reemployment agreement were received yesterday from employers in the district embracing Illinois, Wisconsin and Iowa. The total number of employers who have signed that agreement in this district is 205,899, with an aggregate of 1,984,892 employes being affected.

Five new NRA pledging stations were opened by the Chicago recovery council to bring the total to 143 stations now existing in the city where pledge cards may be signed and consumers' stickers obtained. More than 410,000 cards and stickers have now been distributed, it was announced by Paul Kunning of the Chicago Association of Commerce. He predicted that 750,000 persons will have signed up by the time the work is finished. It is expected this will take two weeks more.

New Holiday Interpretation.

A second interpretation has been received by the recovery council to replace one previously given on how the NRA affects Labor day and other legal holidays. In the new ruling it is stated that customary business procedure applies. Where the employe is paid by the week he will be entitled to a full week's salary, but where he is paid by the hour his compensation shall be only for the actual number of hours worked.

Approximately 4,000 Chicago members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union went back to work yesterday after having been out on strike for two weeks in a protest against alleged refusal by manufacturers to live up to the NRA code they had signed.

It was announced by Samuel J. Eisenberg, president of the Chicago Dress Manufacturers 'association, that as a result of the 15 to 25 per cent increase in wages and the reduction in working hours granted the garment workers wholesale prices of women's dresses will be increased 25 to 30 per cent in Chicago next Monday.

BRITISH CABINET DISCUSSES WAR DEBTS AND IRAQ

Session Is Devoted to Foreign Affairs.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 5.—One of the largest summer cabinet sessions on record was held in Downing street today to discuss the Assyrian problem in Iraq, current trade negotiations with Moscow, war debts, and, in view of the visit of Norman H. Davis of the United States in England, disarmament.

Only two members of the cabinet were absent. Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the council, is still vacationing in France, and Sir Godfrey Collins, secretary for Scotland, is busy with engagements in the north.

Almost the entire session today was devoted to foreign affairs, inasmuch as the internal situation with favorable employment figures is creating less worry than the British government has experienced in years.

King Resents Reports.

Last month more than 600 Assyrian Christians were reported to have been killed in clashes with the Kurds and Iraq forces in northern Iraq. Britain, as the former mandatory power over Iraq, asked a league of nations' investigation and sought to establish peace.

A London newspaper today quoted King Feisal of Iraq, who now is in Switzerland, as indignantly resenting and repudiating reports of maltreatment of Assyrian Christians.

"It is disgraceful to talk about a massacre," King Feisal is quoted as saying.

On the matter of war debts the cabinet is understood to have discussed the impending departure of Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, treasury expert, for Washington to discuss the obligations.

MacDonald to See King.

Prime Minister MacDonald left London tonight to return to Scotland, but on his way he will visit Balmoral castle to see King George. Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, was scheduled to leave London tonight or tomorrow, but he delayed his departure because Mr. Davis, President Roosevelt's roving ambassador, is due in London early tomorrow.

It is understood that the two will attempt to reconcile Anglo-American viewpoints in relation to the British disarmament scheme.

Davis landed at Plymouth just before midnight. To newspaper men he expressed the hope that "the nations will have the wisdom and courage to reach an agreement at the disarmament conference." He said he did not "like to prophesy and cannot predict what will happen."

Urges Arms Control.

"The United States is willing to entertain a European pact of nonaggression," he said. "We support the British disarmament plan in principle, but details must be worked out. We have advocated setting up a general body at Geneva to control armaments."

The conversations in London will move to Paris Sept. 18, although British official circles deny that there will be any four power pact discussions there.

Davis will pass through Paris on the way to the disarmament conference and Undersecretary of Foreign Affairs Anthony Eden will go to France next week. He will see Premier Daladier and Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour and it is likely Davis will attend the conversations.

Continues Removal Action in $100,000 Forgery Case

United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker yesterday continued to Sept. 12 the removal proceedings against Roscoe Clough and Mary Roundtree, who are wanted in Los Angeles, Cal., on charges of forging certificates of registration for approximately $100,000 in stolen Liberty bonds. Assistant District Attorney Austin Hall said the government needed time to bring witnesses here.

POSTAL WORKERS TO ASK CONGRESS FOR 30 HOUR WEEK

A resolution urging congress to put postal employés on a 30 hour week, in keeping with the minimum hour proposals of the National Recovery administration to other industries, was adopted by the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks, meeting in convention at the Palmer house yesterday.

The resolution was approved by 1,500 delegates, representing 40,000 postoffice workers. It is to be presented to congress in the form of a bill, probably by Cong. James M. Mead, who will address the convention today, according to officials of the federation.

Action toward the merging of the federation with the United National Association of Postoffice Clerks, which has a membership of 12,000, is expected today.

U.S. APPEAL JUDGE DELAYS SEIZURE OF CHECKER CABS

Amicable Settlement Is Urged by Court.

Judge George T. Page of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday granted a twenty-four hour extension to 500 Checker taxicab driver-owners who were faced with the seizure of their cabs because they are in arrears in their payments to the company. Federal Judge John P. Barnes had authorized the company to repossess the 500 cabs from drivers who owe from $10 to $105 each. The drivers appealed to Judge Page, who urged attorneys for both sides to get together and try to reach an amicable settlement. The attorneys are to report to him at 3 o'clock today.

Attorney Samuel A. Ettelson, representing the taxicab company, said some of the cabs already had been seized. He said he would instruct the company's superintendent not to seize any more, pending final decision by Judge Page. Meanwhile at the company's offices it was said that many of the drivers were paying up.

Halts Talk of Strike.

The action before Judge Page halted talk of a strike by other Checker cab drivers. The drivers and company officials have not been operating in harmony for several months following a revolt by many of the drivers who reduced their rates of fare without permission from the company. Since then many of the drivers have refused to pay garage rent and accident fund fees to the company. It was because of their delinquency in these payments, and because the contracts between the company and the drivers authorizes the seizure of the cabs under such circumstances, that Judge Barnes entered his order.

The company has about 1,500 cabs owned by the drivers. Many of the drivers not affected threatened to strike if the 500 cars were seized.

Hope for Agreement.

Yesterday Attorney Julian C. Ryer, representing the drivers, "appealed to the conscience of the court" to withhold the order for two weeks to give the drivers an opportunity to complete their defense. After the action of Judge Page the drivers' lawyer said he would confer with Attorney Ettelson and an agreement might be reached.

In a hearing before the city taxicab commission yesterday John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, asked for 1,000 licenses to be issued to drivers not associated with the two major cab companies which now control most of the licenses issued. He approved a request of Attorney Lee Daniels, president of the Public Service Cab company, for 250 licenses because, he said, this is the only company whose cabs are manned by union drivers.

PENTHOUSE ON LINER IS THE AMBITION OF RICH PARIS WIDOW

New York, Sept. 5.—[Special.]—A seagoing penthouse is the ambition of Mme. Vischer D'Assonleville, a wealthy, middleaged widow living in Paris, who sailed for Europe today on the Ile de France. Her ambition, she said, is to be the ocean's permanent tenant.

"I am enamoured of the sea," Mme. D'Assonleville declared, "and I made my first cruise less than two months ago.

"In July I boarded the De Grasse with my maid. It was to be a brief cruise, but when the ship docked at Le Havre—to which I had booked passage—instead of going ashore I told them: 'I am ready to go right along forever.' So that is what I did. I stayed aboard and made the trip on the De Grasse to New York."

Today, on sailing, Mme. D'Assonleville instructed Henry Villars, Ile de France purser, to obtain a permanent trans-Atlantic lease for her.

"I wish," she said, "that you would find what it will cost to keep on traveling on these ships. I am sure it is quite as reasonable as keeping an apartment and servants in Paris."

QUAKE CAVES IN 170 SQUARE MILE AREA IN CHINA

SHANGHAI, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Chinese dispatches today described the caving in of an area of 170 square miles in an earthquake in Szechwan province, western China.

The shock was reported strongest in the Min river area in northwest Szechwan, where five entire districts are reported laid waste, with enormous loss of life and property.

Reports said part of the mountains along the river crumbled and slid into the stream, changing its course and isolating the area.

Earlier dispatches from Chengtu, capital of the province, said 100 persons were killed. Later information said the quake was the worst suffered in 100 years. The stricken area is mountainous and subject to severe quakes at frequent intervals.

EIGHT RUSSIANS ARE KILLED AS PLANE CRASHES

MOSCOW, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Eight persons, three of them leading figures in soviet Russian aviation circles, were killed today when their plane crashed south of Podolsk. The dead:

P. Baranoff, assistant commissar of heavy industry, who directs Russia's entire aircraft industry; his wife, V. Baranoff; A. Goltzman, chief of the civil air fleet; his assistant, A. Petroff; V. PLAN NEW FIGHT OVER MICHIGAN BOUNDARY LINE

Dispute with Wisconsin Involves Fishing Area.

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—Despite objections of John K. Stack Jr., auditor general, it appeared today that Michigan will continue to carry on litigation involving the Michigan-Wisconsin boundary line.

Stack lost a skirmish with Patrick H. O'Brien, attorney general, at the administrative board meeting today, all other board members voting with O'Brien to finance preparation of Michigan's case. Stack has been refusing to approve vouchers for payments of the state's auixiliary counsel, having rejected several submitted by O'Brien and M. P. Sawyer, Menominee attorney, who has aided the attorney general in preparing the case for submission to the U. S. Supreme court.

"If we abandon this suit after the many years of litigation," O'Brien said, "I might as well close down my department."

Says Money Is Wasted.

"The state has wasted more than $100,000 on this silly case," said Stack, "and it is nothing more than a legal racket. I will not approve any more vouchers. Somebody will have to mandamus me if they get the money."

O'Brien claims that fishing rights in a portion of Green Bay are involved and that a favorable decision in the case will mean many thousands of dollars to Michigan interests. The state of Wisconsin has contended that the Supreme court erred in an issue of fact in deciding the present border line and there has been effort to bar Michigan conservation officials from the disputed territory where they have been trying to enforce Michigan commercial fishing laws. Ownership of Sugar island in Green bay is also involved.

In Other Controversies.

Stack has been involved recently in several controversies with his colleagues in Gov. William A. Comstock's Democratic "cabinet." A threatened showdown in an argument between Stack and Burnett J. Abbott, secretary of the state board, relative to Abbott's purchasing powers, failed to materialize today and it is believed the governor is striving to bring about harmony among Democratic state office holders.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Chief of Detectives Shoemaker announced last night that automobile thefts and other forms of robbery are on the wane due to recent drastic sentences imposed on criminals in court. The detective chief said that previous to the stringent action against automobile thieves, thefts of cars averaged a hundred a day, but that now they are less than fifty a day.

Why be a Furnace Slave when Gas Heat will set you free?

To prove that every home can afford to heat with gas, we will install it at our expense and remove it at our expense, if you don't like it

How do you like your job of furnace-tending? How much time will you be spending in the basement during the long winter months to come? Probably hours and hours of time that could be put to better advantage. Such as reading, sewing, bridge, spending more time with the children.

New low cost for gas heat

Then why put up with this furnace slavery when it's so easy to have gas heat in your home? Rates are lower. The cost of gas heat is now one-half of what it was in the 1930-31 heating season. And it costs you nothing for equipment to try gas heat in your own home.

We want to prove that every home can now afford to heat with gas. So we make this offer: we'll install it in your home without your making one cent of investment. Then you'll know from your own personal experience whether you can afford gas heat or not. And if we're wrong and you decide you don't want it—out it comes. We remove it at our expense.

During the nine heating months of the first year you pay $3 a month rental for the equipment in the average home. The charge will be included with your gas bill. And if for any reason during the first year you want it removed, we take it out and the rental charge stops immediately. Further, we replace your former heating equipment in good workmanlike order. If you decide you want it the rental applies on the purchase price.

Get these benefits of gas heat

Decide now to have gas heat in your home. End days and nights of shoveling coal . . . dirty hours of hauling ashes . . . the nuisance of chopping kindling . . . the anxiety of watching fires, setting dampers. Let your home be kept spotlessly clean—free forever of dust, grime and soot. Fire your furnace from your easy chair by simply setting a thermostat. The temperature of your home is kept even, correct, day and night for better health, perfect comfort and convenience of your family.

Get all the facts about the new low cost gas heat. Mail the coupon for full information on heating your home.

YOU INVEST NOTHING!

Without ONE CENT of investment by you, we install the most modern burner in your furnace or boiler. If you are satisfied, it stays. "The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

KEEP UP THE DRIVE ON CRIME.

The admirable energy and ability of the retiring chief justice of the Criminal court, Judge Prystalski, has earned the gratitude of the community, and set a high standard for his successor, Chief Justice Philip L. Sullivan. That the new chief justice is disposed to maintain it is evident and we hope the Circuit and Superior bench will cooperate with him wholeheartedly.

Justice Sullivan has asked for the immediate assignment of ten judges to the Criminal court and the retention of this number at least until the calendar is clear and every serious criminal charge is insured prompt adjudication. We trust this request will be granted. The calendar should not be allowed to run behind again. Prompt prosecution and trial of all serious crimes must be made certain. It is essential to justice and the protection of the public.

FOR A TRAFFIC SURVEY.

That our boulevard system is incapable of carrying any traffic load in addition to the usual local demands is very evident. Most of our main thoroughfares have been choked from early morning until late at night during the present summer. Now the Chicago resident is exhorted by signs, newspaper and radio proclamations, etc., to use other routes to relieve the congestion.

But this effort must largely fail because there are few through streets which do not carry surface lines. On most of such streets a parked car and a street car will block the motorist. To run around the street car is hazardous at best.

The necessity for a thorough survey is evident. Should we have more streets like Western and Ashland avenues, sufficiently wide to accommodate both motor and surface line traffic? Could buses be substituted for street cars on some narrower streets? If Chicago is to retain its position as the convention city the survey should be undertaken at once.

GATHERING THE FUEL OF WAR.

The disposition of responsible newspapers in the United States to cultivate friendly sentiment toward the Japanese nation will soon be chilled by the contrary disposition shown by even the most important newspapers in Japan. Knowledge of what hardly can be taken as anything but a deliberate policy in the Japanese press to inflame distrust and hostility towards the United States in the Japanese public has not impressed us favorably. Our correspondents in Japan take it seriously, as the dispatch of Sept. 3 published in Monday's TRIBUNE indicates.

The fact that the present Japanese government is able to restrain irresponsible inflammatory publicity, and has failed conspicuously to do so, while officially declaring its determination to foster friendly relations, cannot be ignored by either the government or people of the United States. The explanation given unofficially is not assuring. We can make reasonable allowance for the urgencies of domestic politics, but we cannot believe that it is necessary to foster widespread hatred and fear of the United States in order to induce the Japanese legislature to vote or the public to approve the army and navy appropriations sought by them.

But even though the present Japanese government may think this course of action is expedient, we in America must resent it as unfriendly and regard it with concern as exhibiting a recklessness and lack of good faith which promise serious consequences in the future relations of the two countries. Official assurances, like that of War Minister Araki, must be heavily discounted against a background of unfriendly propaganda actively carried on for months in Japan, and the result must be to convince us eventually that Japanese diplomacy is unreliable. With this conviction the foundations of friendly relations will disappear.

This will bring about a transformation of American policy which, however tactless it has been in some instances, has been directed by the sincere conviction that friendly relations between the two peoples may be maintained and that, as War Minister Araki has just said, war between us would be both unnecessary and deplorable. It would be both, but its prevention must depend as much upon the sentiment and conduct of the Japanese as upon ours. It would be a misfortune for both peoples if there is permitted to grow and even encouraged among the Japanese public a sentiment of unfounded distrust and hostility toward the United States which must cloud its estimate of the consequences to themselves of war or unfriendly relations. Not only is America the principal market for Japan, but the United States has resources which it would be fatal for Japan to encounter. A war between us would be injurious to the interests of both nations, but it is to be hoped the Japanese government and people will realize that it would be not merely injurious but disastrous to them. The United States is not China or Russia. It is not belligerent, but once embarked upon a conflict it would avail itself of resources economic, financial and military which would insure victory.

If this is understood as it should be in Tokio, it would seem to be very unwise for Japanese statesmanship to permit much less create a public sentiment which may make it difficult to maintain friendly relations, commercial and political, between our countries.

The anti-American propaganda seems to us very unwise for the reasons given, but it cannot be ignored.

THE LATEST CUBAN DEVELOPMENT.

The revolt against the provisional government in Cuba suggests a more serious infiltration of radical ideas than the American public has suspected. The coup d'état so effectively accomplished by a group of noncommissioned officers and privates and policemen resembles the revolution in Chile, although the latter was led by higher officers. But in both instances the objective seems to have been economic and social revolution and shows the influence of communist organization which has been at work in several Latin-American countries.

What the course of the latest development in Cuba may be we cannot yet foresee, but the situation will probably soon present some delicate questions for our government to answer. We have a special relation to Cuba which does not apply to any other country. Article 3 of the so-called Platt amendment or appendix to the Cuban constitution provides "that the government of Cuba consents that the United States may exercise the right to intervene for the preservation of Cuban independence, the maintenance of a government adequate for the protection of life, property, and individual liberty, and for discharging the obligations with respect to Cuba imposed by the treaty of Paris on the United States, now to be assumed and undertaken by the government of Cuba."

Sergt. Batista, the leader of the forces now apparently in control of the Cuban administration, at least in Havana, says that "we will not relinquish control until a truly revolutionary government has been established in Cuba." The question of intervention either from the viewpoint of legal right or of expediency will turn upon Sergt. Batista's and his associates' notions of a truly revolutionary government. If, as may be suspected, it involves confiscation of property, the execution or imprisonment of dissenters, repudiation of debts and other measures adopted by other truly revolutionary régimes, it would seem that American intervention would come within the terms of the Platt amendment whether or not it is deemed desirable by our government. We would seem to be responsible for the protection of life, property and individual liberty not only for foreigners in Cuba but among the Cubans themselves. If the new régime has communistic intentions it will soon confront our government with the duty of intervention, reluctant as it and the American people are to resort to forceful interference in Cuban events.

EASTERN MINDED.

The air conditioned train is the greatest forward step that the railways have made in recent years. The effect has been to relegate the best efforts of previous years to a second class standard.

In so far as our eastern railways are concerned, with the outstanding exception of the Baltimore and Ohio, second class service is apparently good enough for Chicagoans. No effort has been made to modernize the New York-Chicago service of either the Pennsylvania or New York Central, despite the fact that the Pennsylvania is operating air cooled trains between New York and Washington, through a territory advertised to be "cooled by Atlantic breezes."

The only conclusion that we can reach is that these two trunk lines are eastern minded and feel that they must cater to easterners irrespective of the fact that the Broadway and Century are usually cited as outstanding revenue trains.

After years of deliberation, Chicago secured eighteen hour service to New York. Even with this time reduction the train is not as fast as the Congressional Limited operated between New York and Washington. Both the New York Central and Pennsylvania have long stretches of electrified lines in the east with no plans for Chicago.

We presume that Chicago will get these advantages some day, but in the meantime the roads would improve their relations with the public here if for once they started improvements in Chicago instead of assuming that we will be content with second class trains until the New Yorker demands air conditioned service to Chicago.

Editorial of the Day

[Traffic World.]

Much of what we consider the misapprehension as to what is expected to be the result of present governmental economic policies is due to a misunderstanding as to cause and effect and a mistaking of one for the other. Any one who has ever been familiar with Rotary club proceedings has observed the forced enthusiasm with which Rotarians sing at their meetings. The idea is that when people are happy they are likely to sing; therefore, if we sing that shows we are happy. Rotarians also are supposed to call each other by their first names, the theory being that friends address each other in that way; therefore, since we wish to be friendly we will call each other "Bill" and "Jim." Of course, that is mistaking effect for cause. If people really know and like each other well enough to use given names that is one thing; using them as a matter of form or rule does not prove friendship; the same thing is true of the singing—the effect is substituted for the cause and those responsible think they have proved the cause—that Rotarians are all happy and that they all know each other intimately—which, of course, is not true.

With Rotarians, however, the matter is not serious. It becomes so when the same theory is applied to economics as is being done now in our national affairs. It is not surprising that the ordinary citizen does not detect the error, for Rotarians seem not to detect it and they are usually more or less intelligent men. What is surprising is that economists and alleged statesmen "fall" for it.

Our policy is now to shorten hours and thus put a lot of unemployed to work, the theory being that when there are few or no unemployed the country is prosperous and business is flourishing. Of course, that is true when the men go to work as the result of prosperity and a real demand that makes it necessary for business to put on additional employés, but it is not true when the men are employed as a result of fictitious means—a plan that compels employers to hire men they do not need under reasonable systems of work. If the unemployed get jobs as the result of the enforcement of the national recovery act that merely means that jobs have been made for them—not that business has improved. NRA may be a good substitute for the community chest and unemployment relief funds, but as an economic measure to restore prosperity it is a mistaking of effect for cause and sounds very much like Rotary club singing.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

JUST TO SHOW YOU how far away it's possible to get from this busy world in two days' time I'll tell you about Mountain lake, up in the Algoma country, east of the Soo. The guide led us through the bush. At first we called it "the forest," but in time we learned to say "the bush." First we crossed a lake to a portage and along that until the trail led up the side of a cliff. It was a mountain before us. A small mountain, but nevertheless a mountain. It was regular Alpine climbing. Oh, Alpine climbing on a small scale. I'll admit that before the argument starts, and we didn't have to be tied together and we didn't use alpenstocks and there were no chamois leaping from crag to crag, but I'll stick to my story that it was Alpine climbing.

Anyhow, we climbed to the top of the mountain, and there was a lake, and because the lake was on top of a mountain it was called Mountain lake, with the same startling originality they display when they name their homes "The Oaks," "The Pines," "Bide a Wee," "Do Drop Inn," "Pot Luck," "Hilltop," or "The House by the Side of the Road." It's a beautiful little lake, away up there far off from the world. There's no house or hut or tent on the lake. No radio, no telephone, no taxicabs or auto. You couldn't even wheel a baby cab up that trail. And the only sound is the murmuring of the wind through the pines.

And there are fish there, speckled trout, flashing with all the colors of the rainbow. They're far too beautiful to eat, but we did eat the one we caught, and never did any of us taste anything in the way of fish more delicious. And then as we lolled on the grass and looked up at the blue sky, being so far away from the world, we began to talk about it. Of course, we thought first of the NRA, and, wondering what they thought of it in Canada, I asked the guide what he thought of the Blue Eagle. "I shot one of 'em last summer," said the guide. "He was the dammest biggest eagle I ever saw and a kind of a bluey gray. An' I shot him right up in this very place."

SONNET.

And what is love that I should lie long nights
Alone, and nightly count the shadow sheep
That pasture on the ceiling in the lights
Cast from my neighbor's house to break my sleep?
I know of some who love in otherwise;
Who sleep the stars around and never hear
The clock strike four; nor see with fretful eyes
Nightshapes; nor catch upon the troubled ear
The early morning noises from the street.
Love wakes in them new-born with every dawn,
A love too young to gnaw love's proper meat.
Better to feast, than when the meat is gone
To rise and breakfast from a barren bone
And to lie down at night to starve alone.

PERITONITIS.

NOT much is heard now, as compared with former years, of peritonitis, principally because the term is not used as loosely as it once was. In that day much of the appendicitis, diverticulitis, and other infections starting near the peritoneum and spreading to it in some degree were entered in the records as peritonitis.

The peritoneum is the very delicate, fine membrane which covers the organs located in the abdomen. It also dips down into the pelvis and partly covers the organs there. It corresponds to the pleura, a similar membrane covering the lungs, the pericardium covering the heart and the meninges covering the brain and cord.

The membrane serves as a loose, smooth wrapper, permitting movement of the movable organs with almost no friction. There is nothing to the structure except some fibers and cells, a few blood vessels, and some nerves. All in all, it is about as neutral, negative, passive a structure as is found in the body.

The only disease of the peritoneum of which there is any talk is inflammation due to infection. This is what goes by the name peritonitis. The microbes causing peritonitis get to that membrane from other structures. Among the infections that are liable to spread to the peritoneum from nearby organs are those causing appendicitis, suppuration of the gall bladder, strangulated hernia, pus tubes, childbed fever, and abscesses of the liver, kidney and pancreas. The list is a long one.

There is at least one condition in which an infection entering at a remote part of the body has some tendency to locate in the peritoneum. That is epidemic sore throat.

The symptoms of peritonitis are pain, tenderness, fever, and rapid pulse. The pain is greatest in earlier stages. When the inflamed membrane is rubbing after fluid begins to exude the pain is apt to be less.

In addition, there are symptoms caused by the disease out of which the peritonitis grew, such as appendicitis or pus tubes. Treatment is principally surgical. The chief object of the surgery is to overcome the primary disease, the appendicitis, the pus tubes, the abscess, the perforation—the basic trouble, whatever it may be.

We hear much about adhesions. Among the persisting after-effects of peritonitis are adhesion bands. As a rule, these follow localized rather than a generalized inflammation of the peritoneum.

EPILEPSY.

C. E. S. writes: About a month and a half ago I wrote to you asking you many questions about epilepsy. That was the second time I had written to you and neither time did you answer me.

1. What are the causes of epilepsy?
2. Is there a cure for it?
3. May people, themselves suffering from epilepsy, have children?
4. Will these children be unusually healthy and strong? Or will they be affected by their parents' malady?
5. An operation on the brain as a cure is advocated. What do you think of this treatment?

REPLY.

You doubtless wrote an anonymous letter, giving no address and inclosing no stamp, in the same way you wrote this. We receive many such letters daily, and have space for only two or three.

1. No one knows.
2. There are several cures. Each cures an occasional case. Most cases are not cured.
3. Many parents are epileptic.
4. Some are healthy. Some are healthy physically, but have the epileptic type of mind and personality.
5. It cures a very few cases. Of all cures it is the least worth while.

CYST.

Mrs. B. B. writes: What is a cyst and is it dangerous? I was told by a doctor that this would have to come out as it keeps growing. Is it so?

REPLY.

A cyst is an accumulation of something, usually fluid, within a cyst wall. Most of them are due to retention. A blackhead is a cyst. Yours is probably an ovarian cyst. Many women have them. They are not dangerous of themselves.

The advisability of having an ovarian cyst removed depends on its size, the rate at which it is increasing in size, how much it is in the way, and whether or not it causes much inconvenience.

NO HARM IN SALT BATH.

F. B. writes: I have a nervous stomach and gas due to indigestion. Would there be any harm in using sea salt in a warm bath?

REPLY.

COURT GUARDIAN.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am a girl 17 years old. In 1931 I was in an automobile accident. In May, 1932, the case was settled in court and after paying the expenses there was a couple hundred dollars left. The money was put in [1] a trust fund. My mother and I feel that it is best to try and secure the money now as I need it for an education. 2. I would like to know what steps to take in getting the money. 3. Is it necessary to employ an attorney? 4. Would I be able to secure this money now, even though I am still a minor? A. F.

1. We assume that you mean that it was turned over to a court guardian.
2. The guardian should apply to the court for leave to spend specific sums for your education.
3. It is advisable in the ordinary case.
4. Only in the manner above suggested.

NOT AN HEIR.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If a divorced man has remarried, and in case of death, can the first wife claim money left in the bank or other valuables? J. M.

She would not be an heir. Hence she would not have a claim unless the account was in joint tenancy or there were other grounds for her claim.

TRANSFER OF OWNERSHIP.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—How should A go about turning over a bond that is now in her name to B? It is a single bond worth $500. W. F. M.

Ordinarily bonds are so worded as to be payable to bearer and hence no indorsement or other formal steps to transfer title are necessary. We cannot advise to advantage without knowing what you mean by saying that the bond is now in A's name.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FRIEND OF THE FARMER

[Inquiries on problems of farm management, financing, or governmental regulations sent to this department must be accompanied by stamped, addressed envelope for reply.]

M. M. R. ASKS—What crops can I grow on the land taken out of wheat production? The government's contract does not specify.

ANSWER—The contract which you sign in reducing wheat acreage for three years does not permit growing any crop that enters into national commerce, or except that to be consumed at home. A new ruling of the federal department of agriculture further restricts the use of such land to permanent pasture, summer fallowing, meadow crops, weed control, planting to forest trees or soil building crops such as legumes, or the land must be left idle.

F. D. A. ASKS—I own a farm on which considerable tobacco is being grown. Is there any provision for the government renting this land to take it out of production?

ANSWER—No definite commitment has been made by the government on its tobacco production control except that plans are being worked out to reduce the acreage in flue cured, burley, Maryland, dark air cured and dark fire cured tobaccos in 1934. A processing tax is to be levied on all flue cured tobacco for domestic consumption beginning Oct. 1. The department of agriculture expects to offer contracts to growers late this fall or winter.

NRA QUESTION BOX

Following are some typical questions occasioned by the national recovery act and their answers, as given by Paul Kunning, secretary of the Chicago Recovery council, the new federation of 138 big Chicago business and civic organizations, which is aiding President Roosevelt's economic rehabilitation movement here. Other questions, as presented by Chicago's business men and consumers, and their answers by Mr. Kunning, will be given daily. The Chicago Recovery council is headed by George W. Rossetter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

QUESTION—We did not quite understand your ruling on the procedure under the NRA covering Labor day and other weeks when there are legal holidays. Can you make this somewhat clearer?

ANSWER—We thought we had made it clear, but are happy to make one more attempt in the hope that all may understand. In brief, customary business procedure applies. Where the employé was paid by the week he will, as in the past, be entitled to a full week's salary. Where the employé is paid by the hour his pay shall be only for the actual number of hours worked. If necessary, he may be worked overtime during the balance of the week until his total hours of work shall have reached the maximum hours permitted by that industry. In cases where employés are worked overtime in order to make up for the hours lost by the holiday it is not necessary to pay extra for the overtime period. In other words, his pay check for the week will be equal to the number of hours worked times the regular rate per hour.

QUESTION—Do the clerical help, scrub women, janitors, etc., who are employed in hospitals come under the NRA?

ANSWER—We regret to say that they do not, nor does any other hospital help come under the NRA. Hospitals are exempted from this act because they are classified as a public institution.

WILL THEY NEVER LEARN?

CRUISING IN OUTMODED SHIPS.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 30.—I've just been looking at pictures of the terrible things comprising the fleet used by the naval reservists of the middle west in their annual training cruise. Once I was aboard the U. S. S. Wilmette.

There isn't any semblance of the real navy in any of these ships. Middle western boys return home with nothing of material value resulting from their experience. Their ideas of naval construction, routine, and modern tactics must be terribly confused.

Last year in Philadelphia I saw a score of serviceable destroyers lashed together in the navy yard. Each of these ships is a cruiser in miniature. Each of these ships is equipped with directo-fire, gyro compass, torpedoes and tubes, and can economically be brought up to date in the matter of refinements developed since the war. Each of these ships is a part of the navy. Life aboard represents actual naval conditions. Two weeks aboard one of these provides a real background for winter time armory theory.

I wish to urge you to use your splendid influence in bringing enough of these ships to the great lakes to provide a more suitable training for naval reservists. J. A. TWIMAN.

A MILLION YEARS AGO.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—We were interested this morning in the letter signed K. S. regarding "The World a Million Years Ago."

Mr. Henry Field, curator of the Field museum, was one of our visitors, as well as many other scientists who complimented the exhibition highly. Also Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews, who said:

"Dr. Granger and I were most interested in our visit to the studio of Messmore & Damon. Both of us were delighted with the ingenious reconstructions of prehistoric animals which they are making. We were glad to see that they were doing it in a really serious way and making great efforts to have the models as accurate as possible. Dr. Granger and I feel that this has great possibilities educationally. It almost makes fossil animals live, and I look forward to the time when our scientific museums will have exhibits of this sort."

The age of fossils is a moot question, and the scientist does not live who is able to state as positively as K. S. does the age of any fossil remains. The dates placed on these exhibitions by us were to serve as a basis for comment and argument, and in this we have been successful.

The size of the mammoth on display is actually thirteen and one-half feet and fossil remains of this size are by no means rare. Perhaps the position of this animal mounted on a high rock would lead a casual observer to estimate its size as greater than it really is.

AGAINST A PERMANENT FAIR.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—Ye gods, haven't the grasping private interests of this town stolen enough of the people's lake front without my favorite newspaper sponsoring a plan whereby our front yard will be permanently made over into a side show?

All you have to say about science, progress, the advantages to local business concerns, etc., is, I suppose, on the target. We could perhaps retain the Hall of Science, the Travel and Transport building, and those of a purely scientific and educational nature, but would THE TRIBUNE be willing to guarantee that Chicago's front yard would be forever free from the Sally Rands, Rosalias, Miss Americas, and other assorted muscle-movers of the Midway? And how about the popcorn, hamburger, and hot-dog stands? And hasn't the city itself registered its decidedly what-of-it attitude towards the Fair by its comparative mass absence? And don't you think that this attitude is engendered somewhat by the city-wide knowledge that this Fair is essentially a privately run carnival, for and by private interests? Again, if one were to judge by where one sees the greatest crowds at the Fair now, the Midway, I, for one, would say that the proposed permanent scientific exposition would be a flop.

And who would get the revenue from such a show? And if no revenue, could Chicago support such a permanent exposition? And would it be sporting for Chicago to have a permanent counter attraction against other cities that might want to have a Fair?

CLAUDE FLYNN.

AN ANNUAL FAIR.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—In Toronto, Canada, they have an exposition every year which lasts for two weeks. During that period the city is crowded with visitors. All hotels, rooming houses, etc., are taxed to the limit to care for the visitors, who come from all parts of Canada and the United States.

In Chicago we could have a fair every year to last for a month or six weeks. With the great advantages that Chicago possesses, such as central location and the biggest railroad center in the world, two very important factors, there is no reason why a yearly exposition could not be a continual success.

CAB FARES.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—I happened to be in a hurry this morning and took a Yellow cab about fifty feet north of Monroe street on La Salle street and rode to the La Salle street station, which was about three and one-half blocks. When I arrived the meter registered 20 cents. I said to the driver: "What does this mean?" and he stammered out that it was due to heavy traffic. But the fact is that the meter is clicking even when the cab is standing still in traffic jams. It is not 10 cents for each two-thirds of a mile, for I rode about one-third of a mile and paid for a mile and a half ride. There is a catch in it all right.

PHILATELIC GROUCH.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—Asinine stupidity was displayed by postoffice officials in the sale of the unperforated Century of Progress stamps. From experience gained through previous first day sales arrangements could have been made which would have eliminated the useless running from one postoffice to another by the thousands of purchasers. But you can't use brains if you haven't got them.

GERMANY OFFERS APOLOGY IN NAZI ATTACK ON YANK

BERLIN, Sept. 5.—The German ministry of propaganda and public enlightenment, headed by Dr. Joseph Goebbels, has offered a complete apology to H. V. Kaltenborn, American political radio commentator, for the assault by a Nazi on Mr. Kaltenborn's 17-year old son, Rolf, in a Berlin street last week.

This information was obtained today from authoritative sources, together with additional details of the attack, which formed one of a series against which the United States Consulate General has protested to the German authorities.

Attack is Described.

As related by Kaltenborn to friends staying in Berlin, he, his wife and his son and daughter were standing in the Leipzigerstrasse watching a troop of brown shirts marching to a railway station to entrain for the Nazi congress in Nuremburg, when a husky man in the crowd trailing the parade stepped up and hit Rolf in the face. The assailant who did not wear a uniform, disappeared.

Neither Kaltenborn nor his son was able to account for this unprovoked attack. They assume, however, that at the bottom of it was the usual cause for the attacks on Americans, namely, failure to give the Hitler salute. Kaltenborn did not salute either, but was not molested.

Kaltenborn reported the incident to the American consulate general.

Apology Delivered on Train.

The apology of the propaganda ministry was delivered to Kaltenborn in a letter handed to him on a train as he was leaving Berlin to return to the United States. In the letter the ministry expressed profound regret that the attack should have taken place, especially in view of the fact that foreigners have been officially exempted from giving the Hitler salute.

According to its custom, however, the ministry has failed to publish news of either the attack or the apology, with the result that the German public and the Nazi followers themselves remain ignorant of such incidents.

Nazis Beat Polish Citizen.

BERLIN, Sept. 5.—(AP)—A Wolff's dispatch from Danzig tonight said a Polish citizen named Gulkowski was beaten by Nazi storm troopers when he failed to salute a Nazi emblem carried by a party returning from the party conclave at Nuremberg. The dispatch said that the Nazis claimed Gulkowski used a cane when a trooper remonstrated against his failure to salute. Nazi officials planned to visit the Polish commissioner tomorrow, the dispatch said, and present their regrets.

The planes will supplement troops recently transferred from Vienna to border garrisons.

HITLER CREED IS MADE CHURCH LAW IN PRUSSIA

Nazis Seize Control in Protestant Synod.

BERLIN, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The Nazi dogma tonight was made church law in Prussia as Nazi German Christians attending the general synod pushed through 20 motions, including one barring non-Aryans or persons marrying non-Aryans from the pulpit and from church offices. Cases in which special services in behalf of the church can be proved were exempted from the non-Aryan rule.

Previously two speakers had represented Chancellor Hitler as never considering interference with the church life of his country and as desiring that "Germans shall become godly people."

The synod of the old Prussian Landeskirche was called to discuss various church questions arising from the predominance of the German Christians and to choose delegates to a national synod who will name a Protestant reichsbishop and select the supreme leadership of the church.

Opposition Bolts Meeting.

The German Christians have been predominant since last July's election in which they won a sweeping victory.

Shouts of "Concentration camp; get out, treason," arose in the stormy session as Nazi pastors smothered impassioned remonstrances of the opposition during the debate. Finally the entire 75 members of the opposition left the hall after the Rev. Mr. Koch, superintendent of the Westphalian district, had ineffectively protested:

"It is obvious brotherly coöperation is not wanted here, but only the ruthless use of force. The methods of the world are being carried into the church."

The meeting was opened by Dr. Friedrich Werner, member of the Supreme Evangelical council, with an announcement that the synod system has been abandoned.

Ban Parliamentary Rule.

"This is the German Christians' last synod," he announced. "In the church of Martin Luther there is no such thing as parliamentarism."

He declared that henceforth authority would be wielded on the leadership principle through the supreme church council, adding: "The everlasting truth in the gospel undergoes perpetual change." He concluded: "We want a gospel again that is the chord of the volk blood and race."

The epithet "traitors" was hurled at the members of the opposition party "Evangelium and Volk" [Gospel and People] when they said a motion creating nine Prussian bishoprics might jeopardize the independence of German Protestants in Poland and the Memel territory. They expressed the view the governments there likely would view the authority of the church as a political instrument.

Sweeping Powers for Bishops.

Sweeping powers for the new bishops was indicated by a Nazi pastor, Herr Peter, in answering objections by the opposition that the motion did not define the bishops' powers.

"We want not a titular head but real bishops with authority," said Peter. "We want no canonical law because our church shall exist not alongside, but in, the third reich."

It was recalled that the recent concordat between the Vatican and the reich made the appointment of Catholic bishops contingent upon the approval of the government.

Tonight's session was ended with a warning from Bishop Mueller, head of the Prussian Evangelical church, that members of the opposition "spreading calumny abroad that the German government is violating the church" will be put in concentration camps.

"Foreign countries," said Bishop Mueller, "ought to see that a free church is being created by free will, and that it will not be a state church."

PRAGUE, Sept. 5.—Police investigation of the murder of the Jewish philosopher, Prof. Theodor Lessing, has established close connection between the Nazi party in Czechoslovakia and that in Germany. This connection always has been strenuously denied by the Hitlerite party here. Especially incriminating material has been discovered in the home of a Nazi leader in Marienbad, Herr Lauschman. He has been arrested. Other arrests are expected to follow.

According to Ceske Slovo, the organ of Foreign Minister Benes, Nazi propaganda in Bohemia is not half so violent as that being conducted by Hungarians in Slovakia. Thousands of pamphlets calling for the return of Slovakia to Hungary and describing the Czechs as "pigs, thieves, and rats" have been distributed.

Since these were printed in Slovakia itself it is obvious a secret organization exists there, the Ceske Slovo says. It accuses the Slovakian People's party of complicity in this seditious conspiracy and calls for "administrative pacification" of Slovakia.

WOMAN SWINGS CROQUET MALLET ON BANDIT'S HEAD

Holdup Man, Stunned by Blow, Captured.

Meade, Kas., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Brought low by a croquet mallet swung by the diminutive wife of a school teacher, a man who gave his name as C. E. [Doc] Potter, Cincinnati, O., was captured and held in jail here today, suspected of being a participant in a gun fight yesterday with Enid, Okla., police.

The prisoner's three companions—two men and a woman—escaped while Potter was being arrested.

Potter was arrested after the quartet failed in an attempt to hold up a party of croquet players in City park here and steal their car. One of the women, Mrs. Anson Horning, wife of a school teacher, resisted their demands and struck Potter on the head with a croquet mallet, stunning him and enabling the men in the game to hold him until officers arrived. Meanwhile the three others fled.

Talk of Gun Battle.

The four had just arrived here with A. E. Trummel, a rancher of near Wilmore, Kas., whom they had kidnaped when they stole his car. Trummel escaped them here, unharmed.

The rancher said the four talked of a gun battle earlier in the day and expressed hope they had "killed a dozen or fifteen" of the officers.

The woman, he said, appeared to have been critically wounded in the leg and Potter was the only one of the quartet uninjured.

Guard Bailey After Escape.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 5.—(AP)—As forces of the law centered their attention on the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel in readiness for the federal court trial of Harvey Bailey, Albert Bates, and nearly a dozen others charged with abduction, a double guard today stood watch inside and outside the old county jail building here, where Bailey was imprisoned after his spectacular escape from the Dallas county jail. Bailey was recaptured at Ardmore. The jail's exterior is floodlighted at night.

Held with the two outlaws are Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Shannon and their son, Armon, on whose farm Bailey was captured while asleep several weeks ago.

At Dallas a rigid investigation of the jail break was under way. Written statements by jail attaches and officers will be turned over to federal authorities and a federal grand jury will look into the escape, carried out apparently single-handed in one of the strongest prisons in the southwest.

Nick Tresp, jail turnkey, who was kidnaped by Bailey at the time of his escape, quoted Bailey as declaring he brought the saw into the Dallas jail hidden on his thigh by adhesive tape, and that he found the pistol used in the getaway in a mattress.

Dallas authorities revealed that an inquiry failed to show a pass for Bailey's attorney, who went to Dallas last Friday to talk with the outlaw. It was explained the attorney entered the jail with another lawyer from Fort Worth who had a pass.

Uncertain About Trials.

There remained some uncertainty whether Bailey would be tried here in the kidnaping case before being taken to Kansas City for trial in connection with the Union station plaza slayings, in which four officers and Frank Nash, federal prisoner, lost their lives.

Other developments that attracted the interest of authorities today was a dispatch from Ithaca, N. Y., stating that Sheriff Frank O. Ellis of Tompkins county "positively identified" a woman hitch hiker to whom gave a ride out of town Saturday as Dolores Whitney, alleged sweetheart of Bailey. She was bound southwest, Ellis said.

CAPT. GOLDBERG ANSWERS BOYS' ACCIDENT STORY

Victim Careless, Says Police Commander.

Capt. Joseph Goldberg, commander at Albany Park police station, gave his version yesterday of the automobile accident of last Friday night in which he ran down a newsboy, Johnny Heneghan, 13 years old, 4630 Maypole avenue, as the boy crossed Fulton street at Cicero avenue. Goldberg denied his headlights were unlit as Johnny and several other boys maintained.

"There was nothing to it," the captain explained. "It was just an ordinary accident that could have happened to anybody.

"The Heneghan boy was with two others. A car going the other way just missed them and I thought the boy would stop. Instead, he ran right into the front of my machine. My car didn't move two inches after he was hit.

"The boy had a handful of pennies which he won on a slot machine. He was so anxious to show the others that he didn't look where he was going. I hurried him to the hospital. I sent my men out next day to get statements. The accident occurred in the Austin district, it's true, but they didn't bother to take statements because it was so evident it was the boy's own fault. The boy admitted it and so did the witnesses.

"I was going to take care of the kid and do what I could for him, but they have apparently got hold of an attorney to get all they can from me. Now I'll get a lawyer myself and they can go to hell."

Johnny had just left four other boys to cross the street when he was hit. He and the other boys said the captain's car was traveling about 35 miles an hour, that the lights were out, and that they heard no horn or squeal of brakes.

Johnny said the pennies in his pocket were not slot machine winnings, but his earnings at a news stand.

ASSESSOR JACOBS TO LOSE 130 AIDS ON RELIEF ROLLS

County Assessor J. L. Jacobs was informed yesterday by Martin Hayes Bickham, director of the Cook county work relief committee of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, that the 130 relief clients working in the assessor's office will be withdrawn at the end of this week. Mr. Bickham said that because of the deficit confronting the commission all workers who have been lent to the county must be laid off because the commission cannot reimburse cooperating agencies for the workers' wages.

Mr. Jacobs has discharged 89 of his regular county employés within the last two weeks because of a shortage of funds. He said yesterday that he would ask Mayor Kelly to lend him some city employés.

LAMSON CASE DEFENSE OPENS; GRIEF DEPICTED

San Jose, Cal., Sept. 5.—(AP)—The defense opened its case today in the murder trial of David A. Lamson. Testimony was offered that the 31 year old Stanford university press men are believed to have fled by auto Allene, and appeared "stunned or shocked" shortly after she was found slain in their campus cottage last Memorial day.

Mrs. L. M. Place real estate broker, repeated her story that she found Lamson in the back yard tending a bonfire from which the state charges the iron pipe, said to have been used to kill Mrs. Lamson later was taken. Mrs. Place said there was "nothing to indicate his grief was simulated" when he announced his wife had been killed.

The state contends the killing was the climax of domestic discord.

Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Wright said Mr. and Mrs. Lamson had called at their house, the night before Mrs. Lamson was found dead in the bathroom of the Lamson cottage, and that Lamson's attitude was "attentive" and "kindly" toward Mrs. Lamson.

Dr. Edith Johnson, an associate of Dr. Margaret Lamson, sister of the defendant, testified Lamson looked "stunned or shocked" when she arrived at the scene. "Did you hear Lamson say to his sister: 'My God, why did I ever marry her?'" asked Defense Attorney Maurice Rankin. "He did not speak in my presence," said Dr. Johnson.

The Public Health Institute heartily endorses the sound principles incorporated in the N. R. A. and has entered the ranks of its adherents in a spirit of helpfulness and cooperation—the same spirit of helpfulness and cooperation that has manifested itself in the Institute's untiring efforts to render a signal service to the community and the State.

The Institute concerns itself entirely in giving high grade medical service, at low fees, to those infected with venereal disease. The entire personnel of the Institute is enrolled under the code set down in the President's agreement.

The Public Health Institute has contributed heavily toward the treatment and hospitalization of patients. It has absorbed the cost of treating many patients in its own clinic when other facilities have proved inadequate. And at no time has the Institute sought the aid of the State in promoting this great work!

Further, the Institute, in order to educate the public to the dangers of venereal disease, carries publicity in leading newspapers, prepares enlightening leaflets, supports lectures on social hygiene and gives financial encouragement to research in venereal disease problems. Leading physicians, who know of the work the Institute is doing, hold high praise for its efforts and accomplishments.

The fact that the Institute has already given over 4,000,000 treatments to venereal disease patients, is indicative of the part it plays in promoting the health and well-being of the community. But we have reason to believe that the work that it is doing is more far-reaching than that. For it is a reasonable conclusion that the Institute's work of education has directed many patients to physicians in private practice.

The advertising policy of the Institute, we feel, is absolutely necessary, considering the fact that our field of effort is limited to the treatment of communicable diseases, and also the fact that people in the community cannot be reached in any other way. Neither do we feel that the Institute is competitive to the physician in private practice. Rather, we believe we are an aid to him—working in a field he cannot reach and treating patients who would otherwise fall as victims of the "quack."

Founded by prominent Chicagoans NOT FOR PROFIT, the Public Health Institute is contributing an important part in the community life of Chicago—doing an unselfish work and doing it well.

TAXICAB WHEEL ROLLS OFF AND KILLS BYSTANDER

Eight Fatalities Increase Year's Toll to 702.

William Witthoft, 60 years old, 6627 South Marshfield avenue, a clothing packer, was fatally injured yesterday in an unusual automobile accident.

He was standing at 66th street and Ashland avenue when a wheel rolled off a Checker taxicab driven by Charles Spormen, 6535 South Wood street. The wheel sped across the pavement, striking Witthoft and knocking him down. His skull was fractured in his fall and he died shortly afterward in Holy Cross hospital.

Dies of Injuries in Collision.

Mrs. Emma Carren, 56 years old, 717 West Roosevelt road, died at the county hospital yesterday of injuries suffered Saturday, when an automobile in which she was riding with her husband, Mitchell, collided with another car at Mannheim road and Washington boulevard, Bellwood.

Carren was only slightly injured. The driver of the second car, George E. Radous, 3547 West 26th street, was unhurt.

A colored man and woman were killed this morning and another colored couple were probably fatally injured when their automobile was driven at high speed into a concrete safety island in Western avenue, near 15th street. The car smashed the island, then careened to the corner and ended against an iron pole. The automobile was broken to pieces. The dead were taken to the county morgue and the injured to the county hospital. Nothing was found in their possessions to identify them.

Year's Toll Rises to 702.

The deaths of Witthoft, Mrs. Carren, the two Negroes, and four others increased the Cook county motor toll since Jan. 1 to 702. The other victims:

Miss Mary Pratt, 75 years old, 3331 South Harvey avenue, Berwyn. Died in Berwyn hospital of injuries suffered Aug. 8, when she was struck in Berwyn by a car driven by Walter Toucha, 7729 43d avenue, Lyons.

Clement Kalainas, 48 years old, 4126 South Rockwell street. Died in Holy Cross hospital after an automobile he was driving crashed into a post at 47th street and Kedzie avenue. Charles Kindur, 3129 West 40th street, a passenger in the car, was severely injured.

Ralph Gallo, 3 years old, 2817 West Congress street. Died in the county hospital after he was struck by an automobile Monday night while walking with his mother, Mrs. Emma Gallo. The child broke away from her and ran into the path of a car driven by Michael Caduti, 3107 West Congress street.

Michael Zanbik, 55 years old, 2039 West 18th place. Died in St. Anthony's hospital of injuries suffered July 15 when he was struck by a car driven by Elmer La Farre, 1635 60th court, Cicero.

Near Schneider, Ind., 20 miles south of Crown Point on state highway 41, Elmer Beirs, 5 years old, was struck and killed by an automobile driven by Mrs. Mabel Kirby of Sullivan, Ind. The child's parents live at Schneider.

PAROLE BOARD MEMBER WARNS AN AUTO THIEF

A solemn warning has been issued by the Rev. R. Keene Ryan, 5614 South Green street, pastor of the Garfield Boulevard Presbyterian church and a member of the state board of pardons and paroles, to the thief who took his latest automobile. He has requested THE TRIBUNE to aid by putting his message before the public.

"I bought a new Plymouth the other day," he wrote. "Last Sunday night some one stole it in front of my house. The state license number is 827,194 and the city license number 409,854. I make the party who stole it the following proposition—if they will return my car by Thursday midnight and place it right on the spot from which they took it, I will not prosecute.

"But if they read this story and fail to heed the offer I will set things in motion that will land them either back in Joliet or in Leavenworth."

ADD 143 CLERKS BECAUSE OF AD IN THE TRIBUNE

The public is turning more and more to newspaper advertising as a reliable guide in a market of changing prices under the NRA, according to officials of The Hub, men's clothing store, who noted the response to a six-column advertisement in THE TRIBUNE on Monday.

As a result of the advertisement, it was necessary to place 143 extra clerks on duty, 100 of whom were hired when the crowds began to make their appearance in the basement.

"It was the biggest crowd in the basement I ever saw," said Henry C. Lytton, chairman of the board of directors of Henry C. Lytton and Sons, operating The Hub. "It was also the most phenomenal response to newspaper advertising I have witnessed in 60 years of State street merchandising."

DELIGHTFUL WELCH WAY TO REDUCE

Welch's Certified-Pure, Pasteurized Grape Juice, strange as it may seem, provides an easy, delightful, healthful way to control your weight. And when taken in connection with low-calory diet, it will enable you—if overweight—to get rid of that ugly fat in the safest, most pleasant way you could imagine.

Scientists say Welch's should be on every reducing diet, because its non-fattening grape sugar forces the body to burn up its fat. It satisfies that craving for sweets and rich, fattening foods. That's why Welch's was officially selected for the athletes' training tables at the Olympic Games.

Welch's contains minerals vital to one's health. It helps make red blood. It contains more Vitamin B than orange juice. It cleanses the entire system. People everywhere report that after following the Welch way to weight reduction they feel more vigorous and alert than they had felt in years.

Start today. Drink a glass of Welch's with and between low-calory meals, and before retiring. Welch's may be diluted with one-third water. Continue — and experience the wonderful difference.

Send for booklet, "Keeping Your Weight Down," yours for the asking.

If You Have Children

Welch has published another booklet, called "Red-blooded Children." It describes a wonderful method of building up run-down youngsters. If you will send your name and address to The Welch Grape Juice Co., Dept. 1443, Westfield, N. Y., you will receive either or both of these booklets FREE.

IMPORTANT: Insist on Welch's. It is the exclusive Welch Process that retains in the bottled juice the healthful properties of ripe grapes so essential to the system. Only Welch's is Certified Pure and Pasteurized. It contains no adulterants, no synthetic flavors, no artificial coloring, no preservatives, no water, and above all, no tartaric acid crystals. It is selling at the lowest price in 35 years, and is even cheaper by the case. Send for free booklet TODAY.

MRS. PATTERSON DEAD; DAUGHTER OF JOSEPH MEDILL

Born in Cleveland in '55; Brought Here as Baby.

Elinor Medill Patterson (Mrs. Robert W. Patterson), daughter of Joseph Medill, founder of THE TRIBUNE, and of Katherine Patrick Medill, died yesterday in Chicago. She was born in Cleveland on Jan. 30, 1855. Her parents moved to Chicago when she was a few months old. During her childhood the family lived in West Washington street (old number 266), and removed to Michigan avenue after the fire, when her father was mayor.

Through her maternal grandmother Mrs. Patterson was descended from Dutch ancestors, who came from Holland to New York the middle of the seventeenth century. Her great-grandfather was Maj. Abram Westfall and her great-great-grandfather was Col. Peter Van Eten, both of whom fought in the revolutionary war.

Mrs. Patterson attended Miss Porter's school at Farmington, Conn., and later was at Mlle. Vallette's school in Paris. She was a member of the Second Presbyterian church of Chicago, uniting with it when the Rev. Munro Gibson was its pastor.

She was married to Robert W. Patterson, son of the Rev. R. W. Patterson, at 10 Park row, in January, 1878. Her husband died in 1910. She was the sister of the late Mrs. Katherine Medill McCormick. Mrs. Patterson was a member of the Fortnightly club, of which her mother was one of the original twelve members.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow, at an hour to be announced today.

AUXILIARY BISHOP DUNN BURIED WITH HIGH CHURCH HONORS

New York, Sept. 5.—[Special.]—The Most Rev. John J. Dunn, auxiliary bishop of the Roman Catholic archdiocese of New York, was buried today with the high honors of the Catholic church to its prelates.

Cardinal Hayes celebrated the mass at the cathedral before a congregation that overflowed into the street. Present were many prominent officials and political personages. In the sanctuary were six archbishops, twenty-three bishops and lesser dignitaries, including twenty-five monsignori from all parts of the United States.

More than 20 minutes were required for the formal procession to file from the cardinal's residence to the cathedral. It was led by a color guard of Knights of Columbus bearing the American and papal colors followed by the crucifix.

Most of the monastic orders of the Catholic church were represented in the procession—among them the Christian brothers, the Jesuits, the Franciscans, the Carmelites, Dominicans and Passionists. More than 500 clergymen were in line.

The body of the bishop, who died Thursday, was taken to Newburgh, N. Y., for burial in the Cemetery of St. Dominic, of which community he was spiritual director.

Reporter Tells Women's Place in Journalism

Future Up to Them, Says Mrs. Herrick.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Somewhere "between the sugar and the acid" lies the truth about women in journalism, Genevieve Forbes Herrick assured a capacity audience in the auditorium of the Illinois Host building at A Century of Progress yesterday. "A limited field, but a fertile one," she summed up her hour of reminiscence and of prophecy about her profession, in the series of lectures given weekly under auspices of the Chicago Woman's club.

"Somewhere between ignorant optimism and smart cynicism lies realism," averred Mrs. Herrick of the Washington staff of THE TRIBUNE. "Always we must balance our trials against our triumphs. How fast and how far the coming women in journalism go depends, first of all, upon themselves; their equipment, their sincerity. Also upon the editors who give them assignments. Those assignments depend upon what the editor thinks you want—so their future depends in no small extent on you women, as well as men.

"I am not crying for a new deal for women in journalism. I think they've had a pretty good deal. I do hope, however, that they realize that it is a different deal from the men's.

"Typewriters are sexless. If she can't get a story as well as a man, let a woman scoop 'em on her typewriter. Let her strive to write all her news better than as many men as she can. Let her write the way the world says a man writes, not the way a man says a woman writes."

In protest against "the technique that extols a woman in her job, merely because she is a woman," Mrs Herrick cited the fact that whenever a woman pioneered and became the first woman florist, the first dentist or iceman, she was treated by the papers not as news, but as women's news. Whereas when the lady doctor or lawyer did something really notable, it too often became not feminine news, but news, and a man handled the story.

In 1895, she recounted, Rheta Childe Dorr, distinguished pioneer newspaper woman, asked the editor of the New York Evening Post, "What is my future?" and got the blunt retort, "You have no future." But just the other day Prof. Walter B. Pitkin of Columbia university, responding to a toast on "the future of the newspaper woman," declared "It's in the past."

"We hope that both sentences are more interesting for their rhetoric than for their reality," was her comment.

To Ishbel Ross of the New York Herald Tribune Mrs. Herrick tossed the palm as the best example of a newspaper woman today, in contrast to those prior eras of the sob sister and the girl reporter. Miss Ross, she averred, "can do a man's job, not in a feminine way, but what is much more significant and difficult, in both a businesslike and ladylike way."

"No honest presentation of women in journalism would be complete," she added, "without a tribute to Fanny Butcher, literary editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. She has a national, even an international, reputation."

"Jennie June Crowley," in the 1850s, was the first woman ever to write regularly for the daily press. She was Mrs. Jane Cunningham, but to use that name would have been too bold. She was also the first woman to teach journalism—at Rutgers Women's college.

Women who have added luster to the activities of writing women included, in Mrs. Herrick's recital, Nellie Bly, Winifred Black, Dorothy Dix, Carolyn Wilson of Chicago, war correspondent; Constance Drexel, Dorothy Thompson (Mrs. Sinclair Lewis); Amy Leslie, Virginia Dale, Mrs. Ethel Colson Brazelton—who incidentally presented her to her audience—Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, Mrs. Anne O'Hare McCormick, Katharine Dayton, Ruth Finney, Frances Parkinson Keyes, Ruby Black, and various others.

Exciting Fall Fashions Are Truly Feminine

BY RHEA SEEGER

Exciting is the only word for the new fall clothes . . . glamorously lovely things that dramatize every bit of your personality from the intricately draped and flattering afternoon dresses, cleverly designed and fashioned street costumes, to the picturesque evening creations made of velvet, brocade, and scintillant lamés.

Long, clinging silhouettes that emphasize every unsubdued curve that you might have carelessly acquired during a lazy summer probably will start a frenzy of exercising . . . high swathed necklines that will test the genius of all designers and unexaggerated sleeves with super-smooth shoulder seams achieve a new, sharp outline that is definitely fall 1933.

Huge, rather overpowering shoulder puffings have been gracefully smoothed out of the picture. The last word in suave, exquisitely fitted costumes are the newest arrivals to tempt the cruising and appreciative shopper.

Your newest costume accessories are as subtly feminine and as decorative as the clothes they will accent . . . new handbags flaunt jeweled clasps; some have double ruchings outlining the frame and others have ornaments of metal. And while you can still find quantities of trim tailored affairs for your simple street and spectator sports ensembles, most of the charming new trifles are delightful revivals of romantic bags and pouches of the nineties.

Gloves are dizzier and even more decorative than the summer affairs . . . you'll wear deep gauntlet cuffs on most of your newest gloves, the swagger, flaring kind, with appliqued designs, with miles of perforations, with trick trimmings, anything and everything that will make them appear interestingly feminine.

From feathers on your newest hat to the slim, smart new shoes, the newest clothes and costumes accessories will combine to make the most interesting silhouettes and wardrobes we have ever watched.

Mary Dawes and George Schulz to Be Guests at Many Parties

Bridegroom-to-Be Will Entertain Men Without Wives Either September 14 or 15.

BY JUDITH CASS.

EITHER the night of Sept. 14 or 15 that coterie of popular Chicago bachelors, the Men Without Wives, is to have a party, with George Schulz as the host. The reason for the celebration is Mr. Schultz's approaching marriage to Miss Mary Dawes, daughter of the Henry M. Dawses.

It is the unwritten rule of the group that any one of the members who deserts the bliss of bachelordom for matrimony must give his brothers a party. Mr. Schulz, more than convinced that his entrance into the ranks of the Benedicks is worth several parties, has not yet decided what the celebration is to be, but promises a gala occasion.

So many luncheons, teas, and dinners are crowded into the next fortnight for Miss Dawes and Mr. Schulz it seems that they will have to choose a long and restful wedding trip after their marriage on Sept. 23. The first of the parties comes Sunday evening, when Mrs. Otto Schulz will entertain at a buffet supper at her Kenmore avenue home for her son and future daughter-in-law. On the following Wednesday or Thursday Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes, an aunt of the bride-to-be, is to have a luncheon for her, and the following Saturday evening has been reserved by Miss Louise Hassel, who is to attend Miss Dawes as a bridesmaid, for a dinner party at her Evanston home. Preceding the dinner Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sincere will have all of the guests for cocktails.

Mrs. Trevor Stamp Will Entertain.

Mrs. Charles H. Bosworth and her daughter, Mrs. Trevor Stamp, who is to be another bridesmaid for Miss Dawes, have issued invitations for a tea for the young couple the afternoon of Sept. 17 at the Bosworth home at 225 Hamilton street, Evanston. The Charles G. Daweses' daughter, Mrs. Melvin Ericson, has invited Miss Dawes and all of her attendants to drive out to her Libertyville house for luncheon on the 18th, and the next day Mrs. Oswuld Torrison will have a luncheon at the Chicago College club. Still another bridesmaid, Mrs. Harold Yegge, has asked for the evening of the 19th for a dinner at her home.

One of the busiest and most festive days of all will be that of the 20th. At noon Mrs. Charles G. Dawes and her daughter, Miss Virginia Dawes, are entertaining at luncheon at their home, and in the evening there will be the bachelor and spinster dinners. Miss Dawes is to have all of her attendants for dinner at her parents' house, while Otto Schulz, a brother of the bridegroom, entertains all of the ushers at the Chicago Athletic association.

The entire wedding party will dance far into the early hours the night of the 21st at the supper dance Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Luhnow, Mr. Schulz's aunt and uncle, are giving in the Empire room of the Palmer house. On the evening of the 22d Mr. and Mrs Dawes will have the bridal dinner at their home. The wedding is to be a very quiet home ceremony with only the relatives invited and a few friends asked to come in later for a reception.

Katharine Cowin Bride Sept. 20

Miss Katharine Cowin is returning to Chicago this week from her home in Boston to make plans for her wedding on Sept. 20 to Robert Carr, son of the Walter Carrs. Because of the sudden and tragic death of Miss Cowin's brother a few weeks ago in Boston [the reason for her sudden trip east], the ceremony is to be a very quiet and simple affair, perhaps in a tiny chapel or in the drawing room of the Carrs' Lake Shore drive apartment. Miss Cowin's mother, Mrs. Benton Cowin, is coming west with her.

Miss Margaret Carr, the Walter Carrs' attractive daughter, has not as yet decided whether her wedding to Marshall Hampsell will be an event of 1933 or 1934. She has made up her mind, however, that it will take place either during the last two weeks of December or the first two weeks of January.

The members of the executive committee of the Friends of Opera will meet this morning at 11 o'clock in the foyer of the Auditorium theater to hear Herbert Johnson and Gennaro Papi tell them about the plans for Chicago's new opera company.

And probably these two gentlemen who aim to give Chicago opera at popular prices this winter will be interested to know what the ladies who used to sell the boxes for the defunct Chicago Civic Opera company think of the new venture, for if it is to be at all social it will need the assistance of the box selling Friends of Opera.

Mrs. Jacob Baur will preside at today's meeting. Mrs. Arthur Meeker, chairman, returned not so long ago from California, where she went to recuperate from an illness, and although she is much better, she is not strong enough to assume the rôle of chairman at today's meeting.

Debutante Will Entertain Today.

Slim and pretty Miss Barbara Ann Bastien is to be hostess this noon to several of her sister debutantes whom

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

NAMES make news and so we put down the story of the little incident in the dressing room of Ivor Novello in London, as retailed by the Ernest Byfields, just back from England. It was the opening night of Mr. Novello's latest play and among the visitors to his dressing room was Prince George, youngest son of the king and queen. The royal prince remained there after Mr. Novello had gone on, and when he came back to his dressing room for a quick change, found that Prince George had entertained himself while Novello was out front by putting on his next scene make-up. It probably had been something of a strain anyhow to have royalty back stage on a first night, but this was too much.

"Prince or no prince, out you go!" he told Prince George firmly.

THE young women, strangers, sat beside each other in a bus bound for Chicago and the Fair from St. Louis. They started conversation, found that both were school teachers and introduced themselves.

"My name is Mary Lawless," said one and added that she was from St. Louis. (5876 Barteau avenue, if you're a hound for details).

"Mine is Mary Crooks," answered the other, a Minneapolis girl.

PERSONALITIES encountered over the week-end. Lionel, Lord Tennyson, grandson of England's late poet laureate, wearing the brilliant gold, yellow, and red striped tie of his cricket club. . . . Mrs. Leander McCormick, the petite French countess bride who is visiting Chicago and her husband's birthplace for the first time, in pale pink crêpe with a wide hat of rough white straw, liquid dark eyes and charmingly accented English. . . . The elegant butler in a Lake Forest establishment who looks exactly like Basil Rathbone. . . . The garage mechanic who could double for Ronald Coleman.

THE woman who during her professional days was acclaimed the best ballroom dancer in the world went to a night club the other evening with her husband and some friends, to watch the dancers she says are the best dancers on the stage today. It turned out that they came to the table before the evening was over, to present their compliments and to chat. All this was interesting perhaps, but to a columnist interested in human nature notes the desire and the regret voiced by the man of the team, Antonio De Marco, were more so. Pale, slim, Latin-looking, with shiny black hair and impeccable tailoring, he began to talk about his garden in New York state, his desire to see it, and his regret over missing it in high-bloom.

"One gladiolus stalk was three feet tall and had 26 blooms," he confided, above the noise of the orchestra.

THE light talk of the town at the moment frequently turns to the two teams of dancers who are appearing simultaneously in different night-spots, because of the superlative beauty of their exhibitions. There is little point in a comparison however. Comparing the fragile and exquisite Renee de Marco with the potent and rythmic Yolanda is like comparing spring morning to a midsummer night heady with the odor of jasmin. . . . But to return to our particular song-and-dance—we repeat the wise-crack made by Frederic McLaughlin when Antonio De Marco commented he had been in Chicago five weeks and had not yet been to the Fair.

"Here five weeks and not seen the Fair? You might as well live in Chicago," he said.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"How do you feel when the alarm goes off in the morning?"

The answer to this question, according to Dr. A. H. Ryan, authority on occupational fatigue, writing in a current monthly, determines whether you're getting your health and beauty sleep or not.

It isn't how many hours you sleep—but how do you feel in the a. m.?

If you feel groggy, drowsy, jumpy—write it down in your little book that you are no Edison nor Napoleon; that you must get more sleep in somehow.

Incidentally that Edison myth about four hours sleep being enough is pretty well exploded since his death. Persons close to him have revealed how Edison's four hours were extended by his ability, or genius, as Dr. Ryan calls it, to drop off to sleep anytime, anywhere.

Dr. Ryan reminds us that how we may feel later in the day is no criterion of the hours of sleep we need. We may seem to get through the day all pepped up—but that's not the wanted pep. It's a stimulation created by excitement or coffee or something. If the tired feeling in the morning persists—it is your guide. And something had better be done to get in more sleeping hours, or all kind of things threaten. Chiefly that draining fatigue so many suffer. A lowered mental and physical efficiency is listed among the lack of sleep fatalities. As are also emotional instability, crying fits, temper, a tendency to flutter around without accomplishing anything—and undue aging.

Devoting a Sunday morning to catching up on the week's sleep waste is no use, according to our authority. In fact, this may only make one feel more tired. If you are not getting enough sleep as judged by the above mentioned early morning symptoms, you simply have to practice getting more. Dr. Ryan suggests extending your sleep period a half hour at a time until you get up to ten hours or more. Until you wake up naturally and feel you've had enough sleep you're not regulating your life wisely.

Women do not have to be told how the sleepless night, the week or month of late hours affects her looks. Her mirror is never sparing of truth in this connection. But women do have to be reminded every now and then of the strain and drain on looks of late hour habits which often are cultivated.

Gray Hair Held Style Asset in Office, Society

No longer the badge of decreptitude, gray hair is now an asset lending dignity and charm to many chic and distinguished women of the business and the social world, officials of the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers association insisted yesterday.

So definite is the fashion trend toward attractively coiffed gray hair, premature or natural, that a revue of hair styles will be held this evening at the Hotel Sherman, especially designed for women whose gray tresses should add to, rather than detract from their appearance. Living models will display the newest ideas in such hairdressing.

Dr. Hutchins Is Elected Head of Alpha Delta Phi

Dr. Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, has been elected the national president of Alpha Delta Phi fraternity. The election climaxed the three day annual convention of the fraternity on the university campus.

Art Institute Sets a Record in Attendance

The Art institute of Chicago has set a world's record for daily attendance at an art museum, Daniel Catton Rich, associate curator of paintings, said yesterday. The official World's Fair exhibition of paintings and sculpture is being held at the institute.

"Eighteen thousand persons visited the museum in a single day last week," said Mr. Rich. "This exceeds by a wide margin the number checked in at any special art show ever held in a museum. The nearest competitor was Burlington House, London, during the Italian exhibition at the Royal academy where the biggest day was 12,700."

Mr. Rich reported that nearly a million persons had attended the exhibit during the three months of June, July, and August, outnumbering the total attendance at any art museum for the same period of time. The institute is claiming another world's record in membership. There were 13,349 members on Jan. 1, topping by 4,456 the number enrolled as members of New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art.

MOTHERS: is this familiar?

"Mary WON'T EAT anything she should"

What can one do when children refuse foods they need for proper growth and health? Well, here's one solution that child specialists regard very highly—CREAMETTES, a macaroni product. There are two reasons why: FIRST, because CREAMETTES contain splendid food value; nourishing, body building, energy supplying. SECOND, because children like CREAMETTES and you have no trouble getting them to eat at meal time. Best of all, two big packages at your grocer cost only 15 cents.

BLOOD MONEY

By IRVIN S. COBB.

SYNOPSIS.

Uncas Cresap and his Chinese servant are found dead in the upper room of Cresap's boathouse on Kettle pond, near the eastern end of Long Island. Gilbert Johathan Redd, Cresap's stepbrother, keeps a written private account of developments in the case. A blow on the forehead from a slender, sharp edged implement killed Cresap. The cause of the Chinaman's death is not apparent. Capt. Bray, a special investigator, is an old friend of Redd's. Redd is a former police reporter. Florence Dane, Cresap's niece and an orphan, lived with him. Redd was fond of Florence's mother. He bought a home near Cresap's in order to protect Florence. Cresap made his fortune in the far east. Redd freely admits to Bray his hatred of Cresap, who was a drunkard and a debauchee. The Chinaman and a dwarf, Sabino, are the most important of the servants and there seemed to be some secret bond between them and their employer. Bray finds, spread out on Cresap's desk, a new will disinheriting Florence. As it is unsigned, the old will stands. Cresap disapproved of Florence's moneyless sweetheart, Gregory Thorpe, who had arrived the day before Cresap died, having driven east from his home in Ohio in response to an urgent wire from Florence. Thorpe can't be reached at the local hotel where he registered as George Thomas. Florence is on the verge of prostration. Thorpe's car is seen near Peekskill. Redd has seen Sabino prowling around his home.

INSTALLMENT XXVII.

AN AMATEUR HOUSEBREAKER.

Same date, evening.

I stayed in all afternoon. I did some reclassifying and relisting in one of the cabinets of my collections, spent an hour or so with my dogs, and for dinner had in half a dozen reporters—anything to keep me from brooding on the existent aspect of this affair. Purposely I stayed away from Florence. I try as hard as I might to maintain an optimistic mien, I feared that I still would be a Sir Knight of the Rueful Countenance and that her stricken eyes, searching mine for any small ray of hope, would read the truth in them. But at intervals I called Hilda and at each time of calling she had for me practically the same tidings, namely: That Florence seemed more reconciled to Fay or rather more composed, and that Dr. Finch was tapering off on the sedative he prescribed on Tuesday night when she was felled so cruelly.

My dinner guests mostly talked shop with this present coverage of theirs for a leading motif. That was inevitable. They don't think much of Motley's abilities, but they gave Bray credit for a certain intelligent persistency. They agreed that until the search for the green Folker and its fugitive driver brought definite results the story at this end probably would be more or less static. Bob Skipp, of the American, thought that lacking new impetus down here his office would be calling him back to town before long. I like Skipp.

Out of the sextet who enjoyed the volatile Mrs. Bevil's cookery and preyed on my supply of Scotch until two quarts of it had been consumed Skipp is the only one whose career as a city newspaper man dates back beyond the year when mine ended.

I shall turn in pretty soon now, but before I turn in I shall rig a small snare—on the chance that the inquisitive Mr. Sabino pays these premises another prying visit between now and tomorrow.

Friday, Oct. 21, 5 p. m.

Another day, another crowded day. I'll begin with it at the beginning of it.

Having turned in at what for one of my habits is a fairly early hour, I was up before Mrs. Bevil, who is no lie-abed herself, had started clattering her pans and pots. By six o'clock I was dressed and outdoors to see whether my stratagem against Sabino's clandestine siege, if renewed, had borne any fruitage.

It had borne fruit. He came and he went and the little half-caste doesn't know it, but he left behind his calling cards in pairs abundantly scattered behind him. My device had been simple enough. All I did was to spread a thin coating of softened and moistened wood ashes on my porch flooring. I sifted them to make sure there would be no telltale crunching of charred cinders under any softly treading feet, and I moistened them so they would stick to the boards and not scurry away if during the night the breeze freshened. And, sure enough, this morning that thin gray film was intact except that across its surface, plain as Batik, were the crossing and the criss-crossings of those same close coupled, reeled over tracks, with the heels more lightly indented than the tips, thereby proving that the owner of these shoes had been traveling a cautious tintoe as he tacked to and fro. There were scuffled prints to show where, teetering and shifting on his pins, he had stood before the broad panorama window and also before the small mullioned casements which flank it, but elsewhere the trails were as betrayingly distinct as though they had been stamped in like block patterns on gray tape.

Continuing the hunt I presently came upon even more pregnant evidences of an attempted invasion. For I found raw new scratches, small gouges, really, in the woodwork on one of the windows before he centered his attack on this particular one, but here the felonious intent was revealed clearly enough.

Well, so far so good. This second time the dwarf had been baffled. Next time, though, that he turns amateur housebreaker it is reasonable to assume he will come better prepared to effect an entrance. But what, imaginably, may his purpose be in all this? By it, what end does he expect to gain? No man in his right mind is taking a chance on being shot for a burglar unless he has a tempting object in view. The beleaguering matters that I have to ponder on are increased by this significant addition. On this, however, I am resolved. With them, all and severally, I shall cope single handed or not at all. Indeed, I must cope with them single handed. I know that. Knowing it multiplies my cares and—I hope—will intensify my vigilance. I have not warned Mrs. Bevil against granting admissions to any one coming during my temporary absence from home, and Abe Larkin, who deceivingly looks chuckle-headed but really should make a quite wide awake vidette, has been told to keep his weather eye gauged for the appearance in the offing of persons exhibiting untoward curiosity with regards to this establishment. So I feel safe on this score. Mrs. Bevil has a parochial distrust for strangers, and whatever is not in his ken is, by Abe, also regarded with a primitive aversion.

The fine weather is over and I'm afraid this presages that the peak of the year has passed. Through the forenoon intermittent showers spatted down and between showers there was a constant drizzle, and over everything a murkiness so gray it was blue.

About ten o'clock the first surprise of today eventuated. Loomed to ungodly proportions through the foreshortening haze, Bray came clumping up my aisle of boxwoods.

He looked flustered. When Bray is deeply bothered his resemblance to a morose old mastiff is enhanced. Before my grate fire he shook himself as a mastiff might.

"I walked over," he said as he sat down, "being wishful of giving the slip to that toploftical young Assistant D. A. of ours, and 'twas further than I thought 'twould be. He gives me the pip sometimes, does that same young Mr. Motley."

I offered cigars and he took a cigar. I mentioned hot toddies and high balls and he rather surprised me by saying he would take a nip—a highball for choice.

"I'm not the one to be drinking in the middle part of the day," he explained. "But my feet and my pants legs are damp and I'm perplexed in this fuzzy old mind of mine."

I brought him a tall glass charged. He imbibed a sip and, looking slyly at me from under his grizzled thatching, produced a crumpled sheet of telegraph office flimsy and said:

"This bedaddled business keeps on getting still more bedaddled. No sooner do we get it unsnarled in one place than, by cripes, it goes and kinks up in another. Now, here's what came a bit ago. It's a relayed copy of an United Press dispatch. 'Twas just passed on to me by the U. P. lad over at the inn—Simon that would be, wouldn't it? No, Samuel."

"The fair haired youth's name happens to be Sampson," I said.

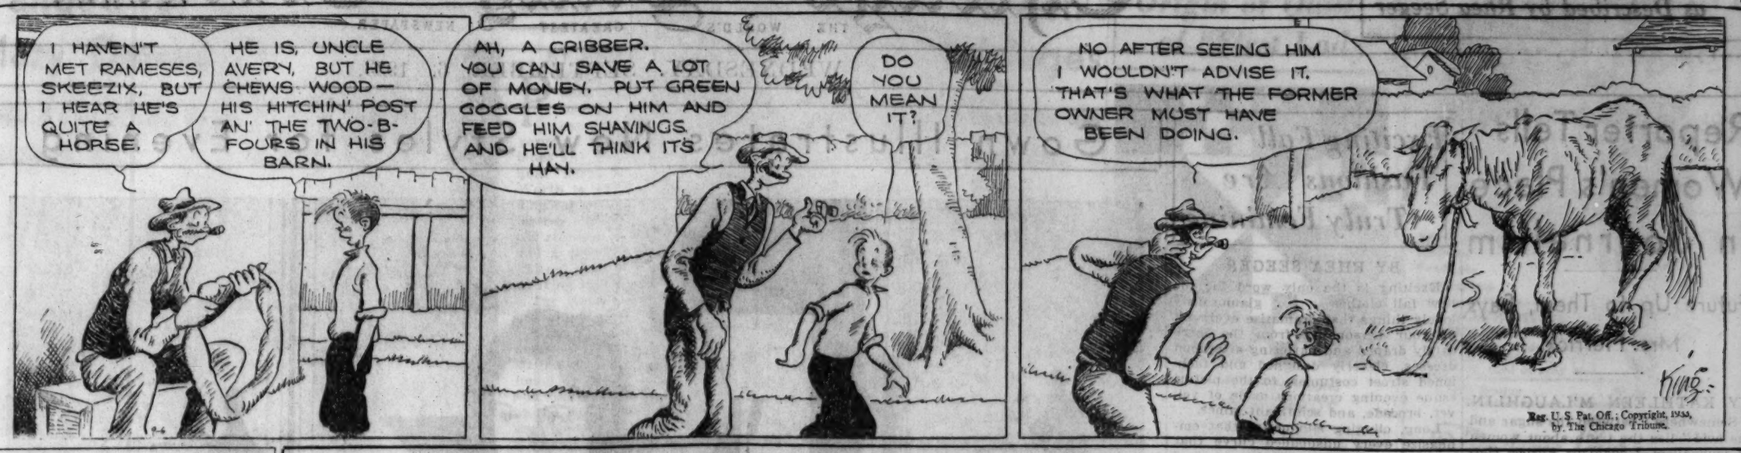
GASOLINE ALLEY—TOO LATE



Tact Will Win Child; Force Alienates Him

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"Spanking," writes a mother, "does not deter my small daughter from doing what she wants to do. But I notice that if I go about it right she is as good as gold. What booklets have you that would help me to succeed in finding the right way more often?"

Haven't you found the same thing true? It may be that you have not resorted to spanking but there have probably been many times when you've done something equally ineffectual—scolding or commanding or trying to force an issue without getting results. Perhaps you've even hammered away in the wrong method, resenting the fact that it made no impression on your small child who either resists you stubbornly like a little mule, or becomes flatly disobedient.

And then haven't you had other times when a divine tact or a state of poise and wisdom has led you to "go about it in the right way" and your small one has shown herself "good as gold?" And haven't you felt a special sort of happiness at these times?

There is a right way to manage. When your young child starts saying "no" to everything the answer is not insistence and command on your part. When he begins to disobey, the remedy is not punishment. When he doesn't come when you call, the right procedure is neither nagging nor scolding.

There is a reason why "no" leaps to a little child's lips at certain times in his life—why obedience is only a name to him—why he's deaf when you call him. The mother who manages well knows why these things are so and knowing, learns how "to go about it in the right way."

We have booklets that were written to afford practical help to the young mother. Among these are the "Obedience," "Patience," and "Don't Touch" booklets written in full, and a number of brief reading references on child management in general. Any one of these will be sent on receipt of a stamped self-addressed envelope.

BY MARY MEADE.

His aristocratic highness, the stewed rune, is now up for discussion. And ow do you like his new title? Not o long ago we would have dubbed im "humble" and served him up a t shriveled and apologetic as a breakst opener. Today we've happened pon the discovery that he's not only dainty and an economical one, but veritable aristocrat as well. Delving to some of his highfaluting manners arriving on the scene we find, first all, a most modern departure:

SPICED PRUNE ICE CREAM.

1 can evaporated milk [14½ ounces]
1 teaspoon granulated gelatin
1 tablespoon cold water
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon each of nutmeg and cloves
2 cups cooked prunes
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Scald the milk. Let the gelatin soak ve minutes in the cold water, then ssolve in the hot milk. Add the lt and spices, and after mixing carelly, chill. Pit the prunes and cut em fine. Whip the chilled milk mixre till stiff and add to it the sugar, anilla, and prunes, folding thoroughly. Now turn into refrigerator trays d freeze till firm.

Next there is a prune pie just out hich also takes on that aristocratic ant.

PRUNE PIE DE LUXE.

2 cups cooked prunes
1 medium size orange
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup medium brown sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash of cinnamon
1 cup prune liquor
2 level tablespoons cornstarch
1 baked pastry shell
2 egg whites
½ teaspoon lemon extract

Pit the cooked prunes, cutting them half. Remove the rind and all embrane from the orange and dice e pulp. Combine the fruits with the utter, salt, sugar, cinnamon and prune quor and bring to a boil. Blend the rnstarch till smooth with 2 tablepoons of cold water and stir carelly into the hot mixture. Continue oking till thick. Turn into the ked pastry shell and cover with eringue made from the egg whites, aten stiff and flavored with the mon extract. Brown in a moderate ven [330 degrees F.] for 15 minutes. Prune fritters have been heard out for some time, but they haven't en nearly as popular as they deve to be, merely because most of haven't even had our initial nibe. Once we nibble we're devoted r life. Here we have the how of it:

¼ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons baking powder
2 tablespoons sugar
2 eggs, beaten
2-3 cup milk
1½ cups stewed prunes, chopped fine

Sift together the dry ingredients. id the eggs and milk and beat till reamy and smooth. Fold in the runes, and drop by spoonfuls into t fat [375 degrees F.]. Cook till lden brown. Drain on unglazed per and serve hot with a slightly ickened orange juice sauce.

And by the way, are you well versed prune grades? Sometimes it makes nsiderable difference to our pocketooks which grade we buy for making lads, sauces, or for stewing. Prunes e graded according to the number a pound. These are the sizes:

PRUNE GRADES.

Large—20-30; 30-40
Medium—40-50; 50-60; 60-70
Small—70-80; 80-90

If we're choosing prunes for stewg to be used for a breakfast fruit dessert, the large ones have more a swanky appearance. If they are be pulped for the baby, for sandich fillings or for whips, the smaller es are more economical.

But before we call it a day there is special favorite of grownups, prunes another companified looking temption. It's a

MOLDED PRUNE JELLY.

2 cups boiling water
2 tablespoons granulated gelatin
1 cup cold water
Juice of 2 lemons
¼ cup sugar
1 pound prunes, cooked

Pit the prunes and press through a coarse sieve. Soak the gelatin in the cold water for 5 minutes, then dissolve it in the boiling water. Add the prune pulp, sugar, and lemon juice and pour into cold, wet, individual molds which have attractive spirals or fluting on the sides. Chill till firm and serve with a fluff of sweetened whipped cream or with soft custard.

Many Parties Arranged for Mary Dawes

Prenuptial Functions to Start Sunday.

she has invited for luncheon and bridge. Her parents, the Alvin E. Bastiens of Winnetka, plan to move to town around Oct. 1 so that Miss Bastien may spend the winter season closer to the debutante activities. Plans for her presentation to society are not yet complete, and will not be until the Bastiens are settled in town.

An interesting and attractive visitor who is here primarily to see the Fair is Miss Isabel Wilder, who arrived Sunday and has been visiting her brother, Thornton Wilder, at the University of Chicago. Today she is going north to be the guest of Mrs. Howard Cunningham of Lake Shore drive until Saturday or Sunday. Mr. Wilder is leaving tomorrow for their home in New Haven, and later he is going to Honolulu, so his many friends in Chicago will not see him here again until next summer unless he stops here on his way to or from Honolulu.

Leander McCormicks Will Visit Fair.

Leander J. McCormick and his lovely bride, the former Comtesse Renee de Fleurieu, who, by the way, has charmed every one who has met her, are coming to town today to spend two days seeing the Fair. They have been with the Leslie Wheelers in Lake Forest ever since they arrived on Sunday morning, and they will be back there on Friday to stay until they leave Saturday for Santa Barbara.

Tonight Mrs. Wheeler is giving a dinner for them at the Rendezvous in the Streets of Paris, with cocktails first at the Century club. Mr. and Mrs. McCormick are planning to pay Chicago another visit on their way back to their home in England after a visit to his brother, Alister H. McCormick, and his family, in California. The third and oldest brother, Edward H., and his wife and two sons, who also live in England, are visiting the Alister McCormicks now, also.

Although the award of the Swedish medal of Vasa to Miss Florence Dibell Bartlett has been known for some weeks, it was just a few days ago upon Miss Bartlett's return from her New Mexico ranch that she received the handsome gold piece. Of course the engraving and the shipment of the medal from Sweden were the reasons for its delayed arrival.

Just as modest as she is about all of her honors, Miss Bartlett isn't telling any of her friends about the medal, although she is deeply appreciative of it. It was given to her, you will recall, by the king of Sweden for her great interest in Sweden and her ever devoted effort in spreading the ideas of Swedish culture in Chicago. Most interesting of all, Miss Bartlett is one of the two or three women the world over to have received the award. Sweden does not believe in conferring medals on women.

Miss Bartlett says that she is in town to stay this time at least until the Fair has closed its gates the beginning of November. Her recent trip to New Mexico was devoted almost entirely to the remodeling of various parts of her ranch house.

Lester Armours Back from Scotland.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Armour stepped off the Century early yesterday morning glowing with all the interest and thrill of a several weeks' hunting vacation in the Scottish moors. The Armours were the guests of the Wolcott Blairs during most of their stay in the land of the heather.

Now Mrs. Armour will direct her attention toward getting their four children fitted out for school. Miss Betty is to be a student this year at Miss Walker's school, while young Lester travels in the other direction to attend the Desert school at Tucson, Ariz. The Armours' two younger sons will enroll in school in another couple of weeks in Lake Forest.

Mrs. Howard Van Doren Shaw and her daughter, Miss Theodora Shaw, are entertaining several house guests at their home in Lake Forest, including Mrs. Shaw's sister, Mrs. Russell B. Low of Fitchburg, Mass., and her son, Russell Jr., and Ellery Sedgwick Jr. of Boston, who arrived yesterday. Mrs. Shaw and her daughter are planning to move in town to their Lake View avenue apartment some time in October, the date depending upon the weather, of course.

The Frank E. Wilhelms, who have been spending the summer in the James E. Baum house in Lake Forest, are moving in to their Lake View avenue apartment a week from Friday. No date for Miss Jean Wilhelm's formal presentation to society has been set yet, but that she will be one of the most popular of the season's debs is assured, for she is an unusually lovely looking and attractive young girl.

Honore White to Spend Winter Here.

Good news to the "stay at homes" this winter among the girls who made their debuts last season, also to several young men about town, is the report that Miss Honore White, the attractive dark haired daughter of Mrs. Howard Fenton, will be in Chicago for the next six months. Miss White and her mother have just returned from a trip abroad and are once more settled in their lovely apartment on Lake Shore drive. Miss White will spend a good deal of time studying music and French.

Sir Herbert Samuel, the Englishman who came to Chicago last weekend to tell the English Speaking union about the latest political and economic developments in his homeland, bade the city farewell yesterday noon at a small luncheon at the Tavern. His host was the English Consul General Lewis Bernays.

Miss Josephine Fleming is entertaining all of the young women from Chicago and the north shore who are planning on entering Goucher college this fall at tea at 3 o'clock this afternoon at her Lake Forest home. Assisting Miss Fleming as hostess will be the officers of the Chicago Goucher club.

There is widespread interest in the dinner the Friends of India are giving tomorrow evening at the International house for Dr. Shan Kar, the father of the widely acclaimed dancer, Shan Kar, who gave a performance last winter in Chicago. It was Dr. Shan Kar who taught his son the first elements of dancing as a mere boy. He is to speak tomorrow night on "The Art of Hindu Singing."

ENGAGEMENTS

Mrs. Hugh Cameron of 5200 Sheridan road has announced the engagement of her daughter, Janet Converse, to David Louis Schwartz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schwartz of 3740 Lake shore drive.

Dr. and Mrs. Ormond E. Wall of Honolulu announce the engagement of their daughter, Eva Reed Grossman, to James Wilson Glover, son of the late George Martin Glover of Tennessee. Miss Grossman is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Shepherd of Chicago. Mr. Glover has lived in Honolulu for the last six years at the Pacific club.

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Fashion over here in Paris is taking a serious interest in heavy Byzantine to barbaric jewelry. Stones that verge on the gaudy, in sparkling reds, blues and greens, are set into weighty gold necklaces and bracelets, and Worth is using such stones as studding for his latest sports belts of hefty leather. Belts with rows of green or red stones as big as the Hope diamond add a touch of oddity to the simple knitted suit fashionable women are wearing this season.

The Worth suit in our sketch today has as its high light such a belt, and a mighty high light it is! The suit is made of natural flax, knitted in lacy stripes, with a hip length jacket buttoned up the front over bone buttons, and having only lapels and no collar at the neckline. The straight sleeves are topped by jutting shelves set into the armholes. The skirt is one of those smart, straight garments with seams only down the front and back.

The knitted blouse in the background is most amusing. It has a square, ribbed yoke and hipband done with natural flax thread, and between these it is solid brown to match the leather belt. The sleeves are long and fitted.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

THE FLYING ARMADA.

Prof. Fordney was annoyed. Inspector Kelley's call necessitated him telephoning the White House declining the President's invitation to join in the reception that afternoon to the flying Italian armada.

"What a business—if you call it that," he muttered as he hung up the receiver.

Thirty minutes later he met Kelley at a small gas station on the outskirts of Washington, where the body of Adam Wright lay on the gravel driveway.

The owner of the station, Richard Volta, a nice looking chap of about 25, told the officers that he was alone sitting in his office when a Packard drove up: that he closed the ledger on which he was working and that just as he stepped out the door [which was almost entirely of glass] a Cadillac drew up alongside the Packard. He said a shot was fired from the Cadillac, which sped away, and the single occupant of the Packard slumped in his seat. He lifted the man from the car, laid him on the ground, telephoned two doctors in the neighborhood, then called the police.

"Haven't you a gun here?" inquired Fordney.

"Yes, I have," replied the proprietor, "but it hasn't been touched for months—there's been no occasion—a quiet spot this."

"Let's see it," Kelley demanded.

Volta pulled open a drawer in the office and the professor pushed aside the .38 caliber Colt revolver which covered a photograph of Balbo as he landed in Chicago and murmured. "And I missed the White House reception . . . damn! Arrest him, Kelley. He's lying."

HOW DID HE KNOW?

Dulcet Males of Air, Screen Jar Marriages

Wife's Hero Worship Irks Average Husband.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Corrine Lowe, well known magazine contributor, charges radio announcers with producing as much friction between husbands and wives as psychic bids. Or, we should say, Miss Lowe charges husbands with permitting radio announcers to get under their skin and make the evening unsafe for the little woman whose face lights up at the sound of the elegant baritone.

In her magazine article in a current monthly Miss Lowe describes these masters of the "mike" as stalwart gentlemen, honest citizens, hard working husbands and fathers. She leaves no alibi in the personality of the announcer for the husband to go off into tantrums at the sound of his voice.

It brings up the question, however, of why men instinctively resent certain male attributes and certain males that appeal to women. Rudolf Valentino, perhaps, caused more domestic friction [argument, anyway] than any individual in the history of our times. Just why was never authentically determined. The mere mention of his name in a mixed gathering sent the women into ecstatic "ahs" and "ohs," and the men into cuss words, or stronger.

Not long since we heard Clark Gable scored by a group of men in much the same terms as used to be applied to Valentino. "Women made him," we were told. Not the men! We inject the personal hope right here that women keep on making idols such as these.

Now if husbands are going to let the "mike" announcers get under their skins we say that's just too bad and all out of proportion to their usual magnanimous selves. We do think, however, that the screen idol or the "mike," as persons, have little to do with whatever ruction they innocently induce. They're only an irritant to the male, because the woman acclaim makes him feel personally a bit inferior. Well, cheated then, if not inferior! Isn't it the truth, gentlemen?

But that isn't solving the problem of how to keep the radio from stirring up friction, if friction it does cause, as claimed by Miss Lowe.

We would simply advise the wives to get their pleasure from the deep blue velvet voice on the Wee-Winkie hour without open comment, and without too much satisfaction written on the face. There's no use introducing into a complicated enough domestic scene a figure or a voice or an idol that you'll probably never meet or, in meeting, will find not much different in glamor than the gentleman whose hard earned money is paying for the radio and the movie tickets.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The history of today's quilt pattern leaves plenty of room for guess work and opportunity for dispute. In the first place, both Connecticut and New York take the credit for originating it. More than that, none of the authorities are able to say which of the first ladies it honors. But no matter. "Lady of the White House" is a very old pattern and deserving of a prominent position in your album.

For a quilt pattern of this design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

Field Museum Illustrates History of Hopi Pottery

The process of pottery manufacture practiced by the Hopi Indians in the southwest is portrayed step by step in an exhibit at the Field Museum of Natural History, it was announced yesterday. The exhibit includes pottery made about 1540, pronounced to be good, and of the period about 1850, when the art had degenerated. At the beginning of this century the Hopi Indians discovered some of the early work which is now being copied.

U. S. MAY GIVE CHICAGO A NEW COASTGUARDSHIP

Federal public works administrators in Washington yesterday made an allotment of $8,501,190 to the United States coast guard service for the construction of 10 new vessels, one of which may be stationed at Chicago. From these funds $5,000 has already been set aside for temporary repairs to the old Chicago coast guard station at the mouth of the Chicago river which burned on Aug. 27, and another $75,000 to be utilized in rebuilding the station in the spring.

Notification of the allotment was received from coast guard headquarters by Commander C. S. Klinger, chief of staff of the Chicago division of the service. Admiral H. G. Hamlet of the coast guard service already has approved the use of a portion of the allotment for repairs and ultimate reconstruction of the burned station, he said in a telegram to Commander Klinger.

Largest to Cost $1,500,000.

The new boats, to be constructed in American shipyards, will be of three classes. The largest of these will be three 300 foot cutters which will cost $1,500,000 each. They will be fitted with geared turbines and will develop 7,000 horse power. The boats will each have a maximum speed of 20 knots and each will carry a seaplane. These craft are designed especially for the Bering sea patrol or the international ice patrol in the Atlantic ocean.

Three more ships identical with the Escanaba, the Lake Michigan flagship of the coast guard fleet, which is 150 feet long and will develop 17 knots, are to be constructed. Each of these vessels will cost $550,000. They will be equipped as ice breakers, rescue boats, and will have powerful pumps which can be called into play in case of a ship or harbor fire.

Four to Be Harbor Tugs.

The remaining four boats will be harbor tugs of sizes yet to be determined by the coast guard engineers and designers. The tugs are to cost $250,000 each. The remainder of the allotment will be used in repairs to plant and equipment of the coast guard service.

"I anticipate that one of the Escanaba type ships to be built under the allotment will be stationed at Chicago," said Commander Klinger last evening. "There is a distinct need for such a craft in Chicago waters. The new boats all will be beauties. One of the advancements is the fact that all auxiliary gear, such as winches and pumps will be electrically driven.

NEGRO ARRESTED AT MURPHYSBORO ON RAPE CHARGE

Murphysboro, Ill., Sept. 5.—(AP)—A Negro, said by officers to give the name of L. C. Williams, 23, Tulsa, Okla., was arrested here today by a posse and held for the filing of charges of raping a young white woman.

Sheriff W. W. Ozburn said the young woman victim, and another who escaped a similar fate, had identified the prisoner.

The Negro was captured after officers, aided by bloodhounds, conducted a search beginning late last night. The hounds overtook the alleged attacker at the roundhouse of the M. & O. railroad. The prisoner denied his guilt.

He allegedly forced a young woman and her escort from a parked motor car last night, struck the man on the head, and dragged the woman into the woods. She was beaten but not attacked.

Saturday night another young woman was attacked under similar circumstances. Williams was said to have served time in the Kansas state prison at Lansing.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Back "home" and glad to be there, Peter Cristopholus hopes to find in schoolbooks a solution to his present bewilderment.

Peter, his adventure ended, is attending classes at Father Flanagan's Boys' home here instead of being enrolled in a military school as his prospective foster-father, wealthy Jean Strengs of Paterson, N. J., had planned.

The 14 year old orphan, who entered the Strengs' home two months ago for a trial adoption period, was reported arrogant and disobedient, and not like Strengs' son, drowned last year, whose place in the household Peter was supposed to fill.

Since returning to Omaha, Peter has been kept in seclusion. Officials reported that his conduct since his return has been exemplary.

BIDWILL BUYS CARDINAL PRO FOOTBALL TEAM

New York Lead Cut to 6½ Games.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—The Pittsburgh Pirates took up the burden of cutting the Giants' lead in the National league with startling success today as they pounded Carl Hubbell and two successors for 13 hits and a 6 to 1 victory. The Pirates' efforts reduced New York's lead over the field to six and one-half games. It was the first of a five game series to be played in four days.

Pittsburgh, which rose to second place while the Braves were ineffectually battling to topple the leaders last week in what was expected to be a crucial series in Boston, today hammered Hubbell, star of the New York pitching staff, for five hits and three runs in the third inning and sent him from the mound in the fourth.

Giants Commit Three Errors.

Bill Shores and Johnny Salveson followed Hubbell on the mound, but neither was able to halt the Pirates' attack. Three New York errors contributed to the Giants' defeat, one of them coming in the deciding third inning. Paul Waner collected three singles to lead Pittsburgh to victory. The defeat was Hubbell's tenth of the season, halting a three game winning streak and put an end to his string of 24 consecutive scoreless innings.

In the first two innings neither team threatened. Paul Waner singled after two were out in the Pirates' half of the first and Traynor walked, but Vaughan grounded to Hubbell for the third out. Pittsburgh again put a man on first base in the second when Gus Suhr, the first to bat, walked. Hubbell's screw ball set the next three batters down in order, however.

Peel Reaches Second Base.

The Giants' half of the second was marked by Homer Peel's single. He could advance no farther than second base, however, as Ott, Jackson, and Mancuso were retired in order.

The third inning saw action, as the Pirates hammered Hubbell hard for five hits and three runs, aided by Peel's error. Singles by Jensen and Paul Waner, plus Lindstrom's sacrifice, gave Pittsburgh its first run. Peel's wild throw let Paul Waner reach third on his hit and Arky Vaughan hit a single to score him. Base hits by Suhr and Thevenow scored Vaughan.

Giants Score in Fourth.

New York made its only serious threat in the fourth when Vaughan's error let Hughie Critz reach first safely. Terry forced him, but a single by Peel put the New York manager on third. Mel Ott then hit a double, scoring Terry for the Giants' only run. Pittsburgh got back that run in its half of the inning on Lindstrom's two base hit, French's single, and a sacrifice. The Pirates' activities at this point brought in Shores to replace Hubbell.

The Pirates continued the heavy bat swinging against Shores, scoring in the fifth on the hit-sacrifice-hit combination as Vaughan and Thevenow mingled and Suhr contributed the sacrifice. New York filled the bases in the same inning, but couldn't score against Larry French.

Get Another Off Salveson.

After a scoreless sixth inning, Shores was removed for a pinch hitter and the Pirates proceeded to collect the final run in the seventh off Salveson. Thevenow went to first on Mondy Ryan's error, reached second on Grace grounded out, and scored on French's single.

THE WARFARE BETWEEN THE HELENS

[This is the third and last of a series of articles on the feud between Helen Jacobs and Helen Wills Moody—America's greatest women tennis players.]

BY RUTH REYNOLDS.

HELEN JACOBS is exceedingly popular with the men tennis players, more so than Helen Wills; goes to parties with them, confides her hopes and ambitions—all those that don't hinge on tennis are literary—and she told one of them that she was once engaged, but that the engagement was broken off. She didn't name the man. She has neither the classic beauty nor the style of Miss Wills, the men say, but she's lots more fun!

At the same time the men tennis players felt they knew Helen Wills less and less. At first she was young and shy. Then she showed her dignity. She grew more careful of her dignity than of her best Sunday hat. She had few enthusiasms. She was extremely cautious about most of the things she said. They say she showed even more social pride after curtsying to the king and queen at the court of St. James's in April, 1929.

But all this may be the gossip resulting from the fact that more than one bright name in tennis received a decided "No, thank you," when he asked for a date with the world's best woman tennis player.

Married to Moody in December, 1930.

For Helen Wills gave all the local boys the go-by to become Mrs. Frederick S. Moody Jr., in December, 1929, and she didn't appear to care two pence because her marriage landed her in the California social register. There is no record at the U. of C. that she graduated, but on her file card with the U. S. L. T. A. she says she did in 1927.

In 1928, in the Wightman cup matches, the United States led three matches to two when the singles were finished. It required only one victory to clinch things for the United States. Wills and Jacobs, No. 1 and 2 ranking players, were obviously the best doubles team the Americans could put in the field. But Miss Wills has gone out of her way never to play doubles with Helen Jacobs. So she teamed with Penelope Anderson, while Miss Jacobs teamed with Eleanor Goss. Both teams were beaten. England won the Wightman cup matches for 1928, 4-3!

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody today after 12 years of campaigning durign which she became the world's greatest woman tennis player.

In 1929, although the United States won the series, 4-3, the same thing happened. Both United States doubles teams were beaten, although Miss Jacobs did have the honor of playing with Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman, who in years past had shown a preference for Miss Wills as a partner.

But in 1930 a story spread which further strained the feelings between the two Helens. Miss Wills is supposed to have dictated to the United States Lawn Tennis association to keep Miss Jacobs from the '30 Wightman cup team. However, so the story goes, a group of English visitors promoting east-west and international matches at Berkeley, saw Miss Jacobs play, liked her, and were so impressed by her tennis that they arranged to finance her through a series of eastern tournaments and then send her on to Wimbledon.

Even though this story may not have been true—and S. Wallace Merrihew, editor of American Lawn Tennis, says it is not true—it got to Miss Jacobs' ear and hurt her feelings. Mr. Merrihew denies, too, that the two girls were ever as unfriendly as their careful actions have led many spectators to believe.

Little Helen was gone five months. She didn't do well. She suffered a throat infection and an attack of pleurisy aboard ship en route to Europe. She played against her doctor's orders in several European matches before she came home, but never told of her trouble. Despite her healthy, robust appearance, Miss Jacobs, like her father, who has long been a victim of poor health, is often a sufferer from physical ailments. During this year Helen Wills Moody beat her at Auteuil, France, by the decisive score 6-2, 6-1.

Mrs. Moody Wins; Then Comes the Snub.

They next met at Seabright, N. J., in August, 1931, and again Mrs. Moody snubbed Miss Jacobs so definitely that the action was remarked upon. Mrs. Moody, of course, won—this time 6-0, 6-0.

Little Helen ran up to the net to congratulate her victorious rival. Mrs. Moody extended her finger tips, but she turned her head away! Then the photographers tried to get the two together for a picture. Mrs. Moody refused to pose with Miss Jacobs. She was really much too fatigued.

Early last year, when Mrs. Moody announced her temporary retirement from tennis in order to stay at home with her husband and relatives, Miss Jacobs must have realized that she was about to win a hollow victory. She, along with everybody else, knew that she was by far the best choice to win the national woman's singles with Mrs. Moody out of the running.

BY FRENCH LANE.

It was Foxiana, a $1,500 selling plater and daughter of the royally bred Stefan the Great—Istar. She smothered the platers which tried to keep company with her and was the winner by five lengths after running the mile in 1:36 4-5.

Few faster miles have been run in America this year. The time was just a second off the track record. She ran so fast she made a holy show of her rivals. Once she was ten lengths in front, most of the way she was six lengths in the van, and she was going as easy as any of them at the end.

She Was Really Going.

At one stage of the race she was a furlong in front of Cold Check, which was running last. But Cold Check did some speeding a little later on and got up to be second before it was all over. It was a powerful race, which he ran behind such a dizzy pace.

Foxiana had sizzled the track all the way, running the quarter in :23 1-5, the half in :46 3-5 and the three-quarters in the startling time of 1:10 3-5. Jockey Pool was riding her with whip and leather despite her long lead, but eased her up slightly coming down the stretch. Otherwise Cold Check, Foxland Hall which finished third and others might have been beaten by a dozen lengths.

Foxiana, from the Austin stable of Chicago, is trained by E. L. Snyder, and the owner, according to the program, is J. H. Jonessen. It was rumored that Charles W. Bidwill is the real proprietor of the stable, but the report could not be verified. Any way, Mr. Snyder has always trained the Bidwill horses.

Double for Austin Stable.

From the beginning to the end, Foxiana was completely in charge of the situation. She had many backers, paying $4.14 to win, $2.44 to place, and $2.20 to show. Cold Check, with almost as many supporters, paid $2.80 to place and $2.22 to show. Foxland Hall was $2.94 to show.

It was the second straight victory for Jockey Pool, who apparently was riding in better form than he did way back in his prime 15 years ago. The spectacular victory of Foxiana also made it possible for the Austin stable to score a double. In the mile and a furlong seventh race, Blackfoot from the Austin establishment, overcome quite a bit of interference and raced up in the stretch to beat out Brains by a length and a half.

Blackfoot was backed just about as stoutly as Foxiana and paid $4.62 in the mutuels. Kacala was up on Blackfoot.

Old Brown Wisdom proved to be a gay deceiver again when after being made almost an even money favorite, he failed to finish better than third in a six furlong battle. Sun Thorne, owned by T. C. Worden of Chicago, was in front all the way and wound up by beating the long shot, Monks Bela, by two lengths. Brown Wisdom finished very fast and was third, beaten a neck by Monks Bela.

Cubs Purchase Pitcher Lee, Columbus Star

The name of William Lee was added to the Cubs' roster yesterday, the move being the first toward the rehabilitation of a pitching staff that has gone slightly threadbare through long use. Lee, a giant right hander purchased from the Columbus American association team for cash and two players, will report late this season if conditions in the percentage column warrant his appearance. Otherwise he will remain a minor leaguer until the Cubs assemble for next spring's training labors at Catalina island.

The purchase enabled Lee to escape from the St. Louis Cardinals' chain gang, the Columbus club being enrolled as one of the numerous farms in that organization. He's been shuttling back and forth in the St. Louis chain for four seasons, having been picked up and sent to the Cardinals' 1930 spring camp after the far-seeing Branch Rickey had spotted him at Louisiana State college.

Overcomes His Wildness.

Lee to date has won 21 and lost 9 as a member of the league leading Columbus squad. He was shipped to the Columbus team at the close of the 1931 season and the following spring started off at a great clip by turning in two three-hit games. Last season and during the current campaign he has been the ace man of the Red Birds' staff. He always has been a strike-out specialist, but only during this season was he able to conquer a tendency toward wildness. The two players the Cubs must give in part payment will not be named until later.

The Cubs, having had all of yesterday in which to figure how dim their pennant prospects really are, will resume business today in the opener of an invasion by the four eastern teams. The Braves, recently crushed in four out of five with the Giants, will be the first arrivals. Charley Grimm, the Cub boss, has the choice of using either Pat Malone or Lon Warneke today.

Eight Games Behind Giants.

While it still is mathematically possible for the Cubs to get over the finish line ahead of the leading Giants, there is no need to grow excited over what might happen. The Giants now are topping the third place Chicagoans by eight games.

The Cubs have 22 more games to complete their 154 game allotment, all of these at home except a pair at St. Louis. It is hardly reasonable to expect the north siders to sweep their remaining battles. But if they should pull off a miracle and register 22 victories they would end the race with 94 won and 60 lost.

Even if the Cubs did that they still might not show their heels to the leaders. The Giants to finish their year's work with the same percentage would have to take 17 out of their remaining 28. If the Cubs should win 18 of their 22 games the Giants could tie them by taking only 13 out of 28.

Dr. David Jones, owner of the Cardinals since 1929, sells his interest in team in order to devote his time to medical duties.

Pirates Worry Giants.

After weighing these possibilities the Cubs probably will figure they had better concentrate on second place money, which, with a slice from the prospective city series gate, would be sufficient to keep them in fuel and groceries until pay days are resumed next April.

The Giants just now are concerned more over the Pirates than any of the other contenders. The Pirates, by denting Carl Hubbell yesterday, moved to a point six and one-half games from the top.

IN the WAKE of the NEWS

BASEBALL PENNANTS.

WITH the turn of Labor day Chicago fans have given up all hope of National or American league pennants this year. So have fans in other cities except New York and Washington. Or if there be a few still clinging to forlorn chances they might as well admit the outcome, despite the fact it is not quite mathematically clinched.

Victories for Washington and New York Giants will give added interest to the world series. Both are in a measure surprises, more especially the Giants. Neither was picked by a majority of critics at the beginning of the season. Washington was given better chance than New York last April.

When Owner Clark Griffith of the Senators was here at the time of the Game of the Century, suggested and sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, he anticipated the result. Washington at the time held a small lead, which one was inclined to believe might be temporary. Not so Griffith.

"We'll have better pitching than New York the rest of the way," he said, "and we'll hit more effectively than they do when hits are needed, despite the home runs of Gehrig and Ruth. Our boys are fired with enthusiasm and prepared to make a strong finish."

This prediction has been borne out. Washington is leading the league in batting, according to the unofficial averages. Earl Whitehill, obtained in a trade from Detroit last winter, leads in won and lost percentages. Alvin Crowder is the only hurler in his league to have recorded more than 20 victories this season. Those factors are the base of Washington's success.

Showing of the local teams has been disappointing, perhaps more so than the circumstances warrant. At the end of the 1932 season many critics did not think the champion Cubs were the best team in the league, whatever we thought at home. This year batting "punch" has been lacking, that punch which was really great in the 1929 team, when Hornsby, Stephenson, and Cuyler seemed able to start a rally to pull any game out of the fire.

White Sox started well, as if their purchases of Simmons, Dykes, and Haas might signal the return of better days. It did, but slab strength was lacking, as keen observers then predicted. White Sox have been in the fight and given many thrilling exhibitions. So really disappointment in them, measured by logic, has been only that they are in sixth position instead of fourth, and that margin is not great.

The Wake does not feel that either Cubs or White Sox have been a bust. It is natural to expect more of home teams, simply because they are home teams and our hopes are high, than dope should lead one to expect.

The Audience Understood.

Dear Harvey: Patrick J. Hurley says that out at Oklahoma college, which he attended, they were constantly putting on Shakespearean plays. In one of them Brutus dramatically steps up to a tent, throws back the flap, and orates: "Cassius, where art thou?" A boy from Arkansas, playing the part, became scared, forgot his lines, and yelled: "Cassius, where are you at?" C. A. K.

His Mother.

To be a baby's Mother
Is the grandest thing I know;
To guide his little footsteps
In the way they ought to go.

To fondle and caress him,
To feed and clothe him, too,
And be his best adviser,
And teach him what to do.

There are moments that are precious,
And many sad ones, too;
But always you're his MOTHER.
May he be good to you!

Doctors Explain Why Mrs. Moody Quit Tennis Court

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 5.—(AP)—The injury which forced Mrs. Helen Wills Moody to default to Helen Jacobs in the finals of the national tennis championship recently came from a displaced vertebra, it was announced today.

Dr. C. A. Wills, father of the dethroned court queen, made the announcement after X-ray examinations. Mrs. Moody was reported "resting quietly" at the Stanford hospital here.

Mrs. Moody's condition was not considered alarming and an operation probably will not be necessary in the treatment of the injury.

"We will attempt to restore Helen's health by massaging the injury and by therapeutic treatments," Dr. Wills said.

NATIONAL OPEN POLO TOURNEY IS POSTPONED

New York, Sept. 5.—[Special.]—Postponement of the national open polo championship has been announced by the United States Polo association. Heavy rains have left the fields of Long Island so wet as to interfere with practice by the teams entered for the championship. The result has been the postponement for one week of the tournament. Instead of opening Saturday, the meet will start Sept. 16.

SPORT LEADER TAKES CONTROL FROM DR. JONES

BY ARCH WARD.

Charles W. Bidwill, one of the country's most widely known sportsmen, yesterday purchased the Chicago Cardinals professional football team from Dr. David L. Jones, who has had control of the club since 1929. The price was in excess of $50,000.

Mr. Bidwill, who is a part owner of the Chicago Bears, will dispose of his interests in that organization immediately.

Dr. Jones, who will serve as president of the Cardinals for this season, sold the club so that he could devote more time to his duties as city physician.

"I regret to withdraw from the ranks of professional football owners," Dr. Jones said last night. "I believe it is the fastest developing sport in America. I can't do justice to two jobs and I feel at the moment that I am more valuable to the community as city physician than as a football leader."

Pioneer Pro Team.

The Cardinals are Chicago's pioneers in professional football. Under the direction of Chris O'Brien they were playing teams throughout the middle west two or three years before the Bears moved into the city in 1921, the season the National Professional Football league was organized.

At a time when most persons financially interested in sport have adopted retrenchment policies the new boss of the Cardinals has expanded his interests until he is now perhaps the city's most active athletic figure. Bidwill is president of the Chicago Stadium Operating company, which has exclusive rights to promote boxing, wrestling, bicycle races and kindred events in the world's largest indoor arena. He also is a director of the American Turf association, proprietor of a racing stable, and secretary of the Chicago Business Men's Racing association, which controls the Hawthorne track. In his spare moments he serves as president of the Bentley, Murray Printing company.

"We think the Cardinals will hold their own with the leading teams in the league this season," Bidwill said. "If we are proved wrong, we shall try to strengthen the club for 1934. Nothing less than a championship will be satisfactory. Our appeal will be particularly to the popular fan—the every day gent with no collegiate affiliation. We hope to attract letter carriers, street car conductors, clerks, and above all, kids.

High Hopes for 1933 Season.

"In brief, the success of professional football depends in no small measure upon its ability to draw the workaday sport fans who either have been ignored by the colleges or who can't get away to attend Saturday games. These folks love their athletic idols and must have them. Professional football supplies that need."

The Cardinals finished seventh in the league standings last year. A new coach, Paul Schissler, formerly of Oregon State, and the acquisition of several prominent college players have given Bidwill new hope for 1933. Chuck Bennett, who won THE TRIBUNE trophy for being the Big Ten player of greatest value to his team in 1931 when he was playing with Indiana; Jim Bausch of Kansas and Olympic fame; Pete Yanuskus of Illinois; Tom Yarr of Notre Dame, Harold Moe of Oregon State, Dave Nisbet of Washington, and Herb Tipton of Southern California are among the newcomers of exceptional promise.

Play Aurora Sunday.

Gil Berry, who captained the University of Illinois football team last fall and who had signed to play with the Cardinals, will leave for Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 3. He has signed a five weeks contract with Paramount.

Berry was one of eight winners in a recent international "perfect type" contest. According to officials of the moving picture company Berry will receive a "minimum salary of $50 a week" and his expenses will be paid.

"When I signed with the Cardinals," Berry said yesterday, "I was then taking tests for this contest. Dr. David Jones, then owner of the Cardinals, agreed that if I was chosen for the cast of the picture that he would cancel my contract. I don't know whether I have a future in moving pictures but I have decided to find out."

Berry has been residing with his wife, the former Dorothy Flint, at 1721 Thorndale avenue. She will accompany him to California.

Named Most Valuable Player.

Last year Berry was named as most valuable player on the Illinois varsity. He finished second to Harry Newman of Michigan in the balloting for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE trophy. He played in the recent East-West game at Soldiers' field.

Indians Call Galehouse from New Orleans Club

Cleveland, O., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Dennis Galehouse, star pitcher now with New Orleans of the Southern association, has been called by the Cleveland Indians for delivery next spring, Manager Billy Evans said tonight. Galehouse has won seventeen and lost nine games in the southern circuit this year.

LINCOLN FIELDS HAS ITS QUOTA OF RACE HORSES

Four Tracks Operating in Central States.

Although four major race tracks are operating in the central states—Fairmount at St. Louis, Lincoln Fields in Chicago, the Fair Grounds track in Detroit, and Coney Island at Cincinnati—there is no shortage of horses as far as Lincoln Fields is concerned.

Eight hundred and four horses have been registered in at Lincoln Fields. The arrival of the western division of the C. V. Whitney stable and several other large racing establishments during the next two days will send the total near the 900 mark.

Indian Runner will carry the top weight in the renewal of the $5,000 Lincoln handicap on Saturday afternoon. He has been assigned 126 pounds. Gallant Sir, another high-weight in the race, was so severely crippled while winning the Inaugural handicap at Detroit Saturday that he will not be able to fill his engagement in the Lincoln and may not be able to race again this year.

The successful daily double combination yesterday was Uncle Henry and Dogmata. Uncle Henry was heavily backed, but Dogmata was at more than 25 to 1 in the betting. The double paid $93.10.

J. O. Keene, owner of Keenland stud, noted breeding establishment near Lexington, Ky., has 15 horses at Lincoln Fields, twelve of which are homebred 2 year olds. Most of the youngsters were sired by Vito, a young stallion which raced for Max Hirsch a few years back. This is the first crop of this sire to get to the races. The Keene stable is under the care of Trainer J. P. Ebelhardt, who owns the fleet sprinter, Gift of Roses.

Roscoe Goose and Kirby Ramsey got in from Dade Park with their charges yesterday. Roscoe is campaigning a large stable for Laffoon & Veiser of Covington, Ky.

Jockey George Woolf was the first rider at Lincoln Fields to draw a suspension. He was set down for five days for rough riding in the seventh race Monday when he struck Jockey A. Tipton with his whip.

Trainer Frank C. McAtee arrived from Coney Island with six horses, while Trainer J. Totton came in with four from the same place. Those under McAtee's care are Jessie Dear, Billy's Orphan, Gibby's Choice, and Princess Ivory, owned by himself; Low Gear, which races for J. H. Hardwick, and My Sylvia, the property of Henry Bauer. Chuck B., Running Water, and Scarlet Brigade, which run in the silks of the Serenata Farm stable, and Script Money, a 2 year old owned by George McCrann, comprise Totton's band. Jessie Dear and Princess Ivory are sisters, the former being a 3 year old chestnut daughter of Prince Pal-Ivory, while the other is a bay filly one year younger.

Brothers Play 45 Holes Before Deciding Club Title

Hammond, Ind., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Overtime golf records in the Calumet region were broken when Dick and Ken Stewart, brothers, played 45 holes before they could decide the 1933 championship of the Woodmar Country club. Both shot sub-par golf, Ken winning.

SENATORS TAKE DOUBLE HEADER FROM RED SOX

Win Opener, 5-4, in 11th; Then Triumph, 9-6.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Although outhit in both games, the league leading Washington Senators today won a double-header from the Boston Red Sox. An infield error enabled the Senators to capture the 11 inning opener, 5 to 4, and they hammered four Boston pitchers for a 9 to 6 decision in the second contest.

The Red Sox made a stirring bid in the 10th inning of the first game when, with the score tied, Rick Ferrell was out at the plate while attempting to score from first base on Manager Marty McManus' two base hit.

Dusty Rhodes started the Senators in the 11th by passing Buddy Myer and was relieved by Bob Welland, who gave way almost immediately to Bob Kline. Myer went to third on two infield outs and scored the winning run when Will Werber fumbled Fred Schulte's grounder down the third base line.

MACKS, YANKS SPLIT.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 5.—(AP)—The Athletics and the New York Yankees divided a doubleheader today with a mixed display of good pitching and hard hitting. The A's won the first to 1 and the Yanks the second 9 to 0, to finish 9½ games behind the Washington Senators.

Roy Mahaffey held the Yanks to three hits in the opener while Jimmie Foxx clouted his 40th homer of the year off Lefty Gomez in the sixth. Gehrig opened the Yankees' attack in the nightcap with his 23d homer of the season. Chapman and Frank Crosetti also hit homers for the Yankees and Roger Cramer for the Athletics. Score:

MOON MULLINS—SOMETHING TO REMEMBER HIM BUY

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—You might think the White Sox arrived here a bit frightened at the prospect of meeting the budding champions of the American league. Strangely enough, however, they rather like the Washington ball park and are confident they will end their losing streak at five straight when Lefty Miller goes against the Senators in the opener tomorrow.

The experiences of the White Sox with Washington furnish one of the oddest situations in baseball this season. At Comiskey park the Sox won the first game from the Senators, then lost the remaining ten. Much different is their record in the nation's capital. The first time they were here they won two out of three and the second time, after the Senators had assumed command of the league, the Sox beat the Senators three out of four.

Pitchers Are Rested.

It will be recalled that this same Lefty Miller, who is slated to pitch tomorrow, won three of the five games the Chicagoans took in Washington, two by shutouts. Shortly after being picked up by the Sox, Lefty won 6 to 0 and in the July series here he won the opener, 9 to 2, then came back for a 4 to 0 decision in the final.

Miller has started three times against the Senators at Comiskey park, but never got past the first few innings.

Manager Fonseca faces the east with a corps of well rested pitchers, but with no assurances that any of them will be able to pitch more than an inning or so. During the first half of August the lads showed signs of doing some high class pitching, but for the last two weeks they have been possessed of a very slight degree of skill. In their last four games, for instance, no pitcher has been able to get the side out in the first inning with fewer than two runs.

Last Saturday the Indians made five runs in the first inning and Sunday they made four. In the first game against the Tigers four runs again were rushed across in the initial inning and in the second game two were rung up. In the first game yesterday Kimsey pitched shutout ball after the second inning and Lyons did likewise after the third inning of the second game, both performances being wasted because of early inning misfortunes.

They Start Slowly.

The theory was advanced today that the starting pitchers have been a bit lazy in their warming up duties, this accounting for their first inning discouragements. It is probable that in Washington Manager Fonseca will urge his starters to really warm up before the game and gamble on off days for their rest.

While the principal himself is noncommittal in the matter, indications as the eastern trip gets under way, are that Fonseca will manage the team again next year. Lew appears to be making plans for revamping the team next year, and there are evidences that Owner Lou Comiskey and Vice President Harry Grabiner are supporting his notions.

Lou Comiskey is not the glutton for punishment that his famous father was during the last ten years of the old gentleman's life and whether Fonseca stays or not it is certain that the present owner will refuse to tote a lot of castoffs around on the bleak hope that some miracle will be wrought and mediocre ball players will by some miracle be transformed into something they never have been—winning performers.

Several teams which habitually top the Sox in the final standings have completely rebuilt their personnel during the half dozen years, years in which the Sox have sought to get by with warmed over talent, especially in the pitching department. In past years the fact that such pickups have failed to approach the .500 mark has been attributable, in theory at least, to the fact that the Sox had no appreciable hitting and little defensive support for the pitchers.

Hope Runs High.

This year, however, the burden has been thrown directly on the pitchers, with certain exceptions due to the absence of a first baseman. With the purchase of Zeke Bonura and the improvement of Red Kress, the team's greatest weakness aside from the battery situation, has been cleared up. This, of course, puts it up to the pitchers more than ever.

The Sox first line outfield is the best in a dozen years; if Bonura comes through the infield will pass, though the acquisition of a hitting second baseman would help. The catching is spotty, but not the worst in the business.

Fonseca appears to have a full realization of the shortcomings of his outfit, and if retained, it is said, is prepared to be "almost cruel" in ridding the Sox of deadwood.

Chicago Team Loses C. Y. O. Tourney Game

The first national Catholic baseball tournament opened yesterday afternoon at Comiskey park before 3,000 fans, a large proportion of whom were children.

The meet will continue today with another double header beginning at 1:15. The finals will be held Saturday afternoon.

In yesterday's opening games one of the two Chicago entries was eliminated when St. Peter's of Aurora defeated St. Paneratius, southwest side winners in the C. Y. O. league, 4 to 3 in 10 innings. Al Marzuki tripled and came in on Joe Criscone's single for the winning run.

In the second game St. Adrian, finalist in the C. Y. O. league for two consecutive years, advanced into the second round by defeating St. Joseph Rockdale from Joliet, Ill., 7 to 3.

In today's double header Salt Lake City, Utah, will meet Grand Rapids, Mich., and St. George, C. Y. O. champions of Louisville, Ky., will clash with St. Hyacinth, C. Y. O. champions of Chicago.

NAME WESTERN TEAM FOR NEGRO ALL-STAR GAME

With only a few scattered returns to be accounted for, the makeup of the West team that will meet the East in the colored baseball championship game Sunday afternoon at Comiskey park was announced yesterday. W. A. Greenlee, chairman of the Negro National League of Professional Baseball clubs, said that the votes of colored fans still to be tabulated will not change the personnel of the West squad, inasmuch as the leaders in the balloting are ahead by a considerable margin.

The pitchers in Sunday's game will be Willie Foster of Chicago, Chet Brewer of Kansas City, Willie Cornelius of Chicago, and Ted Bailey of Nashville; the catchers, Larry Brown of Chicago and Dick Young of Kansas City; first base, Mule Suttles of Chicago; second base, Newt Allen of Kansas City; third base, Ted Radcliffe of Chicago; short stop, Willie Wells of Chicago; outfielders, Turkey Stearns, Nat Rogers, and Steel Arm Davis, all of Chicago.

Wood Predicts More Nations to Seek Boat Trophy

New York, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Challenges for the Harmsworth trophy in the near future probably will not be confined to England, Gar Wood declared in an address tonight, adding he was confident the "ingenuity of American industry" would triumph over all opposition, however formidable.

"England will challenge again next year," said the veteran Detroit speedboat pilot, who has just completed a successful defense of the Harmsworth trophy. "There are rumblings that other countries, especially Italy, are preparing boats for next year. I hope so. We urge them to enter the competition. Rivalry makes the effort really worth while.

"You know I've been at this game a long time. I don't know how many more years I will continue to compete against these youngsters they send over with challenging boats. I'd like to ride in a Harmsworth race, win, lose, or draw, with five or six foreign racing boats in competition. I'd love that kind of a race and I have every confidence in the ingenuity of American industry to meet such a challenge."

"Johnson," he declared, "has ridden with me in eight Harmsworth races and, in my opinion, he is the best mechanic in the world. He and I agree that yesterday's Harmsworth race against Hubert Scott-Paine was the most thrilling in which we have competed since we won the trophy in 1920.

"There was real spirit in the dogged chase Scott-Paine gave us. I predict more competition for the future. Competition means a real race and a real race is fun.

"There was a real thrill in the splendid manner in which Miss America answered our every call in the two days of racing. She's a grand gal.

"I want to pay tribute to all the skilled mechanics and American manufacturers who contributed their part to making Miss America ready for her victorious ride. It is not my victory. It is a national victory."

Perry, Vines Pass Second Round Tests

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 5.—(AP)—On turf still slippery from week-end rains, the foreign tennis contingent encountered rough going today in the second round of the national men's singles tournament.

There was only one casualty in the seeded ranks of the invaders as Eikichi Itoh of the Japanese Davis cup team skidded right out of the tournament, but foreign stars were dropping sets unexpectedly.

The entire Australian contingent, including Jack Crawford, looked anything but impressive. Fred Perry, Britain's Davis cup hero, and Jiro Satoh, squat, hard hitting No. 1 of the Japanese team, also met surprising opposition.

O'Loughlin Beats Itoh.

Itoh, seeded No. 7 in the foreign list, was eliminated by a former college star, Dr. David O'Loughlin of Pittsburgh, in the only real upset of a day that cut the field from 64 to 32 for the third round tomorrow. Dr. O'Loughlin, backing up a strong service with baseline steadiness, defeated the young Japanese 6-3, 6-1, 6-3.

Satoh, one of the few top notchers to hold a decision over Crawford this year, conquered Hugh Lynch of Buck Hill Falls, Pa., 6-4, 8-6, 6-4. Crawford made his first appearance on the stadium turf against Julius Seligson, national collegiate champion of 1928, and was highly erratic for two sets before winning, 6-4, 6-3, 6-0.

Vivian McGrath, the Australian whose backhand has attracted more attention than any other stroke in the tournament, had a real battle with Wilmer Hines, Columbia, S. C. star, before emerging on top in one of the longest contests of the day, 6-3, 5-7, 6-4, 6-4.

Other Australians Win.

Don Turnbull and Adrian Quist, Australian doubles mates, likewise found the footing and the opposition difficult. Turnbull barely squeezed through against the veteran metropolitan player, J. Gilbert Hall, 4-6, 7-5, 6-4, 6-4, while Quist finally overcame another seasoned New Yorker, Ned Herndon, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Perry, who is favored to meet Ellsworth Vines, the defending champion, in the semi-finals, dropped his first set with the left handed Robert Bryan of Chattanooga, Tenn., before settling down to win, 3-6, 6-3, 6-0, 6-3.

The home guard, led by Vines and Frank X. Shields, giant New Yorker, had relatively little difficulty. The champion hardly worked up a perspiration in disposing of Ray Palmer Jr. of Malba, N. Y., a high school boy, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2, while Shields, despite a couple of spills, easily whipped John Negrady of New York, 6-0, 6-2, 6-4.

Of the other top seeded Americans, Wilmer Allison, Cliff Sutter, Frankie Parker and George Lott, all came through in straight sets. So did diminutive Bryant Grant Jr. of Atlanta, who handed an unexpectedly decisive trouncing to Dick Murphy of Utica, N. Y., the intercollegiate runner-up, 8-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Lott Eliminates Wood.

Lott eliminated the former Harvard football star, Barry Wood, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4. Keith Gledhill had a hard fight overcoming Karl Kamrath of Austin, Tex., 11-9, 7-5, 4-6, 6-4, in a match that lasted nearly two hours.

The veteran former champion, Dick Williams, lost to 18 year old Marco Hecht, University of Pennsylvania star, in five sets, 2-6, 6-3, 7-5, 0-6, 6-4.

Tomorrow's schedule features the international match between Shields and Turnbull. Lott plays Ryosuke Nunoi, second ranking Japanese, and Crawford takes on Jack Tidball of Hollywood, Cal., holder of the American intercollegiate championship. Frankie Parker, 17 year old Milwaukeean, plays Gledhill, and the long-time doubles mates, Allison and John Van Ryn, also are bracketed together in the third round.

PLAY SECOND TITLE GAME.

The Friedman Boosters and Berwyn will play the second of their three game series at Mills Stadium tonight to decide the Chicago area championship in the National Softball association.

The Warfare of the Helens

the U. S. title. In August, 1931, she had captured it for the seventh time. In June, 1932, she had become French champion for the fourth time. She had been five times champion at Wimbledon [this year she added the sixth]. And Helen Jacobs, while she was good—very good—had never won any of these titles.

At Last Miss Jacobs It Rated No. 1.

Well, Miss Jacobs become national singles champion in 1932—and all tennis fans were glad for her sake, but made the mental reservation, "She didn't have to play Mrs. Moody." And Miss Jacobs became No. 1 ranking player in the United States—but Mrs. Moody wasn't ranked because she had ignored most of the American tournaments that year.

Consequently no tennis fan was more eager to see Helen Wills Moody on the courts in 1933 than Helen Jacobs. And it was quite freely predicted that Mrs. Moody—who showed all her old form during this year's Wimbledon matches—would capture her eighth national title.

Today Miss Jacobs may say she has no inferiority complex about playing Mrs. Moody. Today she may say that she was confident before the match that she'd win on Aug. 26.

But before the final match Miss Jacobs was asked to be the guest of honor at the Pavilion Royale on the night following the match.

"You don't want me. You want Helen Wills."

"No, I want you. I'm confident you'll win," John Steinberg, owner of the night club rejoined.

"Well," Miss Jacobs half laughed, "I'm warning you now you'll be disappointed. She'll beat me."

On Her Way to Victory When Mrs. Moody Defaults.

She was not, her doctor says, in the pink of condition, but doctor's orders or no she was going to play Helen Wills Moody and prove that she could win. She did play bang up tennis. She lost a set, won a set and was on her way to winning another one—8-6, 3-6, 3-0—when Mrs. Moody, who suffered a back injury some time before, raised her racquet dramatically, walked to the judge's bench and explained that her legs had given out.

Miss Jacobs ran to her rival. Probably for the first time in her life the Jacobs arm was flung impetuously over the Moody shoulder. She begged Mrs. Moody to go on. But Queen Helen, ever unemotional, simply said she couldn't. And, according to Mr. Merrihew, there never need be congratulations after a default. There was no word of congratulation. Miss Jacobs, distress written in her face, ran from the court, queen of tennis. It was her second empty victory.

Champion Again, but Is It Empty Honor?

For a second year she'll be national tennis champ. And for a second year there'll be plenty of arguments as to whether or not she really could or could not win from Mrs. Moody if the dowager queen of tennis were in good condition.

Later when she recovered her equilibrium Miss Jacobs explained that she thought Mrs. Moody did exactly right to default if she were ill—but, she added, "Had I been in Mrs. Moody's place I would have gone through to the end." What Helen Jacobs says aloud is important, but what she leaves unsaid is even more important.

Forest Camps Guard Against Fire Menace

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Butternut Lake, Argonne National Forest, Wis., Sept. 5.—On a small tree not more than ten or twelve inches in diameter which stands about 150 feet from the northern end of Butternut lake there is a hand painted, wooden sign which reads "Liar's Corner." Yesterday morning a 12¾ pound wall eyed pike measuring slightly more than 32 inches in length was draped over this sign which has a particular appeal to fishermen. The suggestion from this sign and its fishy decoration is quite obvious. Better hang up the big ones as evidence rather than try to make people believe your story.

The fish came from Butternut lake, a bass lake which has no business producing 12 pound wall eyes. As far as we can learn a few pike taken from Seven Mile lake, which is between the town of Three Lakes and Butternut lake, were dumped into Butternut about ten years ago. Fortunately the wall eyes haven't taken over the lake and made it primarily a pike lake. Occasionally a good sized specimen is obtained.

Visits C. C. C. Forest Camp.

If the fishermen who are after the big pike and bass in Franklin, Butternut, Seven Mile, McKinley, and other lakes which are set down here in the timber northeast of Three Lakes are willing to give up their fishing tackle for a few hours they can get a close-up of some of Uncle Sam's C. C. C. camps and learn how the workers are fighting fires and improving the national forests. We visited the Nine Mile camp of the C. C. C. the other morning to see what the boys were doing under the direction of United States forest rangers who supervise the squads in the timber work.

Maj. O. G. Pitz, officer in charge of the seven C. C. C. camps in Argonne forest, was in the headquarters tent when we arrived. Close at hand was A. V. Wiggins, a tall, bronzed ranger of the forestry service. Even before we had time to walk around the camp itself the talk turned to fires. With northern Wisconsin suffering from a severe drought and with the country as dry as tinder, forest fires may start anywhere, sending a roaring mass of flames through the brush.

On Watch for Fires.

Thus the C. C. C. boys, aside from their actual work in improving the Argonne forest, are getting their share of work in the heated, smokey, choking atmosphere of a forest fire. Fire tours, a network of telephones connecting all the sources of men and information in the forest, many miles of new roads and fire lanes, and a fighting force which can be mustered into service on quick notice are on the side of Uncle Sam in his campaign against fires in this region.

FRISCH, WILSON AT OUTS? NOT SO! THEY STATE

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Despite widespread rumors to the contrary, all is harmony between Manager Frankie Frisch and Jimmy Wilson, veteran catcher, of the St. Louis Cardinals, both insisted today.

It had been rumored the two veterans, close friends in the days Gabby Street managed the Cards, had split and that Wilson probably would not be with the club next year.

"Why, there's nothing to that report," Wilson said. "I don't know how it got out and it's news to me."

"Those reports are just so much bunk," Frisch said.

BEARS PREPARE STRONG OFFENSE FOR ALL-STARS

Pros to Test Notre Dame Alumni Team.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 5.—"The best squad of players the Bears ever had."

Such is the verdict of George Halas, head coach of the north side eleven, now in training here at Notre Dame university, and his assistant, Laurie Walquist, who, like Halas, played at Illinois and then with the Bears.

The opinion of these men, if further verification of their judgment is necessary, coincides with that of Hunk Anderson, head coach at Notre Dame, who will direct a squad of former Irish against the Bears at Soldiers' field on the afternoon of Sept. 16.

Talent Is Plentiful.

"Our problem," Halas continued his discussion of the material from which he hopes to fashion a team which will successfully defend the National league championship, "is to determine whom we will drop from the squad to conform with the league's twenty-two player limit. We have weight, speed, kickers, passers—in short, all it takes to win games. Unless we run into a lot of bad luck, such as injuries, we should be right at the top when December comes."

The Bears will scrimmage for the first time tomorrow morning. The boys now have been at camp long enough to get into condition—fine condition, judging by their workout today—and the battle will be on tomorrow to see who stays on the pay roll.

Luke Johnsos, who paired with Bill Hewitt last season to make about the best set of ends in the league, is the only absentee who is not accounted for. Red Grange and Keith Molesworth have set the dates for their arrivals, but Johnsos has given no indication of his plans. It has been the same story each fall, however, and probably he is waiting for a salary adjustment. In the meantime he says he doesn't care whether he plays this year or not.

Four Center Candidates.

Four men are seeking the center job, and for the first time since the Bears opened play on the north side George Trafton is not included in the list of candidates. Ookie Miller, 1931 Purdue center, who carried most of the burden last year, and Bert Pearson, a four year pro veteran from Kansas State, are back. Ed Kawal, one time Morton High school basketball and football star, who had one year at Illinois before migrating to Pennsylvania Military, and Dick Smith of East Chicago, Ind., who was regular center at Ohio State for three years, are the others.

There was nothing lacking at guard last year, and the same men will be back. This list includes Joe Kopcha, Jules Carlson, Gil Bergerson, and Pearson, who occasionally doubled at that position. In addition there are Paul [Tiny] Engebretsen, at tackle last year, and Joe Zeller of Indiana university, who played last fall, his first year in the professional league, with the Green Bay Packers.

Halas has tried to strengthen the team at tackle, and he certainly has succeeded. Bill Buckler and Lloyd Burdick, veterans, are back. So is Roy [Link] Lyman after a season of rest riding around his ranch. Lyman has played ten years of professional football since leaving Nebraska, but he will be invaluable when he nudges his opponents with his 246 pounds.

Musso Weighs 257 Pounds.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 5.—The bond market was weak today, even weaker than indicated by the averages of the various classifications for the reason that many second grade issues not included in these compilations lost considerable ground. A sizable list of domestic corporation bonds and foreign loans dropped 1 to 4 points. The turnover was small, amounting to less than $8,500,000.

United States government bonds were more active than usual, with transactions amounting to nearly one million dollars. Closing prices for the active issues, other than registered bonds, ranged from up 4-32ds point to off 2-32ds.

In sharp contrast to the losses in some sections of the foreign list French government bonds mounted half a point to 1¼ points, and French municipal loans jumped 2¼ to 6 points on the day. All of the Dutch East Indies issues climbed 1⅛ to 3⅞ points to new highs. Kingdom of Italy 7s advanced a point.

The major sufferers in the foreign group were the obligations of the Argentine government, Cuban government issues in the light of the new political disorders on the island, and German issues. The German government 7s fell 1⅞ points and the 5½s were down ¾ point.

Railroad bonds of the lower credit ratings showed the principal losses in the domestic corporation group.

U. S. JUDGE PUTS J. L. MARKS & CO. IN RECEIVERSHIP

Federal Judge John T. Barnes yesterday appointed M. M. Martin receiver for J. L. Marks & Co., investment house with offices at 330 North La Salle street. Attorney Michael Gesus, representing Marks, estimated assets of $100,000 and liabilities of $1,000,000.

Assets will be liquidated for the benefit of creditors. The company sold stocks on an installment basis. It operated 4 branch offices in Indiana. The security license of the company in Illinois was cancelled last month by Security Commissioner Ruppert F. Bippus.

Colgate-Palmolive-Peet.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly forward to me information on Colgate-Palmolive-Peet?—B. B. H.

Answer: Colgate-Palmolive-Peet company is the second largest domestic unit in the soap industry. Most important lines from the point of volume are laundry and general purpose soaps while the specialties, such as shaving creams, talcum powders, cleansing creams, etc., are the most profitable.

The company has signed the President's reemployment agreement pending adoption of a code for the industry. This necessitated employment of 500 to 600 additional men.

Sales volume for the first half of 1933 declined only about 15 per cent from the first half of 1932, but net profit was $765,000, or less than one cent per common share, against net of $1,031,000, or 13 cents per common share, for the first half of 1932. First quarter operations this year were unprofitable, due to write-offs and unfavorable conditions.

Tonnage sales in 1932 dropped 5 per cent and dollar volume was down 25 per cent. This drop, together with inventory losses and refunds to distributors to compensate them for lower prices, cut net income to $53,000, or only 21 cents per preferred share, against net of $7,598,000, or $3.12 per common share, for 1931. Net for 1930 equaled $3.76 per common share, against $4.03 for 1929.

On June 30, 1933, cash assets of better than $14,000,000 compared with current liabilities of $5,069,000. Inventories were carried at cost of $14,651,000, which was less than market value.

There is no funded debt. Capitalization consists of 254,500 shares of 6 per cent $100 par preferred and 1,999,970 no par common shares.

The April 21, 1933, common dividend was omitted, although regular dividends are being paid on the preferred. The chairman of the board and the president of the company are giving their services for a $1 a year until dividends on the common are resumed.

Price Differential.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly tell me why there is such a variation in price between U. S. Liberty 4th 4¼s 1933-'38 and the Treasury 4¼s 1947-'52?—H. V. F.

Answer: The 4th 4¼s of 1933-'38 are subject to call on six months' notice. This factor acts as a brake on any upward market tendency. On the other hand the 4¼s of 1947-'52 are not subject to call prior to 1947.

There is no temptation on the part of a prospective purchaser of government bonds to pay much of a premium over par for a bond when he knows that the bond may be called at par on short notice.

ROOSEVELT, AIDS ADVISE BANKS TO LOAN FREELY

Insist Nation Needs Increased Credit.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

President Roosevelt and other administration leaders yesterday called upon the banks of the nation to get behind the "new deal" and lend money more liberally to industries under the Blue Eagle.

Delegates to the annual convention of the American Bankers association in session at the Stevens hotel were veritably deluged with exhortations from Washington to cease striving for liquidity and start to loan to business men and industries that up to the present time the banks have regarded as unsatisfactory risks.

In addition to a direct message from President Roosevelt another letter was read to the delegates by Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Mr. Jones himself made a spirited address which was packed with thinly veiled insinuations that if the banks didn't speed up their lending ways would be found to force them to do so.

Black Talks of "New Era."

Following the Jones speech Gov. Eugene R. Black of the federal reserve board told the bankers that the "new deal" had brought a "new era," that the present supply of money was ample for all needs, and that the reserve authorities aim to force "credit expansion" and that the reserve people were going to see that money and credit find employment.

Under this barrage of orders and exhortations the bankers had little to say. They applauded the speakers and cheered the President's message, but it was apparent that most of them had doubts concerning the program of stimulating business recovery by forcing bank loans.

In private discussions and cloakroom sessions after the talks they raised many questions and expressed many doubts. It was apparent that the bank runs of last February were still uppermost in their minds and that liquidity was still a sweet word.

Roosevelt Offers Partnership.

President Roosevelt in the letter relayed to the delegates by Mr. Jones said:

"Please present my compliments to the convention and say to its members that I am relying upon their full cooperation in the recovery program and am confident that I am going to have it.

"The government needs the willing and confident coöperation of its banks and is willing to go into partnership with them on a limited dividend basis, permitting the banks to end the partnership at will, but in the meantime making it easy for them to furnish the credit necessary for the recovery program. I am sorry that I cannot myself go to the bankers' convention."

The President's mention of "government partnership" with banks was fully explained by Mr. Jones, who laid before the bankers the administration plan to loosen up bank loans by providing the banks, including big city institutions, with RFC funds through purchase of their preferred stock by the government agency.

President's Message.

In his direct message to the convention the President said:

"We still have much to accomplish in making credit facilities adequate for the national recovery we are bringing about. The banks must play an important part in making increased loans to industry and commerce.

"After a period of drastic liquidation such as we have experienced it requires unusual courage and judgment to appraise security and to extend credit. The vital importance of helping the wheels of industry to turn by putting savings to gainful use must receive increasing and immediate attention.

"Loans can and will be made. I want you to know that we rely on your organization for its coöperation in furthering the free flow of credit so essential to business enterprises, whether they be large or small. Only if this is done can employers do their part in the great recovery program now under way.

"Never before in the history has this nation had greater need of courageous bankers. I am relying on them for prompt realization of the changes now taking place in general conditions and of their part in the revival of economic activities and increased employment of workers. I am confident that you will work with me to meet the credit needs of industry and trade."

Jones Explains Message.

"What the President wants the banks to do," he said, "is to strengthen their capital positions and do a banking business in a normal way, furnishing credit where credit is needed, based upon a solvent going country."

What the banks need, he asserted, is more capital and the RFC proposes to remedy that deficiency by buying preferred stocks in banks, and where state laws prevent the issuance of preferred stock, by lending money to the banks on capital notes—the program to be carried out on a grand scale.

"Be smart for once," said Chairman Jones. "Take the government in partnership with you, and then go partners with the President in the recovery program without stint.

"Every other business is required to perform under the NRA—why not

Uncle Sam Takes Role of Delphic Oracle

When is a bank loan slow, doubtful, or worthless? That is the question that is itching the minds of bankers who heard R.F.C. Chairman Jones and Reserve Board Chairman Black yesterday at the bankers' convention.

"We were told that we must extend 'promotional type loans' in order to do our part in the business recovery program," one delegate exploded, "but what does the bank examiner tell us when he comes around? One branch of the government is urging us to make speculative loans while another branch is constantly bearing down on us to call loans which we believe are sound, but may be a little slow.

One group of visiting bankers enjoyed a taste of genuine Chicago hospitality yesterday when they went into a restaurant near their hotel and were greeted in a loud voice by the proprietor: "Strangers, I don't know your names, but that don't matter. We don't limit you to beer, and you don't have to sneak into a speakeasy to get something else. Boys, this is the first open saloon in Chicago. Name your poison."

"I don't mind missing most of these speeches," a delegate in the back row remarked, "but with the government telling us how to run our business I want at least to hear what the officials have to say."

The tendency to "blame the banker" for what has taken place in the last four years is noticably weaker. That was the reassuring word given to the delegates at the convention by Dr. Harold Stonier, educational director of the association.

Gov. Black of the reserve board prefaced his speech yesterday with: "I've never read a speech before in my life, but I guess I'd better read this one." After reading a page or two, however, he put the manuscript down saying, "I guess I've gone far enough to be safe in giving you the rest without reading." "Uncle Gene," as he is known to old timers in the banking business, got a big hand.

The guaranty of deposits continued to be a principal topic of conversation among bankers yesterday. Most big city bankers condemn it. Support for the plan among bankers comes mostly from banks in small cities or rural districts and western banks which have been paying more than 3 per cent on savings deposits. Some of them figure that their share of the guaranty fund expense will be offset by savings as a result of the new federal reserve board ruling limiting interest on savings deposits to 3 per cent.

The delegates applauded enthusiastically when informed that Craig Hazlewood, vice president of the First National bank of Chicago and former president of the American Bankers association, had recovered from his recent illness. They voted to send him flowers and a congratulatory note.

QUEBEC WANTS NONE OF CANADIAN CENTRAL BANK; FEARS POLITICS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

QUEBEC, Que., Sept. 5.—Quebec is utterly opposed to a central bank being founded in Canada, for the reason that politics would play too great a part in it, members of the royal banking commission were told here today by trade leaders.

R. F. Stockwell, provincial treasurer of Quebec, but speaking as an individual, expressed the opinion that there was more to be lost than gained through establishment of a central bank. No matter what efforts were made to keep it free of politics, he said, if one province received aid and another was refused, the question of political affiliation would certainly creep in.

Ill feeling among the provinces would result from establishment of such a bank, it was asserted by the treasurer, whose views were echoed by other speakers.

Representatives of the Quebec board of trade, boot and shoe manufacturers forest products commission, and federation of savings banks also opposed establishment of a dominion central bank.

Today's meeting, presided over by Lord MacMillan, chief justice for Scotland and head of the royal bank commission, was the first held in Quebec province. Tomorrow the commissioners proceed to Montreal to hear views expressed there.

Reserve Banks Loans Show Little Change

While bankers were being told yesterday to loosen up in granting loans the weekly report on member banks was made public showing that bank credit was virtually at a standstill last week.

Loans and investments of member banks in 90 leading clearing house cities rose only two millions in the week ended Wednesday while commercial loans actually dropped off one million. Collateral loans was the only classification to show an appreciable gain, the increase amounting to 29 millions. This gain was offset by a reduction of 26 millions in security investments.

There was an indicated expansion of 36 millions in gross deposits. Details on the member banks in 90 leading cities follow [in millions]:

BANKERS RESENT FEDERAL PRODS TO BOOST LOANS

Ayres Urges Giving Only Sound Credit.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Criticism of the government's policy of coercing bankers to liberalize their loaning policies was voiced yesterday at the American Bankers' convention by Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust company and chairman of the association's economic policy commission.

At the same session, Francis H. Sisson, retiring president of the association, told the bankers that natural forces are proving the most important factors in the healing process taking place in the country's economic life.

The Cleveland banker said he was apprehensive over the government's campaign to force banks to loosen up their purse strings.

"The commission," he asserted, "views with apprehension the propaganda now being featured in the public press which brings pressure upon bankers to adopt ultra liberal loaning policies in support of the recovery campaign now under way.

Demands Safety of Deposits.

"The objectives of the recovery campaign justify all the support that banks can rightfully give, but they justify it just so long as that support involves only good banking and does not jeopardize the funds of depositors. Even in these times each loan should be considered on its merits and only granted when the credit of the borrower justifies it."

Ayres urged that the government delay the setting up of the bank deposit guarantee corporation provided for by the last congress until "an adequate study can be made of the probable effects that would follow." He warned that many banks that are now gaining strength rapidly would be unable to qualify under the plan by the first of the year, and that examinations required under the law cannot be completed by that time.

Sisson Talks on Recovery.

The statement of Mr. Sisson on the paramount importance of purely natural forces in the recovery came in the opening address of the convention. The association president is vice president of the Guaranty Trust company of New York.

"The present value of some of these political measures to stimulate public courage and also as guides to natural processes of reconstruction and readjustment which appear to be speeded up by them is unquestioned," Sisson declared. "However, it appears reasonable to believe that more fundamental processes, belonging to the school of natural economic actions and reactions, are performing the ma-

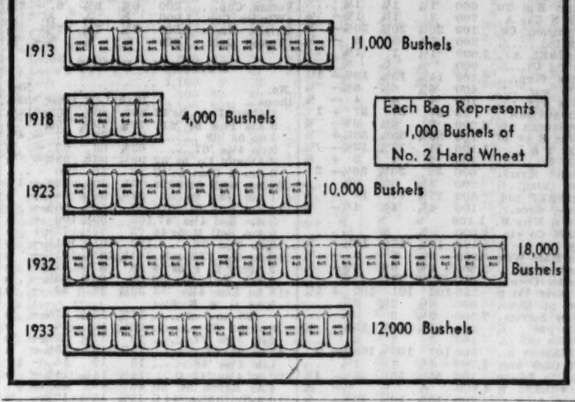
How Higher Prices Have Lightened Debts Somewhat

How Much Wheat It Would Take to Pay a $10,000 Debt Aug. 30 of Each Year



All Grains Sag; Speculators Ignore Bullish World News

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Outside interest in the grain markets is subnormal, and this condition was regarded as largely responsible for a sharp decline in all grains yesterday in the face of what the trade construed as decidedly constructive news.

Wheat opened as much as 1 cent higher on strength in Liverpool over the holidays and on dry weather and frost reports from Argentina. December wheat dropped 3⅛ cents from the early high of 90¾ cents, an accumulation of hedging sales both sides of the international line quickly satisfying the small buying. Action of stocks and cotton in easing also deterred buyers from taking hold freely.

All Grains Close Lower.

Numerous small reactions were witnessed in all grains but the undertone was heavy the greater part of the day. Wheat closed 1½ to 1⅞ cents lower, with September at 83⅞ to 84 cents, December 88¼ to 88⅝ cents and May 92¼ to 92⅝ cents. Corn was off ¾ to 1⅝ cents, although September showed the most strength, finishing at 47⅞ cents. December was 52⅞ to 53 cents.

Oats were off ⅝ to ⅞ cent, with September 36⅝ cents and December 39⅝ cents. There was selling of wheat against purchases of rye but the latter led the decline and closed 2⅛ to 2½ cents lower. September was 69 cents and December 74¾ cents at the last. Barley lost 1¾ to 2¼ cents on scattered selling, with December closing at 54⅞ cents, or only 6 cents above the lowest price quoted for feed barley in the local sample market.

World Crop News Bullish.

Practically all of the news on wheat was construed as of a bullish character, but it was ignored except for a brief period early. Liverpool closed 1½ to 1⅝ cents higher than Friday. The Australian outlook is for a yield well below that of last year.

Temperatures as low as 19 degrees above zero were reported in the Peace river district in northern Canada, ending the crop growing season in that area and causing some damage, according to private reports. The Searle Grain company of Winnipeg estimated the wheat crop of the three provinces at 269,000,000 bushels, against 408,000,000 bushels harvested last year.

A big export business was under way in Canadian wheats with sales estimated at 3,500,000 to 4,000,000 bushels in all positions over the holidays. Removal of hedges against this grain ran into heavy sales against purchases in the country by line elevator interests.

Winnipeg wheat closed ¼ to ⅝ of a cent lower.

DOLLAR MOVES UP IN GOLD, BUT DIPS AGAINST POUND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 5.—[Special.]—The dollar was irregular in terms of the leading foreign exchange rates today. However, in terms of most of the gold standard currencies the dollar was higher. On the basis of the French franc, which closed at 5.65 cents, off 4 points, the dollar showed an indicated value of 69.34 cents, compared with 69 cents Saturday.

The pound sterling advanced 2¼ cents, closing at $4.56½, the Scandinavian exchanges were up 5 points, while the guilder was off 15 points, and the lira 4 points.

STOCKS SLUMP AS NEW DOUBTS ASSAIL TRADERS

Fear Commodity Rise Will Hurt Trade.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 5.—Sharply lower prices prevailed on the New York Stock exchange today. Traders back from their triple holiday diversions found any number of reasons for being down in the mouth, some of them being the disappointing decline in the railroad car loadings figure; the outlook for still lower steel operations, warnings that retail trade might be expected to slow up with the promulgation of the long heralded price advances, and a general feeling that the NRA program is not going to work the wonders for business that its sponsors anticipated for it.

All groups of shares were under more or less pressure and the net loss ranged anywhere from 1 to more than 6 points. Railroad, alcohol, mining, and farm implement shares came in for the worst end of the drubbing. The gold issues were up for a while in the early dealings, but quickly melted down.

Support Is Half Hearted.

There was some evidence of support at intervals for a number of pivots, particularly United States Steel, but the buying was a half hearted affair and did not appear to have much mettle.

One saving feature of the day from the bull viewpoint was the extreme dullness. Only about 1,253,000 shares were traded in during the whole five hours, making the session about the most listless for any one after Labor day since 1924.

Up to the middle of the afternoon, when the selling movement began to gain momentum, only a handful of stocks had displayed enough activity to attract any special attention. One of the favored few was Collins & Aikman, which succeeded in holding to the plus sign of the line on buying ascribed to an early tip to buy. An advance in some of the company's products was supposed to be the reason for the sudden popularity of this issue.

Homestake Rises and Falls.

In the gold mining group Homestake went to a new high of $305 a share, but succeeded in keeping its lofty perch only a few minutes. The close found it back to 299, which represented a net loss of 4 points on the day. Alaska Juneau also lost a point. United States Steel acted several times as if it were disposed to climb to its previous closing level, but its rallies were short lived and the finish found the old bellwether nearly 2 points below its Friday night rating. Still an-

in this old institution's conduct of its business

METHODS in affairs of trust or commercial banking change—improve with the years. Relatively they are not important.

Back of the methods of The Northern Trust Company are certain simple principles. These are permanent. They look to the interest of those who trust and depend upon this institution.

In a practical sense, these time-established concepts are The Northern Trust Company.

The conservative firms and individuals that bring their commercial banking accounts here find these principles in accord with their own business ideas. They discover that the banking officers think in harmony with them.

Similarly in the Trust Department. An unchanging policy—a full acceptance of the trust obligation—protects the families this institution serves as executor or trustee.

People who save at this bank are assured, as are the other depositors, a consistent policy of conservatism in caring for their funds.

The Northern Trust Company invites the business of additional firms and individuals that find satisfaction in this conservative type of financial service. Complete departments of Banking, both for Commercial and Personal Checking Accounts, Trust, Savings, Bond and Safe Deposit are at your command.

IOWA FARMERS IMPATIENT OF FEDERAL PLANS

Assert City Business Gets Quicker Action.

BY PAUL POTTER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 5—[Special.]—Cornbelt farmers have taken off the rose colored spectacles with which they were looking at the prices of crops early this summer. And if the recent declarations of a half dozen farm organizations in the cornbelt correctly picture the situation, the farm adjustment act has failed to keep pace with its companion measure, the national industrial recovery act, and "farmers have lost patience with the delays in bringing back prewar parity for farm prices."

The Iowa Farm Bureau federation, long known as a conservative body of farmers, has wired Secretary Wallace that dissatisfaction is rife in his home state, urged the "speeding up" of restorative measures for farm products in the cornbelt and suggested that minimum prices be set for corn, hogs and other products to come under a national production control program.

Supplies Rise; Hogs Decline.

While there have been two million unemployed put back to work under the NRA and prices of many things the farmer buys have advanced according to the Farmers' Union the price of hogs has dropped 50 cents a hundredweight.

Milo Reno, stormy petrol of the Farmers' National Holiday association, is joining with fiery farm leaders in the northwest states in calling for strikes as the only remaining weapon of the farmer to make his demands heard. Reno is capitalizing on the delays in reappraising Iowa farm land by the federal farm credit administration, caused by a shortage of men of experience in such work, to stir up the farmers who were promised relief from closed banks and farm foreclosures.

There are still more than 700 banks in Iowa whose doors are unopened since the national moratorium in March. Most of them are listed with "frozen assets" in the form of farm paper, the thawing of which is taking several months under the farm credit administration.

Seek to Force Output Curb.

Several county farm groups have held meetings here in the last fortnight to voice demands that the production control measure of the government, now on a voluntary basis, be made compulsory on every farmer. The farmers who sign contracts to reduce their acreage fear that those who do not will benefit in the next three years, if prices rise.

The Iowa Swine Producers' association and the state farm bureau have gone on record in favor of inflation as necessary to bring up farm prices. In regional meetings of these organizations the speakers point out that prices of cotton shirts, overalls and flour have gone up because of the government's processing tax to aid the wheat and cotton farmer. They point out that dairy products, meat animals, poultry and other major sources of farm income are no higher than they were a year ago and in some cases are lower.

The idea of compulsory reduction of crops, plus price fixing, is developing among the farmers here from reports that under the NRA the oil, auto and other industries are fixing minimum prices and are boosting prices to consumers, under the sign of the blue eagle.

COTTON PRICES DECLINE TO LOW SINCE AUGUST 17

Heaviest hedging pressure of the season developed in cotton yesterday and with scattered liquidation and private estimates suggesting a larger crop than a month ago prices dropped steadily, and closed at the lowest levels of the day. Chicago and New Orleans were off 41 to 44 points equal to $2.05 to $2.20 per bale while New York was 37 to 44 points lower.

The government report will be issued Sept. 8 and the trade is now prepared for a bearish report. Spot cotton was 35 to 45 points lower with New York, 9.10 cents; New Orleans, 8.95 cents; Galveston, 8.70 cents and Houston, 8.75 cents. Liverpool closed 11 to 14 points lower. Prices follow:

LARD WEAKENS AFTER MAKING STRONG START

Provisions made a strong start and a tame finish, lard being 5 @ 15 cents lower at the close. Late decline in grains, stocks and cotton more than offset the effect of strength in hogs, and brought in sufficient selling to cause a break at the close.

Bellies were unsettled, with September closing 15 cents higher due to light offerings while the distant futures were 5 to 15 cents lower, while cash lots were 12½ cents lower at $5.87. Cash lard was quoted at $5.42 with loose at $4.80 and leaf at $4.75. Cash demand was reported as quiet. Prices follow:

ROOSEVELT, AIDS ADVISE BANKERS TO LOAN FREELY

banks—all banks? Not merely by raising the salaries of a few underpaid clerks, but in providing credit and performing the normal functions of a bank.

"Some of you big city bankers should head the list, not because you necessarily need the capital, though some of your deposits are out of proportion to your capital, but because the deposits of the country gravitate to you and the country banker takes his cue from you, so you have a double responsibility."

Mr. Jones would have the federal government not only direct the banks, but own stock in all of them.

"I would like to see every bank in the United States become an honor bank, a double eagle bank, a bank in which the United States government had a direct stock interest, not as a permanent matter, but until we have entirely forgotten the evils and the tragedies and the heartaches that have followed bank closings."

Hits Buying of Securities.

The RFC theory of sound banking, Mr. Jones disclosed, is that banks should pay more attention to local credit needs in their territory and forget investments in securities.

"One of the worst sins of banking in recent years," he continued, "was this draining of deposits out of country banks by investing in securities, foreign and otherwise, not necessarily bonds of foreign countries, but securities foreign to the locality and foreign to good banking principles. Shall we repeat this or shall we look more to the local or home unit?"

These remarks coincided with Gov. Black's later reminder to the bankers that under the banking act of 1933 the federal reserve board possesses several new levers to prevent use of bank funds for speculation, levers which he said would be used.

The possibility that the RFC may not see eye to eye with the treasury department on bank liquidity arose when Mr. Jones gave his opinion of the desirable degree of liquidity.

Slow Loans May Not Be Bad.

"Banks can be perfectly sound even though they may accumulate a substantial amount of slow loans," he said, "and the mere fact that a loan stays in a bank for some time, even for several years, does not mean that it could not be collected on short notice if necessary.

"With deposit insurance there will not be the occasion for such extreme liquidity as some banks have felt necessary, and if 25, or 30, or 40, or even 50 per cent liquidity could be adopted as sound constructive banking, bank management and bank supervision would have a standard to go by.

"There is inconsistency in one branch of the government asking the banks to lend and to coöperate in the recovery program, while another branch insists upon further liquidation."

If the banks won't lend, he intimated, the government will go further into the loan business.

Threaten U. S. May Lend.

"We have made mistakes enough," Mr. Jones said, "and in all probability will make just as many in the future, but let us not make the mistake of continuing the policy of drying up credit and forcing the government further into the banking business."

"We will probably think of that if and when new banking legislation is obtained, deposits, in addition to being insured, will be limited in some safe proportion to unimpaired capital. This certainly should be the law."

The bankers were told that if they didn't need money to lend they should at least sell preferred stock to the government and then buy government bonds with the new money.

Black Explains "New Era."

Gov. Black of the reserve board explained the various cards of the new deal and how they were putting dollars to work.

"I have narrated these efforts to prove that we are in a new era," he said. "The banks and the reserve banks must realize that they are operating under conditions never existent before and with forces that are new and controlling, and if they are to succeed they must accord themselves with these conditions and these forces.

"If our function is peculiarly a credit function we must perform it under these conditions and in line with these forces.

"We are trying to force money to seek investment, to find employment, to go to work in behalf of industry, commerce, and agriculture. Our open market operations are all to that end.

"We are trying to keep step with every legitimate demand for credit within the realm of the full recovery program. I think the bank's problem is the same as ours and the bank's policy should be the same.

"I wouldn't ask any bank to make any loan that in the judgment of its officers it should not make—but I do think that in the new era we must get away from an exclusive investment or collateral lending policy and get back to the basis of commercial lending.

Recovery Based on Credit.

"That period of fear is gone. The hysteria is past. The banking system has been largely purged. Confidence has returned. Now courage must make successful our banking policies and if we fail in supplying the legitimate demand of credit the recovery program must fail and we'll fall with it. I have absolute faith that this will not happen, but that the new banking system will do its full part.

"Much discussion has been had as to the guaranty of deposits provision. I do not care to dodge that discussion—as far as the board is concerned, it is the law. Its success or failure in the purpose for which the law was made admittedly must depend upon the quality of its enforcement.

"The law fixes the condition of membership upon the possession by each applying bank of assets adequate to meet its liabilities to depositors and other creditors. In fairness to each member of the fund no bank should be admitted to membership unless its assets meet this requirement."

CHICAGO RENTS OF DRUG CHAIN ARE CUT DOWN

Liggett Company Obtains Revised Store Leases.

An echo of the recent dissolution of Drug, Inc., into five independent operating companies was heard in the county recorder's office yesterday with the recording of amended leases on four loop stores operated by Liggett Drug Stores, Inc., a subsidiary of United Drug, Inc.

The amended leases transferred the guarantees of terms from Drug, Inc., to the five independent companies and at the same time reduced the annual rentals 10 per cent for the three year period from Sept. 1, 1933, to Aug. 31, 1936.

The companies which took over the leases are Sterling Products, Inc., United Drug, Inc., Vick Chemical corporation, the Bristol-Myers company and the Life Savers corporation. United Drug, Inc., operates drug store chains of which the Liggett group forms a part.

Old Buck & Raynor Group.

All the stores on which leases were amended yesterday formed a part of the old Buck & Raynor group, which was purchased by Liggett's in 1928. The Liggett company also bought the business of the McLean Drug company and the Owl Drug company, and opened other stores in various parts of the city.

Liggett Drug Stores, Inc., and the Louis K. Liggett company in New York City, the parent company, filed a petition in bankruptcy here and in New York on March 31. The Chicago unit listed liabilities of $2,558,000 and assets of $338,000. When the bankruptcy actions were filed it was indicated that the high rentals in the face of declining business were a contributing factor.

The Liggett company said that the company's largest item was rent and that it had made every effort to secure reductions. In addition, it was the company had nearly 1,000 subtenants, some of whom got into financial difficulties and many failed to pay their rents.

Terms of New Leases.

Under the amended leases the lessees will pay a rental of $8,625 per month instead of $9,583 for the store at the northwest corner of State and Monroe streets. The lessors are Louis Eckstein, the estate of Louis Stumer and others. The lessees will pay a monthly rental of $7,500 instead of $8,333 for the store at the southwest corner of State and Madison streets for three years. They will pay $6,000 per month instead of $6,666 for the store at 200 South State street and $3,562 instead of $3,958 for the store at 147 North Clark street.

The original lease were for twenty years and one month from June 1, 1928, and were made by B. & R. Drug Stores, Inc., a subsidiary of Buck & Raynor, Inc., with the Liggett chain.

CHICAGOANS ASK U. S. AID TO FORM BUILDING—LOAN

Approval Likely; Expect to Do General Business.

An application by a group of Chicago business men to organize a building and loan association under the federal home loan act was approved yesterday by A. R. Gardner, manager of the Federal Home Loan bank of Evanston. Final action is taken by the Federal Home Loan board at Washington. Inasmuch as the board at Washington acts on the recommendation of the local manager, it was stated yesterday that final approval is likely.

The group which is seeking to organize the association includes the following: C. W. Tower, president C. W. Tower & Co., mortgages; George C. Hager, vice president and secretary, Consumers company; Nathaniel Leverone, president, Automatic Canteen company; Raymond K. Mathewson, real estate operator; Loy N. McIntosh, attorney; John B. Reynolds, president Rotary club of Chicago and connected with Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance company; Lawrence D. Smith, secretary and treasurer, White Towers, Inc.; Herbert J. Taylor, chairman of the board, National Home service, and H. Stanley Wanzer, vice president Sidney Wanzer & Sons.

Seek Name as First.

In its application filed last May the group asked that the name First Federal Savings and Loan association be granted. Whether this will be done is not yet known.

Under the terms of the home loan act the government agrees to match each amount subscribed in stock of an association up to $100,000.

MEN.

WHAT IS YOUR FUTURE? ARE YOU GETTING AHEAD? ARE YOU ON THE ROAD TO INDEPENDENCE IN YOUR TRADE OR PROFESSION? CAN YOU EXPECT TO SUCCEED? CAN YOU EXPECT TO MAKE FROM $40.00 TO $100.00 A WEEK IN 1933? IF NOT, INVESTIGATE THIS OFFER OF FREE INSPECTION AND IMMEDIATE EMPLOYMENT. WE HAVE NOTHING TO SELL YOU.

We will take on additional men who wish to learn to do this work and who can get along on earnings of $35.00 to $40.00 a week while studying and practicing. We will train such men free. We will furnish full equipment with no deposit required. There is no expense. No previous experience in any kind of selling is necessary. If you are capable of understanding and following instruction, if you are one who likes to practice to learn skill and judgment in what he does, and if you are willing to work for success, then we will give you a chance. We cannot guarantee you that you will be a star, but we do guarantee you a trial with substantial earnings. Practical instruction and guidance.

We have a wonderful invention that renders a very unusual service. Our men are thoroughly trained as to how to conduct our business. Those, we believe, in a personal interview, can qualify, will be given the opportunity to see our invention meeting our men, investigating their earnings, our company, and our entire business methods.

It is not unusual that men in this organization make $25.00 to $50.00 for one day's work.

S. T. formerly a store clerk, made $207.50 the last 3 days of August and $345.75 the last ten days. S. M., formerly a mechanic, made $72.35 the last day of August, and $161.00 the last week—and G. B., one time a broker's clerk, practically duplicated these figures. On a single day, closing last month, J. F., previously a realty salesman, made $71.00—R. A. N., a former grocer, $46.50—L. D., $68.29—E. H. E., $102.72 in 2 days—A. E. R., $42.50. and W. L., $40.51 in 1 day. E. B. G., within 3 hours after leaving training class made $24.41—F. L., a few hours later, equaled this within a few cents—L. H. C., formerly a builder, made over $60.00 in 3 days. Y. T., $55.00, and J. B., $40.00 in 1 day.

This is a straightforward offer of sincere intent to worthy men who are in need of good substantial positions. Please do not apply for these positions unless you can meet the requirements, and the requirements are that you be of neat appearance, between the age of 25 and 40, and good character and reputation and willing to work.

Applicants will be personally interviewed Wednesday, 9 a. m. to 1 p. m., in room 910 Engineering Bldg., 222 N. Wells-st.
